The Proposed hydrograph will enable ships to communicate with one another at long distances.

The gentlemen, who have undertaken to restore public confidence in the honesty of horse racing are not to be envied.

It is hard to make some things dovetail. For instance, the man who has the grip is quite as likely to become insane as the man who has 'lost his grip.'

Emperor William drinks a great deal of beer. His crusade against gambling doesn't prevent him from drawing for a king full or a royal flush now and then.

Give a man work and you add to his manliness and independence, give him aims and you destroy his self-respect and add another pauper to the world.

There are few scientists who do not believe that petrified human beings are pure humbugs. One scholarly Smithsonian Institution man said he could not find a single instance on record of human petrification.

The driest season in half a century in the southwestern seaboard counties of Texas closed a week or so ago. The oldest inhabitants bear ample witness to its unprecedented character.

THIS YEAR'S CAMPAIGN.

The question has been raised as to how the campaign of the present year shall be conducted so as to secure the best results to the party and to the people. It is suggested that State issues be made paramount.

There is sound sense in this. While the national Government demands the constant care of the citizen it is to the State that he looks for the protection of life, liberty and property. The Democratic party of North Carolina can safely go before the people upon the record it has made and challenge the opposition to point to a single instance in which it has been recreant to its sacred trusts.

In no period in our history has it been more important that the Legislature be Democratic, and it is equally essential that it be composed of men of intelligence, integrity and patriotism.

The election this year is not to be confined to the election of members of the General Assembly. Many important positions are to be filled with which the property of the State and the interests of the people are intimately associated. Hence it follows that it is of the first importance that the people take the initiative and conduct the campaign.

It is often said that nominating conventions are not representative of the people; that they are manipulated by cabals and cliques that are controlled by personal influences rather than by considerations of the public good. This, unfortunately, is too often the case, but, whose fault is it? In the Democratic party all the members are equal. Every member who is recognized as a Democrat has a right to attend the primaries and cast his vote for his representatives in the county convention. Indeed it is his duty to do it, and if this sacred obligation is regarded he has no right to complain if the candidates nominate 4 do not come up to his ideas of the fitness of things.

It is the imperative duty of the citizen to vote at every election. Right here is the danger. In order to bring out the full vote of the Democratic party this year the issues and the candidates must have a safe lodgment in the hearts of the people. They must spring from and be of the people.

But, we are told that Congressmen are to be elected this year, and consequently national issues cannot be ignored. There is no ground for serious apprehension on this account. The Chicago platform is the law of the party and Congress is acting in conformity with its spirit.

The obnoxious Federal Election law has been repealed, and the Wilson tariff bill and the Bland silver coinage bill have passed the House of Representatives.

Let our Congressional candidates be nominated in conventions fairly representative of the people and we have no fears for the result.

Indeed, looking over the whole field, we see no reason why we may not confidently look for Democratic victory.

Writers of Ancient Days.

Prideaux's "Connection" was offered to one publisher after another for several years, none venturing to undertake its publication.

The manuscripts of Tasso, which are still preserved, are illegible from the immense number of erasures, changes and emendations.

The only instance of perfectly successful collaboration in English literature is found in the dramatic works of Beaumont and Fletcher.

The letters of Leonardo da Vinci were allowed by his family to perish in a garret. Only such were preserved as were in hands of others.

The works of Aristotle comprised more than four hundred treatises on various subjects. The manuscripts which survive of his writings were accidentally discovered in an advanced stage of decay in an old chest.

Keeping a diary was a confirmed fashion among the literary Komany. Most of them carried little tablets tied at their belts, in which they kept memoranda of their doings so as to forget nothing when they came to write up the record at night.

The Handsomest Lady in New Bern remarked to a friend the other day that she knew Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs was a superior remedy, as it stopped her cough instantly when other cough remedies had no effect whatever. So to prove this and convince you of its merit any druggist will give you a sample Bottle free. Large size 50c. and $1.

Edwin E. Brown's Accident Insurance. - Chicago, Ill., April 10, 1893.
Guarantee and Accident Lloyds, No. 15 Wall Street, New York City, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—I have just received your favor of the 8th inst., containing your check for $3,000.00 (this being the face value,) in full payment of policy No. 71, 959 held in your company by my late husband Edwin E. Brown, who was accidentally killed by foot-pedain St. Louis a short time since, the particulars of which are still fresh in the minds of the public.

Proofs were only completed and forwarded you about the first of this month I am somewhat surprised as well as pleased with your prompt action in this matter which is in marked contrast with that of another company in which he held a similar policy.

I feel that the courteous and prompt action of your representatives deserves more than formal acknowledgement. I therefore take pleasure in recommending your company as worthy the confidence of my friends and acquaintances, and any others who may be in want of accident insurance.

Respectfully yours,
MARTHA A. BROWN.
