Tuesday is the time for the Asheville excursion. It is an astonishingly cheap one and gives a good opportunity to view the grand mountain scenery all around the "land of the sky." It is a trip that ought to carry a large crowd. The train leaves here at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The country in general seems to be getting over the mad dog scare, but in Durham it has commenced again. A dog of Mr. J. Ed. Lyon acted queerly and finally wound up by attacking and biting several other dogs. The bitten dogs, among them some very fine ones, were killed, as well as the mad one. The commotion created caused the authorities to pass another order on the subject.

We learn that Spencer Bynum, col. of Institute township, Lenoir county, was committed to jail on the 18th, for the attempted poisoning of another colored man's horse and mule and also his family. The name of the intended victim was Henry Vaughn. Paris green and strychnine were tied up in this cloth and hung up over the manger of the horse so it would sift out, and poison was also put in the well used by the family. Bynum, the poisoner, is a negro preacher.

Japanese Lecture by a Japanese.
Rev. I. S. Ishida, a Japanese convert from Paganism to Christianity, is to lecture Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at Centenary M. E. church.

The poster announcing his coming states that he will come before the audience dressed in his native costume which will greatly amuse and he will show and explain a great many Japanese curiosities.

Among the things he shows is a dangerous looking sword inherited from his father, a shintoo priest. The sword is stated to be very poisonous, the least cut from it will kill. It is 300 years old and has killed 30 people.

He will also exhibit his mother's God, a quaint and ugly thing, also the moon God, the fire god, the water God and others.

Another instrument he has is a wonderful Japanese counting machine used in making arithmetical calculations. It is announced that any one in the audience can give him an example, long or short, in addition, subtraction, multiplication or division and with the machine he will give the correct answer and do so by the time the others in the audience get the figures put down.

Then he has a variety of interesting things from Japan, a musical instrument, pillow, shoes, money, etc.

Mr. Ishida is the son of a Shintoo priest, and was driven from home because of his allegiance to Christ. He has been in America three years and is now a regular Methodist minister. His former presiding elder, Rev. Jas. T. Kindall, who was a delegate to the late general conference, is with him on this trip.

Mr. Ishida's lecture is said to be entertaining, pathetic and witty and to be an intellectual banquet that will please the most fastidious.

LA FAYETTE MILITARY ACADEMY.

A Comprehensive and Thorough Practical East Carolina School.
La Fayette Military Academy, Fayetteville, founded last year by Major J. W. Yerex, Supt., shows an enrollment of 113 students, ten states being represented among the number.

The school embraces a preparatory department, a classical and scientific department, a commercial and a music and art department.

This being an Eastern North Carolina Military school we will call particular attention to some of its special features as presented in the catalogue.

There is a regular business course embracing just such studies as make up the course in strictly business colleges.

The Superintendent says of the commercial department or department of trade, finance and accounting that the course of study in it "is comprehensive, eminently practical, and embraces more than any similar school of which we have any knowledge. It embraces all that is necessary to meet the requirements of business and to enable those who complete it to at once fill positions in first class mercantile and banking houses, manufacturing establishments or offices of any kind where a thorough, theoretical and largely practical knowledge of business, business customs and methods, accounting, business correspondence and business law are indispensable qualifications. We do say that the young man who satisfactorily completes a thorough course of business training with us acquires such a broad and general knowledge of the great underlying principles involved, that he has an immense advantage over those who have never had such training, and that business presents to him future possibilities which those not having such training would consider altogether unattainable.

The school has a thorough and complete course of instruction in short-hand, type-writing and telegraphy.

The cadet band from this school, a fine musical organization, was one of the features at the Teacher's Assembly at Morehead City this summer, and it is a regular feature of the school which gives much pleasure to the cadets, and is a source of pride to all connected with the institution. The school offers excellent opportunities to any student desirous of learning to play upon any band instrument, as the most thorough instruction is given by a highly accomplished teacher and at no expense to the student.

Space will not permit us to notice the other departments or other features. We simply add an extract from a testimonial given by Rev. J. T. Lyon, pastor of Centenary M. E. church, New Berne. He says "I do not know of any school in the State that has better facilities or has done better work in training young men for life's battles."

Major Yerex is well satisfied with the success that has thus far attended the school but he intends it to be only an incentive to higher development.

Eckles Rose-Colored Views.
James H. Eckels, Comptroller of the Currency, said in response to inquiries as to the condition of finances:
"The condition of the banks of the country presents a striking contrast to that of a year ago. At that time scarcely a day passed without a failure occurring. To-day a failure is an exception. The money starvation which was everywhere met with has not only disappeared, but every bank is glutted with idle money."
"The report of May 4, showed more actual money in the banks than ever in the history of the system, while the individual and bank and bankers' deposits were rapidly approaching high water marks. It must be evident to everyone that the present standstill in business cannot long continue when the tariff question is settled."

Surely with such a statement as the above, the country has some cause for gratification. Think of the condition of the country to-day, and how it was twelve months ago when both State and National banks, more especially in the North and West were crumbling by the dozen under the great financial depression, and other trust companies and money institutions were made to totter in the terrible strain. To-day, the business of the country, though on no boom, is in much better condition, and money, where amply secured, more easily obtained, all brought about by a more settled condition of business and confidence in its stability.

Banks are not conducted for hoarding money. They hold it only when the condition of affairs do not justify an exchange in making loans and discounts.

The strikes that have taken place over the country, have had serious effect in their immediate localities, but fortunately the South has had very little of them, and to-day, instead of having any complaint to make, we should feel grateful to know that we have been so little affected by the stringency.

A Branch of The W. N. & N
A correspondent of the Wilmington Messenger writing from Palo Alto says: "This part of Onslow contains some of the finest farming land as your correspondent has seen in North Carolina."
The Wilmington, New Berne and Norfolk railroad is going to run a branch road from White Oaks to a landing on to White Oak river, which will add much to this already thriving community."
Hawaii is now a republic. The officers took the oath on July 4th.

Murrah For Beaufort's Base Ballists.

The Beaufort base ball club again carries off the honors in base ball. A combination team composed of players from the Charlotte, Concord and Oxford teams came over from Camp Vance, and played our boys a game, the score being 5 to 3 in favor of Beaufort after six innings had been played by the combination team. The game was closely contested throughout and was much enjoyed by the spectators.

Skinner, of Oxford, and Beaman, of Charlotte did the box work and Wood of Oxford did the catching for the visiting team. Jones and Howland were the battery for Beaufort. They both did fine work and we say it without hesitation that we believe Beaufort has as good a battery as any amateur team in Eastern Carolina if not in the State. Beaman, of Charlotte, did some fine pitching and our boys did not succeed in getting but one base hit off him. Skinner pitched very good ball.

The victory was quite a surprise to the Beaufort people as well as to the club, as the visiting team had beaten the Morehead team so easily on Monday. It will be remembered that Morehead beat Beaufort two games in the beginning of the season.
