The New Berne Fair is one of the latest to be held but it is one of the earliest in making its orders. The orders for posters for the next exhibition have already been placed so as to secure the best that are going. The posters this year will be the largest and handsomest ever used in the State, and will be more plentifully used than heretofore. The progressive direction believe in always aiming higher in everything, and year by year the growing success of the Fair demonstrates their wisdom in so doing.

Mr. Wm. B. Guice, assuming final of the arrangements within the city, is erecting a residence in the suburbs on the unincorporated road, between the railroad and the National cemetery. We are glad to see such a prominent citizen take an interest in the city. If the city will ever have a more grand and imposing residence than the present one, it is the property that it would then have. It is a property that is so desirable, and so desirable, and so desirable.

AT MOREHEAD.

The Sea-Side Social and Political Mecca of North Carolina—The Teachers' Assembly.

The train arrived to-night nearly on time, and among one of the first acquaintances I formed was Capt. C. B. Denson, my instructor in 1858-59. He then was one of the Principals of Franklin Institute, Mt. Olive. We have never met since, and you can imagine how pleasant it was to meet him and receive that warm grasp. I used to love him and am so proud to again meet him. I had the pleasure of meeting two of his amiable daughters. He has three daughters and one son here.

Among the visitors last night there were three brides—their names and residences I have not learned.

There was a complimentary German given this morning by Mr. Rawlins to Miss Warren of Edenton. It is highly spoken of as a grand affair. Sumptuous refreshments were served.

The fare here is satisfactory, which speaks much for Mr. Perry as a hotelier.

Mr. Stevenson (Harry) is here in his private yacht.

I notice quite a number of New Bernians here, all enjoying themselves finely.

The surf bathing this evening was largely attended, and everything passed off pleasantly.

Your correspondent is handsomely cared for by that genial christian gentleman, W. L. Randall and his amiable better half.

The session of the Assembly will continue to-morrow. The programme for to-morrow is an address by Prof. Yerex of Lafayette Military Institute, subject Book Keeping and Penmanship. At 8:30 p. m. an address by Prof. W. R. McDaniel, Western Maryland college, Westminster, Md.

There was a full house to-night to enjoy the musical concert which was everything that could be desired.

Miss Watson of your City acquitted herself handsomely. The names of the other ladies I filled to get. It is now 11 o'clock and the dance has just begun.

The breeze here to-night is delightful.

Teachers' Assembly adjourns. (Special to JOURNAL.)

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., June 30. The North Carolina Teachers' Assembly adjourned to-day. The accommodations throughout the session were perfectly satisfactory to all.

The summer visitors continue to come. Sixty more arrived to-night.

The weather is too disagreeable just at this time for pleasure, but the clouds will soon roll by and another week of enjoyment will begin.

Rambling Notes on the Excursion.

The Mt. Airy excursion will be repeated the last of August, or in September if there is sufficient indication that it is desired. The good report brought back by every one who went even now causes the expression to be heard from more than one: "If they have another I'm going."

One of the admonitions given us as the train was nearing New Bern on the return was: "Don't fail to compliment Mr. Gloaves for the successful watchfulness he exercised in looking out for the comfort and pleasure of every one." This appreciation is deserved. No one could have been more careful than he was in anticipating the wishes of every one, and in this he was ably seconded by Mr. T. C. James, agent at Wilmington of the C. F. & Y. V. R. R., who with his estimable wife, a former New Bernian, the daughter of Mr. Jno. H. Houghton, were members of the party.

The census of 1890 gives Mt. Airy a population of 1,768. The town has been growing since that time however, and 3,000 is the number of inhabitants now generally claimed for it—some however say 3,500.

It has eight tobacco factories—some of these are four and five story brick buildings. The largest one when running its full force gives employment to 275 hands. One of the proprietors of this factory informed us that all the factories together had about 1,200 hands in the busy season.

A small cotton and knitting mill lies just outside the city limits; three or four miles from town are two larger cotton mills and a woolen mill, which weave as well as spin the yarn; all are run by water power.

Prices of some home products astonished the visitor. Good mountain butter can be bought on the mountain top at ten cents retail. In the town it is sold by dealers at 10, 14, and 12 cents wholesale, according to quality. Home made cheese is ten cents a pound, and fine dried apples 5 cents per pound by the barrel.

Mt. Airy is a "dry" town, but from places in the mountains a supply of the "ardent" can easily be obtained on which no duty to Uncle Sam has been paid and for the sale of which no license has been procured. It is said the illicit distillers in this way make the grain they raise bring them in about three dollars per bushel.

We found the place supplied with New Bern cabbages and were told that a little later that traffic would be reversed and the Mt. Airy region would be supplying New Bern. There would be more trading than there is between the eastern and western parts of the State if the railroads would make special rates to encourage it. We believe in the end it would pay them to do this.

The place has admirable hotel facilities—three good hotels besides the boarding houses. The hotels are the Raleigh Inn, the Mt. Airy Inn and the Central Hotel. The former is of the Romanesque style of architecture. It is an elegant place, charmingly situated with ample and beautiful grounds and an observatory which is a delight to be in. The guests of the Raleigh were in good hands. The place was built for pleasure seekers and is furnished and run accordingly. Not only is a good table kept but the proprietor, Mr. Bryan takes an interest in the wishes of his guests and uses his efforts to advance their plans. Guests at each of the other hotels and at the boarding houses also gave strong expressions of gratification at the clever treatment received.

The dinner on the mountain top at the Fancy Gap Hotel was greatly enjoyed. It was served in good old farm style with both meats and vegetables in abundant variety and well prepared, and the milk and home-made butter, kept cold by the mountain stream before attuned to, was declared by some to be the best they ever tasted.

Mr. A. Hugh Barrington of New Bern can boast of more than any other member of the excursion. He is the only one who ascended the pinnacle of Pilot Mountain. The pinnacle rises 800 feet higher than the mountain. The mountain itself has to be climbed—it cannot be driven up, and the pinnacle has to be climbed by ladders and steps in the rock. Only three started; Mr. Willis of Morehead went up the mountain, Mr. Jos. McLaughlin, of Point Caswell, climbed the first ladder, and Mr. Barrington made the entire trip. The guides say that ladies ascend to the very top oftener than men—that they have steeper heads. Many times the ladies about the pinnacle while their protecting (?) escorts await their return at its foot. Mr. Barrington was the only regular excursionist who made the ascent of the pinnacle, but on the previous day four of the train men also made the trip, we were informed.

As many parties were coming and going to the Blue Ridge all the time we cannot say with certainty that only two ladies penetrated to the bottom of the Devil's Den, but we only heard of two, they were Mrs. Wm. Mcintosh, of New Bern and Miss Annie Patrick of Institute, Lenoir county.

The rock quarries one and a half miles from Mt. Airy, from which the stones for the Confederate monument at Raleigh is to be taken should not be missed by visitors. A single rock covers forty acres. It is an one side of Ararat river, a very narrow stream, and on the other side farming operations are in progress. The quarrying operations are interesting. A steam drill makes a hole in the rock to a depth desired, a blast of powder then splits the rock horizontally for a long distance around and then the workmen sever the blocks from the main portion. This is done by first drilling a number of small holes a few inches apart, then inserting metal wedges, and striking first one and then the other the rock is at last split, the same as a log of wood would be and as evenly. Large blocks are split in the same way. The quarries work sometimes as many as 300 hands.

Another visitor who was a member of the party, discovered gold quartz along the mountain road and he believes that the gold bearing qualities of the mountain should be investigated. It seems that the presence of the gold quartz is known to the people around but no effort to follow it up and see what it will lead to has been made.

Livery and hotel men said the excursionists were the most orderly and easily pleased body of its size they ever dealt with. As a rule there will be some kickers everywhere but none were found on this occasion. It can be said however that the good treatment by the Mt. Airy and mountain people left no cause for anything of the kind.

New Bern visitors left their mark on the very highest spot of Mitchell's peak, by erecting a monument, a head high mound, there out of the stones scattered so abundantly around. It was built by Messrs. Chas. E. Nelson, Chas. Case and Calhoun McCarthy. They worked diligently at it for several hours; some of the stones in it were as much as all three could carry. They also encircled the mound by a large ring of stones. After they were through other visitors added to it a rock or two at a time; the travelers up the side of the peak will hereafter be guided in their ascent by this pile of rocks directly to the place they are aiming for.

It was our good fortune to be with Mr. G. P. White, one of the livery stable proprietors, on the mountain trip, and a better companion for answering all the numerous questions each one propounded and for pointing out and describing of his own accord the things that would interest them could not have been found.

On the homeward trip a quarter of an hour's stop was made at the Guilford battle ground, where was fought the battle that was the turning point of the Revolutionary war, it resulting in the British defeat that led to the surrender at Yorktown. The monument and surroundings were examined with interest as were also the hundreds of Revolutionary and Indian relics in the museum.

HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The property of the News-Observer company, Raleigh, has passed into the hands of a receiver. It is to be sold on July 16th. The explanation is the usual one—expenses larger than receipts.

Labor's great battle over the Pullman boycott is still on in the great west, stopping transportation and demoralizing trade. Where the end is, or where it will reach cannot be told.

Senator Thos. J. Jarvis of this State has several times been honored by a call to preside over the deliberations of that body and is much complimented by the press for the graceful manner in which he does it.

The following are given as among the congressional candidates of the Democratic party in the Sixth District: S. B. Alexander of Mecklenburg, J. A. Lockhart, Anson, Jno. D. Bellamy and Iredell Meares of Wilmington.

So far as now known there is but one candidate for Solicitor in this judicial district. The colored Republican Robert W. Williams of this place is the man. Where are the Democratic and Populist parties, that one, or both, are not looking after their interests in this matter?

When Lafayette had rendered such signal service to this country in the war of our severance from England, he returned to LaBelle France in time to rescue temporarily his King and Queen from the violence of an infuriated common mob. After a century history is about to repeat itself in that land of the vine and wine, but the patriot who will represent Lafayette has not yet appeared before the National looting.

Beautiful indeed is the character of that little news girl of which the Philadelphia Record speaks. It says: Annie Zuckerman, a nine-year-old news girl, who handed to Officer McGinnis a $5 gold piece which had been given to her by a newspaper purchaser in mistake for a cent, in the hope that the owner might be identified and get his own again, has set an example of sturdy honesty that ought not to go unmarked. How many adults are there in business for themselves who do business on the honorable basis established by this little vender?

Druggists will tell you that Johnson's Magoeic Oil always gives satisfaction and is the cheapest. $1.00 size 50 cts.; 50 ct. size 25 cts.

Mt. Airy's Remarkable Health Record. During the last year Mt. Airy has had a most remarkable health record. The town has a population of about thirty-five hundred, yet the total number of deaths during the last seven months has not exceeded one dozen in all, including whites and blacks, adults and children. Several of those who have died in this time were very old people who had lived their three score and ten years.

At this time there is very little, if any, dangerous sickness in town and the indications are that there will not be much this summer. We have reason to be proud of such a record.—Yadkin Valley News.
