NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Club Tickets.—No. 100.
Prof. Baggar.—Dancing Class.
John Dunn.—Watch lost at Fair.

Mr. C. C. Jordan's exhibit of fancy horse shoes is a very pretty one.

That every one may have an opportunity of seeing the best Fair ever held in the State, the price of admission today will be only 25 cents.

The two Methodist organs of the State have consolidated and will be published at Greensboro with Rev. Dr. L. L. Reid as editor.

We are glad to learn that the latest news of yesterday credited the condition of Senator Vance as much better.

Mr. H. B. Hardy, of the Raleigh North Carolinian, is to give one of his novel musical entertainments in Beaufort Tuesday night for the benefit of the shell road the town is building.

Editor Merritt, of the North Carolinian, refers to his fight with Editor Andrews. He denies that Andrews struck him with a cowhide, but says he laid him on the pavement and disarmed him.

Among the Press representatives none have endeavored more zealously to speak well of the Fair and proclaim its merits than Mr. A. Hatchett. He has kept a number of the State papers informed both by wire and letter.

The Star says that the Wilmingtonians, upon their return home from the Fair report "a good time," and speak in terms of praise of the hospitable reception and kind treatment they received in the Elm City.

Although it had not been advertised, the Fair Association treated the visitors to an excellent little display of fire works and paper balloon ascensions last night. Some of the pieces shown were beautiful while others were characterized by those viewing them as "perfectly grand."

The Charlotte Observer contains a special from Monroe, giving an account of Slater, the patent medicine vender, being egged in that city. He is to bring suit for heavy damages, the amount named being about $75,000. He has engaged as his lawyers Messrs. D. B. Henderson and H. N. Pharr, of Charlotte.

The present Fair has done much to establish strong ties of social friendship with our sister city, Wilmington. The W. N. & N. railroad brought over large crowds each day from the city on the Cape Fear and a more splendid people we have never met. Her beautiful and charming women completely captivated our young men.

Mr. C. L. Stevens, the clever editor of the South Port Leader, was one of yesterday's arrivals at the Fair. This makes a total of fifteen Press Representatives that have honored the present Fair with their attendance, and they speak very flatteringly of the Exhibition and our city.

The Educational Bureau of Tennessee is severely attacking the educational system of that State, claiming that there are entirely too many one-horse colleges. Wonder would not the same shoe fit North Carolina. We have a few first class schools but there are an abundance of them putting up as colleges, when in reality they are only so in name.

The renowned actor and lecturer Geo. R. Wendling has recently been in Charlotte and was greeted by an immense audience to hear him lecture on Stone wall Jackson, that warrior and honored son of the Confederacy. Though at the present time he is in Tennessee, he will soon be in Wilmington. Would it not be well to get this distinguished gentleman to deliver one of his famous orations in New Bern.

FELL IN TRENT RIVER.

The Last Ascension Gives a Cold Bath to the Lady Aeronaut but no Other Harm.

Miss Ruby DeVau made the last ascension of this Fair yesterday. There was very little wind but it blew directly towards the South, that is straight across the city in the most direct line towards Trent river.

The chances being that the parachute leap would be attended with more difficulty than at any previous occasion, the parachute containing the dog was left off and equipped with two life preservers the intrepid young navigator of the skies started on her aerial voyage. She ascended rapidly upward thousands of feet up in the air she drifted slowly over the city straight for the river. She went on and on until the river was reached. She preferred to take her chances in the water than amongst houses and other obstacles in the crowded city.

At last she freed the parachute from the balloon and gracefully descended she came and landed directly in the middle of Trent river about a hundred yards from Jacks Island in water beyond her depth.

Boats had been placed in waiting but a hunter being closer to Miss DeVau than the boats out for the purpose of rescuing her reached her first and gave the needed assistance.

The balloon had in the meantime fallen back of Moody's mill, about a hundred yards from the shore. It was gotten by a couple of colored men.

A very large crowd, considered to be over a thousand, rushed to the river's edge while she was in the water, and remained with increasing numbers, until she landed.

Miss DeVau was chilled for awhile, but in being properly cared for, was quickly herself again, none the worse for her wintery bath.

The Fair Closes

To-day closes the seventh annual exhibition of the East Carolina Fish, Oyster, Game and Industrial Association. That it has been a grand success, the greatest of all previously held, is well known, and the management is to be congratulated. Fairs, like other things are difficult to be so conducted as to please everybody, but as far as we have been able to learn, everybody has been satisfied and pleased.

The attendance has surpassed all other exhibitions and the exhibits have been of higher character, in fact it has been about as complete as human ingenuity could make it under the surrounding circumstances.

It is a public enterprise upon which all our people are united in making it a success, and we have been greatly blessed in having fairly good weather all the time.

These annual gatherings are worth a great deal to New Bern. They not only leave a great deal of money here, but are a means of bringing people here to see and examine our resources, with a probability of their becoming citizens and identified with our interests.

Each year seems to have reached the acme of perfection, yet when another rolls around some new feature has developed to relieve the monotony and the visitors feel that they have been repaid for their visit.

What that feature will be next year we are unable to say, but we feel assured that it will be something.

Coming and Going.

Mrs. P. H. Adams, of Washington, N. C., is visiting friends in the city. She is now at Mrs. J. J. Baxter's, next week she will visit Mrs. J. R. Thomas.

Hon. A. M. Waddell, Rev. L. L. Nash of Wilmington and Rev. R. C. Beaman of Goldsboro were among the Fair visitors.

Mr. Matt Manly, our next post master, arrived on the Str. Neuse yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Holmes, who have been visiting Miss Mary Oliver returned home.

Among the visitors to the Fair who left yesterday were President Thos. A. McIntyre of the W. N. & N. railroad and his father, they left for Glencoe stock farm Onslow county. Mr. H. W. Whiting and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Martens of Wilmington.

Culinary Department

The Culinary Department has fifteen varieties of cakes of the finest kinds, 40 varieties of canned goods, the same in pickles of all kinds, and the jellies are very fine—the latter embrace 30 varieties.

There is beautiful honey and a fine display of vinegar in varieties; there never was such a pretty display of bread, biscuits and rolls. The contest on these was so close that it was a very difficult matter for the judges to decide.

A Natural Result.

"If my old woman had come and seen these chickens she'd have gone home and killed all of hers!" was the comment of a visitor from Forsyth county on the Poultry Department.

The remark, though made in jest, tells what is being done to a very large extent every year. Good poultry and stock are fast taking the place of common breeds, and such exhibitions as the one just held are vastly instrumental in bringing this result about, by giving a practical lesson to the great masses of the people on the superiority of the improved breeds.

N. C. STATE POULTRY ASSOCIATION

First Annual Meeting—Organization of the State Score-Card Association.

The first annual meeting of the North Carolina State Poultry Association was held in the editors room of the main building last night.

It will be remembered that the Association was organized last September with T. A. Green, President, Wm. Dunn Vice President, R. A. Richardson, Secy., and Treasurer and J. P. Kerr, of Graham, 1st Vice President.

Not much business of interest to the public was transacted beyond the bringing before the Association by Mr. B. A. Fox, of Richmond, Va., of the need for bringing into general use method of scoring poultry, different to the old one and this led to the organization of the State Decimal Scoring-Card Association, which will be an adjunct of the National Decimal Card Association.

Every member of the Poultry Association who was present became a member of the new Scoring Card Association. The two organizations are, however, entirely distinct bodies.

The officers elected are President, J. P. Kerr, of Graham; Vice President, W. H. Bray, New Bern; Secretary and Treasurer, F. E. Hege, Salem.

L. S. Wood and Wm. Dawson were elected to act in connection with the officers as executive committee.

A committee on State constitution and by-laws was appointed consisting of T. A. Green, R. A. Richardson and J. L. Hahn.

After a copy of the international constitution, and by laws has been obtained by the committee, they will prepare the constitution for the State organization in connection therewith, and will be acted upon at the first annual meeting.

During the evening President Green of the Poultry Association made some pertinent remarks on the development of the industry that was being brought about in the State, and he told western members if they would keep up their end of the progressive work he thought we would keep up ours. (Judging from the exhibits western members made at the Fair we think they are keeping up their end of it splendidly.)

Mr. Fox, who was judge of the poultry at the Fair, was moved to say that he believed we little realized what we had already done—he had been in the poultry business sixteen years and had been to fairs over the country and had never seen a show of poultry, north or south, east or west, that would come up in quality to ours. He said this in sober earnestness, not for encouragement nor for a pleasant bluff and though poultry goes from here every spring to all parts of the United States such words from such a man should prove an incentive to every breeder to press on and confidently bring the merits of our poultry before the World as it has never been done before.

YESTERDAY RACES.

Dominion Wins Consolation Race, Bias Wins Running Race

The consolation trotting race yesterday day, best 3 in 5, mile heats for a purse of $100 was won by Dominion, bay gelding, Hackburn & Willett New Bern, N. C. Time 2:40, 2:41, and 2:41.

Maggie Watkins, chestnut sorrel, G. M. Harden, Durham, N. C., won second money, and Nettie D., chestnut mare, Sam. B. Nelson, Richmond, Va., third.

In every heat Dominion came out first Maggie Watkins second and Nellie D., third.

SECOND RACE.

The running race was settled in three heats, Bias, chestnut gelding, Alamance farm, Graham, N. C., was first in every heat, and Fiddle Sticks, bay gelding, W. H. Joyner, Carysburg, N. C., second. The time was 1:15, 1:16 and 1:16.

The Normal and Industrial Institute.

President C. D. McIver, of the State Normal and Industrial Institute, gave us a pleasant call yesterday. Mr. McIver's wife and Miss D. L. Bryan teachers of geology and botany in the school are visiting the Fair. Miss Bryan is especially studying the fish, oysters, etc.

There are now 885 students at the Institute and President McIver informs us that the number could easily be made five or six hundred if there were buildings enough to accommodate them—our building has to be rented even with the number the school now has. Additional buildings should be put up by the State without delay so that the school can be run on an enlarged scale next year.

STOCK RAISING AND FARMING.

A Model Lenoir County Farm and One That Has Proved Profitable.

The Kingston Free Press says that Mr. W. L. Kennedy of Lenoir county carried off the honors at the horsebreeders sale at Raleigh last week. Horsebreeders were there from Kentucky as well as various places in North Carolina, but he secured the best prices.

He sold a dilly 18 months old for $300, one 10 months old for $300, one 22 months old for $320, and a mare four years old for $385. The animals were beauties or they would not have brought such good prices.

This beats 7 cent cotton and shows that as fine horses can be raised in Lenoir county as anywhere, if our people will only try. We are pleased at Mr. Kennedy's success.

It gives the JOURNAL much pleasure to note such success in stock raising, because with our mild and even climate there is no reason why North Carolina should not only raise her own stock, but really become an importer.

This is not a cotton State, but for the cultivation of grains and grasses there is no better locality than in Eastern North Carolina.

Mr. Kennedy is a thorough farmer in addition to his interest in stock raising. From his earliest days he has been noted for his large and beautiful cotton and grain farm—carefully laid off and admirably tilled. Not only does Mr. Kennedy continue to improve his already magnificent farm, but he has clearly proven that it pays to farm on the improved plans. His lands are kept in a high state of cultivation, his mules, horses and oxen are splendid animals to look at. He keeps a large number of fine bred cows for dairying purposes, from which the best of milk and butter is obtained, both for the market and home consumption.

A few of the farmers of Craven county have adopted these plans that Mr. Kennedy has pursued, but we wish to see more of them do likewise and more properly carry out that to which our soil and climate is best adapted and which has proven to be the most profitable.

CULLED ITEMS OF NEWS.

The United States navy seems after all to be but a school for experiments, and some of the experiments are almighty costly, too.

Seriously now, this Hawaiian business is beginning to bring out that tired feeling, ditto Brazil, ditto.

The advice of the average Reform Club on political affairs carries just about the same weight as that of old maids on the raising of children.

The State Prohibition Convention of Rhode Island met yesterday and nominated a State ticket with Henry B. Metcalf for Governor.

Washington's birthday was celebrated in Charleston, S. C., by entire suspension of business, and the largest parade of military held in years.

A London dispatch says: Senator Cruz, the Guatemalan minister, has announced that his Government has suspended payments on its external debts, in consequence of the depreciation of the price of silver.

D. W. Williams and Wm. Truly, two inoffensive farmers, were terribly whipped by White Caps about ten miles from Charleston, W. Va., night before last. The men swore out warrants for their assailants. This victims had given information to the Government about counterfeiting done in their neighborhood.

Mayor Fishplate and Chief of Fire Department Newman, met with a most cordial reception at New Bern yesterday. They say everything was "bang up."

Leading Democrats assert confidently that if the Wilson bill, with the income tax feature, passes the Senate and some silver legislation is enacted, this State is easily carried. It is but speaking a plain truth to say that at this moment the State is a doubtful one politically. Chairman Simmons believes that some excellent silver legislation will be effected.

Paris is under fever excitement through the continued discoveries of anarchistic plots. The entire city is under the strictest police surveillance.

The British consul at Rio de Janeiro informs the government that yellow fever is daily becoming more prevalent there and declares that on grounds of humanity, owners and captains of merchant vessels in the Brazilian trade ought to be warned of the danger of visiting that port.

The Atlanta Constitution is trying to play the role of matchmaker. It wants Miss Sally South to give the mitten to Bill East and marry Jim West.

It is a little confusing to read a New England paper that the South is the only section that will be benefited by the new tariff bill, and then to find a southern paper saying that it is entirely a New England measure. Both can't be right.

The London police at last discovered the wisdom of giving the Anarchists the New York treatment.

At the banquet given in New York City by southerners living there in celebration of Washington's birthday, Secretary Carlisle, one of the speakers for the occasion, was absent and, in his stead, Hon. Abram S. Hewitt was called upon. The toast was "Our National Credit." In stead of confining himself to national affairs, Mr. Hewitt dived into sectional questions by reflecting upon the Southern statesmanship.

A young lawyer, resident of New York, but southern born, replied to the inappropriate remarks in plain and caustic language in defense of his native South and to the admiration of his hearers.
