NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Howard, J. H. Outler & Co.—To farmers. Wm. S. Kinsey & Co.—Linen ware. Sam'l. Cohn & Son.—Just arrived.

Read the Fair Observer, published in Machinery Hall, and keep posted.

Each train yesterday brought a good number to the Fair.

Praise of the Fair is being heard on the lips of every visitor. Let no one miss the opportunity of attending it.

The Wilmington Naval Reserves and Light Infantry will be here this afternoon.

Two of the inmates of the Goldsboro colored insane asylum became engaged in a fight and one killed the other.

The New York Trades Schools, had another students gathering yesterday, with addresses to the student body by distinguished speakers.

The Northern doctors and medical editors making a tour of the South could accept New Berne's invitation on account of their route being already planned.

"Big Ike" and John Dunn were conspicuously advertised by streamers attached to the balloon yesterday. We'll warrant their advertisements went higher than they ever want to go.

We regret that while being joggled on the track early in the morning Abulalab Chief, owned by Dr. Leinster Duffy, of this city, had the misfortune to strike his quarter and was so lamed as to be unable to enter the race.

"I got fifty cents worth in the first thing I saw, the knitting-factory, remarked one visitor." "It was the first time I had seen anything of the kind and I stood there nearly my whole time and watched the work."

All the banks of the city will be closed tomorrow, Washington's birthday. Owing to its being a holiday, and the Fair going on at the same time, all business houses which can make it practicable to observe it should do so and give all employees the privilege of enjoying the day.

The dog show is a dandy. Jim Cassidy can turn back somersaults faster than a boy can turn cart wheels. He is a perfect wonder. Duke Veragus the gray hound, by measurement, jumped 27 feet and in the same jump went over obstacles higher than a man can reach. Prof. Shedman says he can jump 30 feet in length and fourteen in height.

President Cleveland has jumped from New York to Louisiana in making his nomination for Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court. It fell upon Senator Edward Douglas White, who was immediately confirmed by the Senate, and appears to have given general satisfaction.

A Thousand Dollar "Welcome." "Welcome, Gov. Carr." This beautiful design—the words the circle surrounding them and the scroll ornamentation were all formed of pure gold suggests in the State exhibit.

The total value of those used in it was nearly a thousand dollars. Messrs. Bruner, Strimly and Green deserve credit for the taste displayed in the design and formation.

The Concert Tonight. Miss Marion Radcliff of New Berne, Miss O. Wiley, Mr. H. W. Green and Mr. Edward Rice came in on the steamer Albemarle yesterday. Mr. Preston Miller arrived last night. They are all from the New York conservatory of music and will take part in the musical concert tonight.

This high class entertainment is one of greater merit than we often have with us, and so lover of music should miss the opportunity of attending.

Yesterday's Races. Fazio Mine won the first trotting race for a sum of $200. Time 2:45. His May was second and Another third.

His was the running race. Castle was second.

G. A. B. won the second trotting race. Mania Wells was second.

The race was spirited. Those today will be fine also.

THE FAIR IN FULL BLAST.

LARGEST ATTENDANCE OF ANY TUESDAY IN ITS HISTORY.

The Very Prettiest of Weather and Everything Moving Nicely.

Yesterday was a grand day for the East Carolina Fair. The programme was carried out in every particular and in a very creditable manner.

The parade, the first event of the day was all that could be expected. The speech of Gov. Carr, delighted all, the racing was excellent, the balloon ascension was never equalled around here, the trotting dog was a pleasing novelty, the shows are better than usual, and the exhibits, as we outlined yesterday, are of an exceptionally high order—diversified—abundant, many of them along new lines, and all the vast number of people attending found plenty to keep them busy at sight seeing and enjoying themselves from early morn until the closing hour at night both at the grounds and in the buildings. The only trouble was to keep up with all that going on.

In other words, Tuesday, not generally regarded as a big day was one—it was more like Wednesday generally is, a day of activity both at the grounds and on the streets.

Each regular and special train and the steamers helped sensibly to swell the crowd. The Fair officials say the attendance can safely be put at 3,000—the general estimate is somewhat higher.

Superiority reigns characteristic of the Fair in general, and the States exhibit is not only of a high class but much of it is entirely new to many eastern people. The State has made a wise move in bringing the knowledge of its interior and western resources home to the people of the east, who are comparative strangers to the mining and quarrying industries of our great commonwealth. Not only does this exhibit bring it to the attention of our own people but to many visitors from beyond the borders of the State who would be reached in no other way. We are glad as Carolinians that the exhibit is here.

Coming and Going.

Miss Addie Cox, of Onslow county, is visiting Miss Etta Nunn.

Mr. W. B. Gaskins, of Aurora, has arrived to attend the Fair. He has some fine poultry on exhibition which he sent up last week.

Dr. F. L. Meares, of Wilmington, is registered at Hotel Albert.

Mr. Eugene Poazall, of Greensboro, was one of the arrivals Monday night. He comes not only to visit the Fair but to making arrangements for putting up a good tailoring establishment here—that being his calling—and moving to the city.

R. H. Butler, of the Teygert-Allen Fertilizer Company, Philadelphia, is registered at the Hotel Albert. He leaves Thursday morning.

Mr. Otto Ulrich, of Norfolk, and his sister, Mrs. Geo. Howard, of Baltimore, are visiting Mr. F. Ulrich.

Rev. Father Marion, of Raleigh and Father M. P. Seebal, of Wilmington are attending the Fair.

Rev. F. D. Thomas, of Rocky Mount is in the city.

Basket Willows.

We are informed through the Forestry Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture that five million dollars worth of basket willow material is imported annually into the United States—not willow baskets as inadvertently stated in our issue of yesterday.

Fair Notes.

The cyclists, under the command of Capt. W. T. Hill, made a splendid showing in the parade.

The parade was pronounced by many to have been the best and most orderly ever had at any Fair.

The Naval Division was a new feature in the parade and the boys never acquitted themselves more creditably.

Two additional newspaper men honored the Fair yesterday—Capt. Carraway, of the Richmond Dispatch, and Rev. J. L. Winfield, of the Watch Tower.

The restaurant on the grounds, managed by Messrs. Patterson and Perry, affords a public convenience to those wishing a good meal without leaving the grounds.

The public can get information and lists of the various boarding places in the city by applying at the cigar stand of Mr. John Dunn. It is a neat little structure of pegs, design located between machinery hall and the fair building.

The State's exhibit is a good study to those interested in the gems and mineral resources of North Carolina.

Col. Julius S. Carr, of Durham fame, makes a magnificent exhibit of his various breeds of tobacco. The fern wheel is pronounced a fine representation of the great World's Fair Revolver.

A horrible murder has been committed near Morganton. Wm. Canady, a young man about twenty-five years old was brutally choked and strangled by Phillip Williams. Another party is criminally in the breast.

THE PARADE.

A Fine Success in Every Particular.

The parade programme was well carried out under Chief Marshal Willis. The splendid procession formed at the corner of Broad and Middle streets.

It was composed of the city and visiting police, bicyclists, the Star band, the Naval Reserves acting as escort to the Governor, the carriage containing Gov. Carr and companions, Mayor Ellis and city officials, and citizens in carriages, the New Berne Fire Department with their engines and apparatus all beautifully decorated, the pony parade, the dog show, with the marshals in charge of each and Big Ike's display, making it a procession of ten blocks long.

They paraded the route planned and reached the Fair at the appointed time—something not often done by parades—and then the ceremonies followed.

Up in a Balloon.

And tremendously high up at that was a sight which Fair visitors saw yesterday afternoon.

The ascension came off between three and 4 o'clock. The day was fine for it and so good a one was never known here before.

The balloon used was 82 feet in height, Mrs. De Veau's parachute 23 feet, the dog's 14, and the traps added enough more to make the total height of balloon and attachments as they left the ground, 134 feet.

When a high altitude was reached the parachute holding the dog, Daisy was dropped, it came down just beyond of "Pavictown."

Miss Deveau kept on until a height of six or seven thousand feet was reached, until she looked small as a bird in the sky and then she started for the ground.

The parachute opened quickly, the descent was gradual taking nearly two minutes and the brave navigator of the upper regions reached terra firma just back of the poor house.

We have not found a single person that claims to have ever seen as good an ascension and one whom we heard passing his opinion upon it said he seen a hundred.

The ascension today will take place about the same hour.

The grand balloon feature of the Fair the night ascension is fixed to take place at 8 o'clock tonight.

As the balloon goes up a piece of fire work shown at the World's Fair on the Fourth of July will be fired. It represents the unfurling of an American flag.

And, as Miss Deveau, takes her leap through space the parachute will be illuminated all around its edges, presenting a scene long to be remembered.

THE FORMAL OPENING.

GOV. GARR MAKES A PLAIN AND PRACTICAL TALK ON EAST CAROLINA RESOURCES.

Commands the Undivided Attention of all Around and Was Warmly Applauded.

About noon yesterday the formal opening of the East Carolina Fair took place. Rev. J. T. Lyon, chaplain of the day invoked the divine blessing upon what was done and Mr. P. H. Pelletier, master of ceremonies, in fitting language introduced the distinguished speaker who then delivered the address, a good portion of which we publish this morning, closing it with announcing the Fair open for all.

In many an occasion of the kind, the kind, the interest of the people so center in what is to be seen that the speaker finds it difficult to hold his audience as on an ordinary occasion, but Gov. Carr had no such experience. The address was pointed, sensible, instructive, short and all around listened [with pleased attention and at its close there was a rush of people to congratulate him and then thronged dispersed each to view what was to be seen and the more carefully examine what pleased him most.

GOV. GARR SAID.

It affords me today the greatest pleasure to see here this truly magnificent display of fish, oysters, game and agricultural products of every description, another evidence of North Carolina's progress and industry.

The two former products if I may so term them, have always been of singular interest to me, not only their present condition but their past history.

It would be a dullard indeed who would question the propriety of giving to the oyster a high place in the list of our resources.

I have good reason to believe that no more favorable spot exists anywhere for the prosecution of this comparatively new industry and the assertion is by no means the reckless speculation of an idle fancy. Our opportunities for oyster cultivation are simply unparalleled. In many counties sea bottoms, or rather the bottoms of the shallow waters, have been put under cultivation. The same amount of labor applied to our own would annually produce more oysters than have been taken along our whole shores for the past 25 years.

We have indeed a great future before us in this respect, but it is with this, as with every industry in the world, it can only be developed by the exercise of good judgment, thrift and persistence.

But while nature has been liberal in the matter of the supply of every species of fish, which fairly swarm in the waters of the State. Everywhere you have them in countless millions.

Indeed I know not of another place within the limits of North Carolina where nature has been more bounteous; where the people have been quicker to take advantage of it, and where they rely more upon statistics than right here in New Berne. I must express my astonishment at the mass of the literally figured statements of your progress tendered me by your people. These tables speak eloquently.

There are doubtless some among you who do not realize that last year 10,000 barrels of clams valued at $20,000 and $300,000 worth of fish were shipped from this section to all parts of this country and that more than 2,000 people are employed at remunerative wages in this great work, and that in 1892, half a million bushels of oysters were caught and shipped and canned, employing at that time thousands of men which industry we hope to see revived in the near future.

Not only has the sea furnished you in abundance all its treasures, but the soil itself is no less beneficent as witness here the magnificent display of everything that can be grown in garden or field.

How many of us realize the amount of capital and energy expended in the raising and shipping in one year of 120,000 barrels of potatoes and 150,000 packages of other truck (yet this is what New Berne has done under your very eyes) or the radical changes that your numerous lumber mills have produced in the topography of the country within the last ten years 100,000,000 feet of undressed lumber, I understand, is not an exaggerated estimate for their output.

A forcible impress is frequently gained by comparison I am credibly informed that 40,000,000 pounds of tobacco were marketed in the city of Danville, Va., last year valued at $8.15 per hundred and making a total valuation of $3,275,000 as compared with $3,250,000, the value of truck and other products shipped from this port alone. I might add more but it seems to me useless.

I have on more than one occasion heard it stated that the soil around New Berne would produce annually three or four crops of truck that it was the garden spot of the country. The only advantage this immediate section has over almost the entire section of Eastern North Carolina in quick transportation and competing rates. There are hundreds of thousands of acres just as fertile, just as suitable for truck only waiting capital and intelligent cultivation to produce like results. Eastern North Carolina seems to be more slightly situated for a great national truck garden than any other section with which I am acquainted, being in near proximity (not to exceed 50 hours) of an urban population of six millions of people whose demands for these necessities formerly called luxuries are increasing in a far greater ratio than their population.

I am constrained to believe that the CELEBRATION OF THE FAIR.

Nature will surely continue to do for you in the future as much as she has done in the past, and that your citizens should fall in their responsibilities is scarcely to be wondered at, seeing their ability to look after their own affairs to improve every opportunity afforded them, their thrift, energy and industry of purpose and above all their determination and perseverance in the glorious principles of self-government have been demonstrated by every page of their past history.

Called Items of News.

Another World-Fair has been announced. A portion of the Illinois State Building and art palace were burned.

Chicago must have something new. Her latest is a snow that the wind made up of hard snow balls and pelted the street cars so that for awhile they were compelled to suspend travel.

News has been confirmed at New Orleans of the loss of the steam tug Millard in the Caribbean sea off the Nicaraguan coast. There were sixty persons aboard, not one of whom was saved.

During a revenue raid in Pasquotank county Va., two deputies were killed and one moonshiner seriously wounded.

Three big, hungry lions came from Zells & Renfrow's winter quarters in the heart of Topeka Sunday. The elephants were engaged in a fight, which ended in the lions' victory. Four loads of cattle became the prey of the lions. When Col. Zell arrived the lions had killed three cattle and were smacking their heads. Cattle were procured and iron-bound and heated, and after two hours of hard and nervous work, the beasts were driven back into the cage.—Kansas.
