A silver crisis exists in India. Silver is now 50 per cent. below its currency value in the colonial empire.

Dun's review of trade, Feb 10, says: Improvement in business still appears in many directions, but it seems to be in part balanced by loss in others.

C. L. Ricker, of Chicago, brings suit to compel the Secretary of the Treasury to sell him the entire issue of the new bonds.

The Galveston News publishes returns from Texas railroads showing the crop of cotton in that State in 1892-93 to have been only 3,056,066 bales, and indications for the season of 1893-94 to be 1,750,000 bales.

Day by day the tariff agitation approaches the definite result of tariff reform, and day by day more of the unemployed go back to work as more factories start up. It is bad for Republican prophecies, but pleasant for the people.

The most important hearing that the Senate Finance Committee can give on the tariff bill is to the demand of the country for "action, action, action." Another deluge of words would be unendurable.

The people and court of Lebanon, Ind., believe in prompt punishment for crime. Frank Hall, a negro, who criminally assaulted a white woman, a week ago, Saturday, left a noose around his neck three times Monday, placed there by a frenzied woman leading a mob. He was rescued each time by officers and was finally ushered into the courthouse pleaded guilty and was sentenced to twenty-one years in prison.

BONDS.
The great trouble of the country relates to finance. Money with which to defray the expenses of the Government, meet the demands of commerce, and give to the people a circulating medium.

It is no fault of the Democratic party that the treasury is empty. A bankrupt government and an impoverished people is a legacy bequeathed to us by the Republican party. It is true that at the close of the Harrison administration there was a show of prosperity. The country was in the condition of a bank that had been rifled and whose cashier was about to skip before the public had notice of the impending collapse. The condition of a bank becomes known when honest and capable men investigate its affairs; and so it is with a government.

The policy of the Democratic party is to lighten expenses and lift burdens from the necks of the people, but honesty is an essential requisite in all civilized governments, and is no part of the policy of the Democratic party to repudiate debts or violate contracts.

The Secretary of the Treasury recognized the issuing of bonds as a dire necessity. How else could he secure funds with which to meet the obligations of the Government? The passage of the bill to repeal the Sherman law promised but did not bring relief.

Congress has strangely neglected to provide a safe, reliable and abundant currency. Our financial edifice has been undermined, and it must be proped up by any material at hand, or wide-spread ruin is inevitable.

The Secretary of the Treasury did not want to issue bonds. He says: "I did it very reluctantly. I hesitated a long time, sometimes I feared I was waiting too long, but the situation at last became so critical that I felt it my duty, and especially in view of what I regarded as a very uncertain prospect of securing any immediate relief by congressional legislation." Thus it is seen that Mr. Carlisle throws the blame for the issuing of bonds upon Congress.

It was suggested to Mr. Carlisle that the Silver in the Treasury be used. But to his reply that "certificates are outstanding against what we have except about $5,000,000 or $6,000,000."

In answer to a question as to how fast the actual coinage of the seigniors could be pushed, Mr. Carlisle said: "If all other coinage were suspended at the mints we could coin about 4,000,000 silver dollars a month, or $48,000,000 a year." But, this would not be enough and it would come too late.

"Then, you are in favor of bonds." No indeed. We don't like gar, but if there is nothing else to eat, please pass us the gar.

SOUTHERN IMMIGRATION.

To Represent the Immigration and Real Estate Interests of the South.
"There are thousands that would go South if there was some one to start the ball" is what a New England farmer writes to the "Southern States" magazine, of Baltimore. From Minnesota comes a letter giving a long list of names of farmers who want to go South, and with it is expressed the hope, "may God give you success in your laudable work for the benefit of our frozen denizens of the cold Northwest."

And from the same State a farmer writes: "I have got and am getting more real good points regarding the South from one copy of the 'Southern States' than I would have been able to have got in a long, long time had I not chanced to have seen it. The South will beat California for fruit. I have lived in California and know whereof I write."
Such letters as the foregoing are coming to the "Southern States" from New England, from the West and from West and from the Northwest in an ever increasing number. We confess that we have been amazed at the number of these letters and at the great interest that is being aroused in these sections among farmers and others who want to go South, and for the demand for information about the South.

The cry of "Go South" promises to swell to greater volume than even the "Go West" of the past ever reached, if the railroads and the people of the South will now promptly unite in vigorous work to encourage this growing tendency and do it on the same broad scale as has characterized the work of the Western States for many years.

Because of these facts the "Southern States" magazine will henceforth be devoted mainly to the immigration and real estate interests of the South, and at the same time presenting every phase of the South's general attractions and advantages for the home-seeker and the investor with the same energy with which the "Manufacturers' Record" has for ten years labored to push forward the industrial growth and interests of the South.

The "Southern States" magazine will fully cover this field. It will continue from month to month to publish the letters of Northern and Western farmers who have settled in the South, telling of the advantages of this section as compared with their former homes.

These letters are attracting great attention in the North and West. It will set forth the attractions of the South for fruit culture, as well as for every branch of agriculture; it will publish special illustrated articles covering the attractions of the South for the pleasure and health-seeker. Especial attention will be given to the real estate interests of the whole South, and reports made of all important sales anywhere from Maryland to Texas.

The leading feature of the next issue will be a general discussion of how to develop immigration, by some fifteen or twenty of the most prominent railroad officers of the South. Mr. R. H. Edmonds, editor and general manager of the "Manufacturers' Record," is also editor of the "Southern States" magazine.

Mr. C. F. Davis, editor of the Bloomfield, Iowa, Farmer, says: "I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all sufferers with colds and croup. I have used it in my family for the past two years and have found it the best I ever used for the purposes for which it is intended. 50 cent bottles for sale by J. V. Jordan."

Saved by a Gypsy.
An incident of the Austro-Prussian war of 1866 was told by the Archduke Joseph to a party of friends. The story is told as follows in the Neue Pester Journal: On our retreat before the advance of the Prussian army, said the archduke, we camped in the neighborhood of a Bohemian town. I was lodged in a peasant's cottage, when about midnight I heard the sentry challenging some newcomer. My adjutant entered and reported that a gypsy wanted to see me in private. A soldier (a gypsy) entered, and on my asking what was the matter he told me that the enemy was approaching to surprise us.

"The outposts have not heard anything suspicious," I said. "No, your highness, because the enemy is still a long way off." "But how do you know this?" I asked. "Come to the window, your highness," answered the man. "Do you see those birds flying over the wood toward the south?" "Yes, I see them. What then?" "What then? Do not birds sleep as well as men? They certainly would not fly about if they were not disturbed. The enemy is marching through the wood and has frightened all those birds."

"Very well, my lad. You can go." I at once ordered the outposts to be re-enforced and the camp to be alarmed. An hour later the outposts were fighting with the enemy, and our camp was only saved by the keen observation of a simple gypsy.

Mr. Albert Favorite, of Arkansas City, Kan., wishes to give our readers the benefit of his experience with colds. "He says: 'I contracted a cold last spring that settled on my lungs, and had hardly recovered from it when I caught another that hung on all summer and left me with a hacking cough which I thought I never would get rid of. I had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy some fourteen years ago with much success, and concluded to try it again. When I had got through with one bottle my cough had left me, and I have not suffered with a cough or cold since. I have recommended it to others, and all peak walk of it.'" 50 cent bottles for sale by J. V. Jordan.
