LOCAL NEWS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Lacy Mitchell, col., was fined $5.00 and costs yesterday by Mayor Ellis for kicking a child.

The Beaufort Herald announces that there will be a large pony penning at the Diamond penning June 24.

Mr. Walter R. Henry, of Henderson, will lecture in Kinston next week for the benefit of the Vance monument fund.

Kinston had a mad dog a day or two ago which in his run down one of the principal streets, bit two other dogs and tried to bite a cat before he was killed.

The poles were erected yesterday to make fire alarm connection with the water works. The wires will be put up today, which will complete the work.

Mr. C. S. Hollister was moving into his new quarters yesterday. The comfortable and commodious new brick store of Dr. F. W. Hughes adjoining the Gaston House.

A series of meetings is in progress in the Methodist church of Kinston. Rev. Mr. Shamburger the pastor, is being assisted by Rev. J. E. Bristow of La Grange, in conducting them.

A little over half a crop of potatoes is expected around Kinston, according to the Free Press, and the shipment of cucumbers is expected to begin in a few days.

Truck is getting off in fairly good quantities. About 4,000 packages went off yesterday. The departing steamer of each line had a good load, and at night some others had been brought in for to-day's shipments.

The Collegiate Institute party last night was enjoyable in a high degree. All the school and a few invited friends were present. The time passed merrily with simple plays in which the young people engaged, with an interval for delicious refreshments. The party lasted about three hours.

The announcement of the winner of the most valuable scholarship, that of Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Va. was accidentally omitted in the account of the New Berne Collegiate Institute prize presentation. The fortunate winner of this high honor was Miss Bertina Tucker, and the presentation was made by Hon. John S. Long, LL. D.

We see in the Free Press that Dr. Hyatt, of Kinston, has just performed a successful surgical operation on a little daughter of Mr. James Johnson, of Pitt county to strengthen her feet. This is another evidence of the worth of a home institution which gives the afflicted as good service as any and saves long journeys.

We were in some error as to the salary of the Hatteras collector of customs when the service at that place was at its highest cost, was not under the Harrison, but a previous Republican administration. At one time the service at Hatteras, including deputy and boatmen cost $900 per annum and the one at Ocracoke $1800, but they were reduced to one man at each place at $1.00 a day which was the case, we are told, when Harrison came in. Afterward it was reduced to simply one at Hatteras and now he is displaced with.

Among the early contributions sent to Chairman E. H. Meadows, of the Owen County Central committee, to raise funds for the Vance monument, is one from Isaac H. Smith, col., who, in the letter in which the contribution was enclosed, said he would never forget that the Republican governors who held the destinies of the people of North Carolina for twelve years, entirely failed to inaugurate or commend a system of normal schools for the colored people, but that Senator Vance, in less than three months after his induction into office recommended and drew the plan for the present system of Normal schools.

SOUTH'S IMMIGRATION CONGRESS.

Measures Proposed for the Accomplishment of its Objects.

In the Southern Immigration congress Thursday the committee on resolutions reported plans for thorough State and county organization for inducing immigration.

It advocated the Congress of the United States providing for a permanent exhibit at Washington of all the resources of the States. It recommended establishing a train of cars in which shall be exhibited the products of the South, and that said train shall be run to every important point of the Northern and Western States and as soon as practicable, such be done in Europe.

It provides for the appointment of a committee to confer with the railroads and steamship lines on the subject of rates on Southern products.

The man who defied true politeness as courtesy to a stately stranger in a public place made a heavy plunge at the vital organs of many who consider themselves paragons of politeness.

PROSPECTING TO LOCATE.

A Walk Through the City Convinces a Visitor of New Berne's Good Prospects.

Mr. J. J. Shepard, of Darlington, S. C., was in the city yesterday prospecting with a view of locating a young man of his town, Mr. J. N. Brazenstine here in business, each of them to have an interest in the business. Their intention is to engage in a mercantile business and a little manufacturing in the way of shirts, pants and whatever else in that line they may find a demand for.

It took but a little time to observe that to convince Mr. Shepard that he had found a good and progressive business place.

Coming in on a very good road which entered the city less than a year ago, he found their several handsome and commodious buildings for the transaction of the work and business of the road on each side, the last one, the round house just being completed.

Walking two squares from there he passed the A. & N. C. R. R. depot, receiving a thorough repainting. Just across from there he viewed the addition to his residence and the other improvements Mr. Wm. Colligan is making.

A square farther down he looked across the Academy Green and viewed the three pretty dwelling houses built a few months ago by Mr. George H. Roberts, and he learned also of the recent dates of which the four residences west of the Methodist Church were built.

Then a block below the Academy he found the two houses of Mr. Jno. Hanff on one side of the street, the two beautiful places of T. J. Turner opposite, one of them his residence, next to the residence of Mrs. C. C. Green, and was informed how recently all of these had been built.

And on Broad street near the dividing line between the residences and business part he took a look at the fine two-story-and-a-half mansard roof, future residence of Mr. O. H. Guion, a good place before, but now being doubled in size and tastefully remodelled so that the appearance of the old building is lost in the new.

From Hancock street down Broad street to Middle and thence to the market, Mr. Shepard viewed that much of the business portion and was well pleased with the residence part. He commented very favorably on the character of the stocks in the stores and the other evidence of good business. He saw the street improvements, he was told of the admirable water works and sewerage systems, completed last month and now getting into operation. He viewed the new hotel on Broad street just completed, not yet occupied, the remodelled American House, the Lion stores and Hall which Mr. John Hanff is building, the Gaston House in the glory of its recent improvements, the fine brick store nearly finished alongside and then he went on to the market wharf and saw where inside of two years Trent river had been encroached upon and new land been made on each side of the market dock equal in length to one of the city blocks, and every foot of it except the walk and drive way occupied by substantial business houses filled with dealers carrying on a general merchandizing business, grocers, dry goods and clothing men, fish-shippers, restaurateurs, a bakery, a granary, &c.

Mr. Shepard made some inquiries upon reaching the city as to the prosperity of New Berne, and as to the country and as to how the city was standing the financial depression which is being complained of all over the country, but having seen this much of the city he expressed himself as satisfied that in that brief time he had accomplished as much as he came to do this time, and making arrangements for corresponding, should their plans mature he took his departure.

This is only an instance of numbers that are going on. At a month's pace but what New Berne is favored with desirable additions to her population. Many have moved here—business men, professional men and mechanics, and some of the best mechanics have moved here from places noted for their enterprise, and they nearly always have plenty to do. The improvements, which are always in progress make this so.

We have not the amount of manufacturing we would like, but we are doing something in this line and it is only a question of time when more will follow.

Our knitting mill, ice factory, carriage factories, fertilizer factory, foundries and kindred industries, all contribute their portion to the prosperity of the place as do other things not necessary to enumerate here, and as a natural consequence real estate both in the city and adjacent farming property is advancing in value with every year that passes.

New Berne's manifold resources, varied but sound and solid, are what is bringing her to the front, and they will keep her there. Her future is secure.

Wade Shore Camp-Meeting. Great preparations are being made for the Wade Shore camp-meeting that is held annually on Wade Shore. The date of the meeting is June 21.

The site for the meeting is a beautiful spot near the ocean. All are invited to attend. A large delegation of ministers will be present.

The New Berne Journal and other papers will please copy.—Beaufort Herald.

A COMMON NUISANCE.

He is in Evidence Everywhere, and He is Known as the Croaker.

One of our exchanges is pretty severe on that common nuisance known as the croaker.

It asks that saints have pity on a town or city with a croaker in it. If it has two three or half a dozen croakers living in it, it is to be commiserated that much more.

The croaker always comes in two forms—dead and alive. The croaker has more on the north side of him, no matter whether the winter be mild or severe. The nose indicates nothing especially, except that he should be removed from the community at once. The croaker always views his own town from a pessimistic point of view. He has no word of praise for any one nor anything that tends to assist in the progress of the community. He is the first to expect benefits that accrue from the united efforts, energy and enterprise of others, but it is the last to lend a hand. The croaker is a pusillanimous, insignificant, inconsistent encumbrance.

A New Potato Pest.

Gerald McCarthy, entomologist, N. C. Experiment station, announces that several complaints have reached the Station from Columbus county concerning the ravages of a hitherto unnoticed insect upon growing Irish potatoes. Mr. A. B. Smith, of Armour, N. C., writes: "Thousands of these bugs have suddenly appeared on my potatoes, there being an average of 3 or 4 to each plant. They do not eat the leaves, but puncture the growing tip causing the plant to wither and soon die. What is it and what shall I do for it?" Mr. J. B. Chadbourne of the same county sends specimens and writes in much the same strain.

Mr. McCarthy says the insect is Leptoglossus phyllopus, a true bug closely related to the precatious thick-thighed soldier bug—Acanthocorpus femorata. This insect is not common in this State and has been considered beneficial because it feeds upon thistles and occasionally attacks the terrapin bug of the cabbage. In Florida it attacks the orange; now that it has changed its diet from thistles to potatoes, it is likely to become a troublesome pest.

As this bug does not gnaw the foliage it can not be poisoned by arsenites, and the only remedies remarks Mr. McCarthy, are the kerosene emulsion and hand picking. The latter will prove upon the whole most satisfactory. Use shallow pans containing some water and film of pure kerosene. Hold the pan under the vines and jar or shake the bugs into it. The best time to do this is before sun rise in the morning while the insects are still torpid. The above information will no doubt prove interesting and possibly beneficial to our readers, many of whom are large potato growers. Though nothing has been heard of the insect in this region as yet it is well to be forewarned.

HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

Thirteen States are represented in the Southern Congress now sitting at Augusta, Ga.

Don't say the world is growing worse when you are doing nothing to make it better.

Fringed bottom pants will continue to be worn extensively until times gets better, says an exchange.

There is one commendable thing about the quarrels of the Senators. They nearly always make up as publicly as they quarrel.

It seems that Senator Gorman was in error when he said that the majority of the Senate was ready to vote on the tariff bill.

If Gorman survives the show he will go down in history as the only man who ever succeeded in driving protection and free trade as a tandem team.

Senator Butler, of S. C., is trying to get another term by following the methods by which Gordon, of Ga., was elected—capturing the Farmer's Alliance of his State.

A gentleman who has been doctor, clergyman, and lawyer, declares as the result of his experience that men in general will spend more money to fight each other in lawsuits than they will to save either their bodies or their souls.

Copenhagen, the battle steed which carried the Duke of Wellington fourteen hours at a stretch at Waterloo, has been honored with a monument at Stratfield-say, the country seat of the Duke.

Three negro men of Burlington were found to have made insulting remarks in reference to Miss Mary Phillips of that place who was recently outraged by the negro Bob Madkins, and thereupon they were promptly taken in hand and soundly whipped by the indignant white citizens who made no concealment of their work.

It is a curious fact, remarks the New York Post, that at the same time when "industrial armies of the unemployed" are marching through various States, employers of various classes are lamenting their inability to secure workmen, and men who are employed are frequently striking for higher wages. There could hardly be greater anomalies than are presented in these facts, and yet the apparent inconsistencies spring from the same general cause.

SALEM ACADEMY.

Closing Exercises—Orations—Diplomas—Graduating Class to Put in a Vance Memorial Window.

The 22d annual session of Salem Female Academy, one of the oldest and best female schools of the country, closed Thursday the 30th, with highly interesting and creditable exercises.

A strong and appropriate oration was delivered by Rev. Robt. Strange, of Wilmington, "Blessing the Visions of Life," was the theme of his address. Bishop Routbater, of the Methodist Church, presented the diplomas to the graduating class, composed of thirty-seven members. About twenty young ladies were also awarded diplomas in vocal and instrumental music, elocution, bookkeeping and penmanship. Music was furnished by the Salem orchestra.

Principal Howell said that this was one of the best and brightest achievements in the history of the school. The next session opens September 4th. The class which graduated Thursday have decided to raise a fund sufficient to put in a handsome memorial window in the Salem college in honor of North Carolina's late Senator, Zebulon Baird Vance who was a warm friend of the institution.

Constant Advertising Pays Best.

From Printers Ink we take the following and commend it to the attention of each business man:

"Some men catch more fish than other men do. It is supposed that this is because they are more skillful. Those who take careful note, however, observe that the more successful fisherman devotes more time to it. He begins earlier, sticks more closely to it, and quits later. The conclusion is that the man who catches most fish, fishes most hours. It is precisely the same way with advertisers. Some are skillful, some are not. The most successful advertiser is always the one who does the most of it, and keeps it up the longest."

New York Truck Quotations by Wire. Messrs. Palmer Kavenag & Co., of New York, telegraphed the following quotations for that city last night.
