The Presbyterians are discussing having a Sunday school picnic, but plans are not decided on as yet.

We learn that the Diciples on Kinston will picnic at Morehead one day during the first week in June.

Onslow county Sunday school convention is in session at Jacksonville. Rev. D. H. Petree and Mr. J. C. Whitty are attending it.

Chattaka Literary Circle will meet tonight at 8:30 at the residence of C. E. Foy.—Author Dickens. Each member to have quotation from Pickwick Papers.

The round house of the W. N. & N. R. R. is not quite finished but it is in shape for use. The first engine entered it Wednesday. It was No. 4 run by engineer Kelly.

The Diciples picnic, as far as we know, will be the next one from New Bern. They go by the steamer Trent next Tuesday to Wilkinson's Point which we are told, is a very pretty place for a picnic.

There will be a joint meeting of the Kings Daughters and Sons to-night at eight o'clock sharp at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. A full meeting is desired as there will be business of importance to be transacted.

Saturday the steamer Albemarle of the W. N. & N. R. R. will begin running regular trips during the truck season in place of the steamer Elko. She will sail every Saturday at 7 o'clock and every Wednesday at 1 o'clock.

Mr. J. F. Taylor is repainting his row of twelve stores at the market dock extending from the one he occupies to the lower end of the market dock. The work on the rear and roofs is finished and work is now in progress on the front.

The Democratic Central Committee met in Raleigh yesterday to call a meeting of the State Executive Committee, for the purpose of electing a new chairman and naming the time of holding the convention to nominate judges of the Supreme Court.

The rain of yesterday afternoon showed that the building of the new marsh pavement at the Episcopal church sidewalk has made it so that water blocks the side walk exactly where the work stopped. The work will have to be extended or better drainage provided for.

Mr. J. F. Hanf is having the old building on Middle street which for many years was the blacksmith shop of Mr. P. Treadwell, torn down in order to put up a good iron building on the site. The new building will have two stories below, and all the upper part will be made into a good hall for society meetings.

Miss Lottie Roberts, milliner, who has been assisting Mrs. Bettie Whaley through the busy season, left for her home in Beaufort.

Mrs. L. H. Cutler and son Lycurgus returned from Greensboro.

Kinsey Seminary Commencement
The commencement exercises of Kinsey Seminary, La Grange, will be held Tuesday and Wednesday June 5th and 6th. Rev. F. D. Swindell, D. D. will deliver the address on the 6th at 11 a. m.

The class of '94 consists of Misses Lida Leigh Best, Fannie Harper, Almata Kennedy, Sallie Parks, Florence Speight, Mary O. Stanton; in music Misses Alice Sanders, Alice Ivey and Almata Kennedy.

Struck in the Eye.
Miss Julia Thomas, daughter of Mr. Lon Thomas, of Beaufort, met with a painful accident while the base ball game was in progress there. She was viewing the game from the upstairs window of the school house when a foul ball flew to where she was and struck her in the eye.

The eye and a portion of the nose was badly bruised but about an hour afterward the indications were that no serious results would follow.

Rain News.
A most refreshing rain came yesterday afternoon. There was a little hail with it. The rain appears to be only local and quite limited in extent.

Parties on the W. N. & N. R. train last night tell us of another good rain in the Jacksonville neighborhood which did not reach to Mayville. The rain at New Bern was commencing when the train arrived here and that one may have extended to Mayville.

A. & N. C. R. R. train did not find rain until it got close to the city. It reached here while the rain was in progress.

There was no rain at Morehead throughout the day.

There was rain about Greensboro Wednesday night.

The Methodist Picnic
The picnic of Centenary M. E. Sunday School, which went to Morehead yesterday is considered the greatest that ever left New Bern. There were about 600 people along.

Dinner was partaken of in the immense diningroom of the Atlantic Hotel which was sufficiently large for the purpose.

Mr. Perry, the proprietor, with that geniality so characteristic of him, which did so much last year to bring the hotel to its present popularity, threw its doors open to the excursionist and bade them make themselves at home; the servants of the hotel busied themselves making every thing as pleasant as if they had been guests of the hotel.

A large number of the picnickers went over to Beaufort to witness the ball game, others went to the fort, the banks, out sailing, etc., simply for pleasure. They all report having had a good time.

We'd Like to Have Him Come.
The President has come into our waters for a week's holiday—and perhaps may stay longer. We hope he will meet with good luck. If he fails to find sport about Hatteras let him try New Bern, the lakes of which THE JOURNAL recently gave an account, and Morehead City. The President would doubtless be glad to kill an alligator, a fine buck and some bears. We extend a hearty welcome to him in North Carolina.—New Observer Chronicle.

We second our co-temporary's suggestion. We would be glad to have the President here, and as for fishing we think he could go further and still might not have as good sport as he would in catching mackerel, trout and blue fish at Morehead City. We hope he'll try his luck in our waters, and if he wants to try the lakes we are sure the young men of the vicinity who are familiar with them would be delighted to lend him all the aid in their power to make his effort both pleasant and successful.

New Bern and Beaufort Base Ball
The base ball game between the teams of New Bern and Beaufort took place yesterday at the latter place.

The game was called off on account of the New Bern boys having to stop before it was concluded. The reason they had to quit was that Mr. Jack Noel, catcher of the New Bern team, was engineer of the excursion train, and he had to leave to get his engine in readiness for the return.

The New Bern boys having to quit gave the game to the Beaufort team, but the score was two to four in favor of the New Bern team. Only five innings had been played when the game was called off.

There is dissatisfaction on the part of the New Bern team on account of members of the Beaufort team objecting to decisions of the umpire. Such interruptions are strictly against the rules and in a professional team it would subject the offender to a fine.

About five hundred people witnessed the game, many of these were members of the picnic party and visitors from Morehead.

Large Yields of Wool.

The Durham Sun tells of J. S. Carr's having ten shropshire ewes shorn and getting from them seven and a half to ten pounds of wool each. These imported sheep are of the finest breed.

To obtain such clippings as the above must insure profit to the sheep raiser. And how incomparably better a flock of profitable sheep is than one or two hounds or curs that may be found on many a farm while the sheep are absent from them.

More sheep and fewer dogs in the country will make a big change for the better.

HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

From late information it appears that most of Coxey's army have surrendered to a saloon keeper near their present camp.

Col. W. F. Beasley, who commanded the First Regiment of North Carolina Junior Reserves in 1864-5, is anxious to correspond with members of that Regiment, with a view to a reunion this year.

Senator Hinton, of Ga., and Kyle, of South Dakota were offered $25,000 each for their votes on the tariff bill. It is not developed how much some of the others were offered, but it is evident they were "agreeable."

The ninety-ninth annual council of the Episcopal diocese of Virginia is in session at Richmond. The next Bishop Whitte is presiding, and Assistant Bishop J. B. Newton will be consecrated. The attendance of delegates is very large.

The Wilmington Messenger, Roxboro Courier, and other Democratic papers have favorably mentioned Hon. J. P. Caldwell, editor of the Charlotte Observer, as our next United States Senator from the Western section of the State. His claims are entitled to consideration.

While money enough to support life can hardly be obtained by the majority of laboring men, it appears there is no scarcity of it among sporting men. One horse won $25,000 in a Brooklyn handicap race, and outside betters won fully $100,000 on the same race.

The Populist State Convention of Georgia met in Atlanta on the 16th. It is largely attended and much enthusiasm is manifested. The crowd gave Tom Watson quite an ovation and he made a red hot speech. Judge J. R. Hines, a prominent lawyer of Atlanta is leading for the nomination for governor.

The coal strikers are doing themselves more damage than they suppose. The leading railroads being unwilling to rely upon the future of the miners for a supply of fuel, are arranging to use oil engines. This will lessen the demand for coal at least thirty per cent, and therefore but much less work will be required in mining.

NORFOLK AND INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

A Fine Commencement Programme—Great Success of the Institution.
Our readers know that we heartily approve of education on an industrial line. Every boy and every girl, whether there is need for it or not should be fitted to do something well that they may be properly equipped for the battles of life and for this reason we believe that every encouragement should be given to the two State Institutions, Agricultural and Mechanical College for boys and the Normal and Industrial Institute for girls.

We are gratified at the excellent work that has been done in both these schools, but we wish now to speak particularly of the latter and its success from facts furnished by President Chas. D. McIver.

"The commencement programme has been prepared with a view to giving the people of the State an entertainment worthy of their attention, and with the hope that the men and women of North Carolina would be induced to attend the commencement occasion of the State Normal and Industrial School and become more interested in the work and success of this their youngest institution of learning, and at the same time one which has the largest number of North Carolina students ever enrolled at any college.

From the day that the institution was opened in October, 1892, the number of applicants for admission has been more than twice as many as could be accommodated in the dormitories of the institution, and about 150 students this year have boarded in private families. The number of students enrolled is 390, exclusive of the Practice and Observation School.

More than twenty of these are graduates of other institutions; one-third of them are paying their expenses without help from parents; about two thirds of them say that if they had not come to this institution they would not have attended any college for girls in North Carolina; about three-fourths of them expect to become teachers; they represent eighty of the ninety-six counties in the State; and the average age is nearly twenty years.

"It is the only institution in North Carolina where the State or any church in the State has given any material aid to cheapen education for the white women of the State—except at the co-educational colleges.

"This is an institution belonging to the State. The facts stated above indicate what a wide field of usefulness the institution has before it if it can receive from the State something like the same support that is given to either of the State's institutions for men.

The Normal and Industrial School has had more applicants for admission than it could accommodate. This only indicates how great a demand there is for an institution of this kind. If the State would make a sufficient appropriation to enlarge and properly equip the plant, which is, in the main, a donation from the town of Greensboro to secure the location, 750 to 1,000 students then within a few years might reasonably be expected."

The State should see to it that the financial encouragement needed in furthering. Give the girls of the State every opportunity possible.

ALBEMARLE PRESBYTERY

Ours the Mission Presbytery of the State—What is Being Done Towards Church Extension.

"It has always been a matter of surprise to us that the Presbyterian church, which have great history behind it in this country, as well as in the old Mother country, which has been influential from Colonial times down to the present in the State, in the support and aid of benevolent institutions, civil and religious; and the advancement of education, has not established itself to any extent in this Atlantic region, the oldest in point of settlement in the State.

But, whatever the explanation of this omission may be, that church of late years has put on new life and energy in home mission enterprise. Albemarle Presbytery, organized only four years ago, is the Missionary Presbytery of the Synod of North Carolina, and receives a good part of its support in the work from that body.

More than half of its members are engaged in extending the work in eastern counties, and two-thirds of its churches are comparatively young, having been planted in recent years—a dozen of them at least within the last five years, and in some these have been Memorial churches in this city. The Presbytery has thus made considerable and hopeful progress, in a field in which there are yet several scores of churches of a church or a preacher of the Presbyterian faith and order."

The above is an extract from an editorial of the Elizabeth City Economist based upon the recent meeting of the Albemarle Presbytery. They which meeting was the first since the history of that town that they had a Presbyterian ecclesiastical organization and transacting its business with a view to the future.

We have not time to go into detail at the meeting of the Albemarle Presbytery in the past year, and their almost untiring labors in the remote and rural districts of this State, but we did not realize, and we suppose many more did not know, how they are doing these churches.

The Presbytery is a blessing, it embraces thirty counties. It extends on the east from the mouth of the Neuse river to the boundary line of Virginia, then on to the western limit of the State, and Wake counties, down then and along the southern boundary of Wake to Newberry through Washington and Lenoir counties to the Northern boundary of Jones and along that border to Trenton river and thence on down it and New river to the Atlantic ocean.

And yet in all this territory there are but thirteen Presbyterian ministers, six of them are in regular pastoral work deriving their entire support, while seven are evangelists, deriving their support in whole or in part from the mission fund of the Presbytery.

Points on the line of the W. N. & N. Railroad, south of Trent river are in the Wilmington Presbytery, but some of them are so identified with New Bern that we will mention a few of the work there. At Pollockville Presbyterian church is in course of erection and will soon be completed and evangelistic work is being carried on at Maysville and Pollockville. Rev. S. H. Isler serves the churches.

On the line of the A. & N. C. Railroad (this Presbytery) the first country church built was the one at Graham, about 12 years ago, before the separation of Albemarle Presbytery, four years ago. Since the foundation of the new Presbytery, a church has been built at Wildwood, Dover and La Grange, and preparations are in progress for building one at Kinston.

What is being done here is a fair specimen of the work carried on at other places. Some of the most successful work has been done at and near Tarboro. When the work was begun there was only one Presbyterian there, now there is a prosperous church with over a hundred members, and several other churches have been established with Tarboro as the central point.

And yet some of our counties have never had a Presbyterian sermon within their borders.

The Women Were Right.

The following paragraph from the Wilmington Star is most sensible, and at this juncture, most appropos.

"A strike was headed off in some Maryland coal mines the other day by the wives of the miners who held a meeting and insisted that their husbands would show more lead-mule sense by striking to work and taking care of their families than by listening to the walking delegates from Ohio. The Maryland miners concluded that their wives were level-headed and stuck."

There are many thousands of deserving people who would gladly accept the opportunity of getting meat and bread for their wives and little ones, these people want to blow away. As things now he should be happy who can obtain work that will keep off suffering.
