Mr. Land was entirely unharmed at the time. He calmly declares his intention of killing the dog if he ever sees him at large again. He says that no dangerous dog has a right to be on the street at all.

Mr. J. J. Street, Vice-President and Gen'l Manager of the mills of the Goldboro Lumber Company at Dover, left for his home yesterday morning after a brief stay in the city on business. Takes a Partner.
Mr. T. G. Hyman, formerly of Goldboro, has associated himself with J. J. Disoway, in his mill supply business, at 43 Craven street. The firm will hereafter be known as J. J. Disoway & Co.

Mr. Disoway, the senior member of the firm, is well known in New Berne, and surrounding country as a progressive and industrious young business man. Mr. Hyman, being a new comer, his acquaintance is more limited, but he is well spoken of for his good business qualifications and character. He has, for about four years been bookkeeper for the Goldboro Lumber company at Dover, his father, Mr. T. B. Hyman, being Secretary and Treasurer.

Mr. Hyman's admission to the firm will, no doubt, add to its strength and prosperity. It is a pleasure to see such additions being made to our population.

Still Improving Queen Street.
The filling in of the low ground between the main track of the W. N. & N. R. R. and the turn table for the connecting track, and between the turn table and the round house is steadily progressing. Car load after car load of dirt being emptied there is making quite a change.

More dirt is being placed on Queen street also. That street the longest in the city, was formerly the most uneven, and the grading which necessarily had to be done for the railroad left it, before the first cross ties were laid, in better condition than it ever was before, since it was a street, and since the road was finished numerous improving touches have been given (filling in, making better drainage, placing brick curbing at the edge of the sidewalks, &c.) until the street begins to rank in appearance with more frequented ones.

But the railroad officials have not as yet gotten it up to the point of excellence which they intend for it to reach. They have within the past few days placed several train loads of dirt along the track west of the A. & N. C. R. R., and will put a number more, and will use marl at all the crossings.

Episcopal Picnic.
The Episcopalian Sunday school will have a picnic one day next week. The trip proposed is sure to be a most delightful one.

They will first go by train to Jacksonville and then proceed by steamer to the elegant lodge of Mr. Thos. A. McIntyre, there take dinner, then re-embark and go down to the ocean.

A limited number (80) tickets will be sold at $1.50 each. They can be procured at once from Mr. John Dunn.

The day proposed for the trip is Thursday, but if possible it will be changed for Wednesday.

NOTICE.
H. Witcover Council Choses Friends will meet tonight at Roundtree hall. All members are requested to attend. ROBIN HARTCOCK, Sec'y.

MR. McDOWELL'S WORK.

Philadelphia Journal of Commerce and New Berne.—A Fine Advertisement for this City

Mr. W. C. McDowell who is in the city for the Philadelphia Journal of Commerce to furnish that paper a proper write-up of the things that pertain to this city along industrial lines and possibilities of progress and development, has submitted an article to Mayor Ellis which he has already prepared on the subject. It is surprising to see how well posted Mr. McDowell has become in regard to what New Berne is doing, its outlets, etc.

He will remain in the city a few days longer at Mr. W. T. Lane's and it behooves those of our citizens who are informed on anything connected to induce capitalists to invest and develop any of our many resources to see Mr. McDowell and place the facts before him. He is making a short tour of Eastern North Carolina and is not only hearing but seeing for himself and we are glad it is so.

Mr. McDowell represents a syndicate that wants to go into manufacturing and it may result in direct good through them but whether it does or not the article (which by the way is as fine an advertisement as New Berne wants and yet costs us nothing will be seen and read by thousands and it cannot fail in doing its proportion towards increasing the wake attention New Berne is receiving and thereby adding to the progress that can be seen with every month that passes.

We are glad to note that the next books used are of a considerable extent of south Carolina. A history, we noticed, came from a New Orleans publishing house. It is well enough in such matters to use books from those authors and publishers that are most nearly identified with us.

Mr. R. C. Brockfield, regularly assisted through a portion of each day by her niece, Miss Mary Brown, has charge of the primary department, while Miss Rachel is amply qualified to have the most advanced pupils of the school, her equal could hardly be found for dealing with the smallest, the largest in the world, to manage. Nearly a hundred of the smallest boys and girls from about six to nine years of age, (a few older are in this room, and to keep them in order and hold their attention upon their studies is no easy task to do so patiently is a matter of sheer impossibility, but Miss Rachel succeeds exceptionally well at it by reason of her long experience at such work and her innate adaptation to it, by reason of her unexcelled patience and her natural love for the little folks.

Confederate Memorial.
The exercises of Memorial Day will be held at the Court House on today at half past four p. m.

All are requested to be punctual as it is necessary that the services should commence promptly at the hour designated.

The space within the rail including witness stand and jury box will be reserved for Confederate soldiers and sailors. The Memorial Association and choir.

ORDER OF EXERCISES.
1st. Hymn—"God of our Fathers."
2d. Prayer by Rev. J. T. Lyon, Chaplain.
3d. Decoration Hymn—"Voice of Peace."
4th. Oration—Capt. Wm. Lane, Orator.
5th. Hymn—"Give me the Wings of Faith."
The services concluded the assembly will sound on the bugle, and the procession will be formed on Broad street by marshal's, in the following order:

Escort—Fourth division Naval Battalion, North Carolina State Guard, Lieutenant Matt. Manly.

1st. Division—Confederate soldiers and sailors, Orator and Chaplain, ex-Orators and Chaplain.

2d. Division—Ladies' Memorial Association, Choir, Children with flowers.

3d. Division—Officials and Visitors, Citizens, Civil Organizations.

The procession will move up Broad St. to George, up George to Queen then to Cedar Grove cemetery.

It will halt on the main avenue of the cemetery. The Confederate soldiers and sailors will open ranks, through which will pass the Orator and Chaplain, Ladies' Memorial Association and Choir.

Ranks will then be closed and the veterans marching to the circle, will open right and left and form in single rank around the monument. Here the choir will sing "The Guard around the Tomb."

The benediction will then be pronounced by the Chaplain and the ceremonies concluded by decorating the graves of the soldiers with laurel wreaths.

Assistant marshals will report at the Court House promptly at 4 o'clock p. m. Members of Confederate Veteran Association are requested to wear their badges.

J. F. CLARK, Chief Marshal.

The big-heartedness of the late Henry Ward Beecher, who had for many years a very large income, was strikingly brought to mind when his widow was recently compelled by her inability to pay the rent to move from her late residence into apartments in a flat.

That Awful Borrower
The Greenville Reflector truly says: "There are people who will not subscribe for their county paper because they happen not to agree with its politics, yet they always read it, even if they have to sponge on their neighbor and worry him almost to death by continually borrowing his paper."

Yes, there are plenty of just such people, and the JOURNAL has had experience with a few of them. In fact not very long since one of our good paying subscribers advised us to discontinue his paper on account of one of these "Didn't like it" kind always borrowing it.

The reason for stopping the paper, said the good paying subscriber, was that he thought the borrower would subscribe himself, and then he would take it.

We thought it would work like a charm but it didn't. They said borrower just went across the street and immediately warmed in with another subscriber and though continuing to abuse it, actually wanted to borrow the paper before the real subscriber had finished with it. These kind of "its" are dandies indeed.

Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge made another oratorical dramatic speech at Paris, Kentucky on Monday. His attack on the press was a master piece of denunciatory eloquence. Hon. Evan Settle, one of his opponents, said in reply: "I come to you unhelped, hampered by youth and the lack of an illustrious name. But, sir, I would rather be one of an obscure, but honest family than have the distinction of bearing unworthily the name of a distinguished ancestor."

THE NEW BERNE ACADEMY.

The Free School of this City and its Present Corps of Teachers.

Vents to the New Berne Academy during the present scholastic year, thoroughly convince us of the careful instruction given and the good management that pertains to the several rooms, and that though it is a free school it is one in which the children have opportunities of improvement fitted to any one of the grades of advancement there taught.

Miss Emily Ferrel has the most advanced pupils and we have never seen children, as a whole, give more satisfactory evidence than they do of receiving understanding into their minds the things imparted and of being interested in their studies. Miss Emily possesses in an unusual degree the happy faculty of so waking up the minds of the children that they press eagerly forward in the pursuit of knowledge along the paths she points out, and then thus taking these studies, to a degree, as a pleasure instead of a task, on a great measure, accounts for the intelligent examination they so readily stand, no matter how unexpectedly it may come, on the lessons they have just prepared or on those they have passed over weeks or months before.

Miss Jennie Battle, Mrs. Mary N. Wilkins and Miss Annie Chadwick all show skill in dealing with their pupils, and the latter seem to appreciate their teachers.

We are glad to note that the next books used are of a considerable extent of south Carolina. A history, we noticed, came from a New Orleans publishing house. It is well enough in such matters to use books from those authors and publishers that are most nearly identified with us.
