NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Howards, J. Suter—Chairs, New Berne Ice Company, Bryan & Smith—Disolution, Hackburn & Willett—Astounding news

The regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Centenary M. E. church will be held to-night.

The colored boy who lost his foot by getting it crushed under the train a few days ago, is getting on well.

A party of twenty-five Carteret con city people—some from Sayrna but most from Bogue Banks passed through moving to Panta Gork, Fla.

Maj. R. S. Tucker, of Raleigh, has sustained a stroke of paralysis and is now critically ill at his home in that city. This will cause wide spread regret.

The extract from a state law relative to military companies may be an eye-opener to some of the members of the Naval Reserves. It will be found under the head "Notice—Naval Reserves."

A telegram from Major D. T. Carraway who is spending the summer at Mt. Mitchell Hotel, Black Mountain, states that the thermometer record there yesterday was from sixty-two to eighty-two. The large number of New Bernians at the hotel are all well.

Sam'l Hudson, Esq., of Pollocksville paid this office a very pleasant call yesterday. He says there is no doubt as to how Jones county will cast her vote this fall. She is truly Democratic in spite of all the combinations that the Pops and Reps may form.

The W. N. & N. Railroad is raising the northern sidewalk of the foot of Queen street about six inches with marginal and is placing a curbing at the edge. The sidewalk on the opposite side of the street will be served similarly. It will make a good improvement.

Rev. Edward Bull is delivering the Standard Dictionary which he represents in New Berne. The book is the most complete and costliest literary work ever produced in America, and is beyond question one of the marvels of the present age. It is substantially bound in two volumes and contains 175,000 more words than Webster's Dictionary and 75,000 more than the Century.

The following is the roll of honor for the public school in district No. 46, Onslow county for July 1893: Misses Mamie Franck, May Franck, Jennie Franck, Cassie Ellis, Laura Koonce, and Annie Koonce; Masters Pale Koonce, Cad Koonce, Burke Koonce and Lafayette Franck.

The News Observer-Chronicle states that Gov. Carr has commuted the death sentence of Dick Broadus of Caswell county to life imprisonment. He was under sentence to be hanged Saturday, for rape. We are not posted as to the circumstances attending this case but as a rule allowing such criminals to escape with anything less than a broken neck and that speedily when the law is allowed to have its course with them is one of the main things that encourages lynch law.

See the Battle.

Tickets for the sham battle will be on sale to-day at Gaskill's Pharmacy and at Nunn and McSorley's. The fight will begin at 7 o'clock sharp. There will be several advances and retreats, capturing and recapturing of the cannon, etc. The battle is to be a lively one.

The two front rows of the grand stand will be reserved at an additional charge of five cents. The regular ten cent ticket admits to all other parts of the grand stand.

A Colored Affray.

A colored man named John McLucas alias Jas. Oden, who lives on Mr. C. W. McIlwain's plantation, a few miles from the city became involved in a difficulty with his wife yesterday, and beat her and also inflicted a wound upon her arm with some sharp instrument. She says he had a knife in one hand and a hatchet in the other, and she does not know which was used.

The woman jumped from a window and ran with her husband after her. Neighbors interfered and McLucas shot one of them, Isaac Slater, col., in the arm with a pistol. McLucas then left—some suppose he has run away—and the woman came to town and had her wounds dressed.

Coming and Going.

Miss Mary Wright left for Bayboro to visit friends.

Misses Theresa and Katie Roberts, accompanied by their friend, Miss Odora Wallace, returned from Morehead yesterday where they have been spending two or three weeks.

Mrs. W. C. Gelfroy who has been visiting her sister Mrs. C. R. Thomas, left for her home in Beaufort.

Mr. W. R. Barrington, Mrs. R. Barker, and Miss Minnie Wade left to attend the conference of the M. E. church which is in session at Trenton. Rev. N. M. Jurney of Mt. Olive passed through from Beaufort and Rev. W. E. Elverton of the Straits from his home to attend the conference. Other delegates also passed through en route to the conference.

The Lawn Party—At the Fair Grounds.

The lawn party for the benefit of the Thompson Orphanage, instead of being held at the residence of Judge H. R. Bryan as heretofore announced, will be held at the Fair Grounds directly after the Sham Battle.

When the sham battle is over the gate to the fair grounds will be thrown open and any body and everybody who so desires may enter free of charge.

This change is no doubt a wise one.

The battle ought to draw a good crowd and so ought the lawn party, by dividing possibly neither might be as largely attended as it otherwise would be and by holding them together the patronage of each will doubtless be considerably increased.

The lawn party is for a very worthy object, to aid a school which give support and instruction to boys and girls who have lost their parents and need its protection, and while the school is under Episcopal control its benefits are open alike to any without regard to denominational preference or inclinations.

A very pleasant evening is expected.

Fireman's Championship Belt.

The Greensboro Record says: The Championship Belt offered by the North Carolina State Fireman's Association to the hose reel team making the best time in the hand hose contest at the annual tournament in Winston, August 30-31, has been received by Secretary Griffith, and is now on exhibition at Farrar's jewelry store, where it is being admired by all lovers of the beautiful. It was made at Col. C. G. Braxmar's establishment in New York, and is the handsomest belt ever seen in Greensboro.

The belt is surmounted by an eagle, immediately under which is artistically blended the National colors. The engraving is very fine, and is: North Carolina State Fireman's Association Championship Belt. Hand Hose Race. Under this is the Coat of Arms of North Carolina. It has eight links and buckle—each link burnished, heavily gold plated, with an embossed buckle. It cost $75.00.

Members of the New Berne Hose Reel companies, is not the probability of securing that belt sufficient to incite to diligent practice?

Notice, Naval Reserves.

Your attention is called to act entitled an act to establish and provide for the militia, and for the support and maintenance of the State Guard. Sec. 33, last sentence:

"If any officer or soldier shall absent himself from any of the military duties required by orders or regulations without first having obtained the written permission of the commanding officer or without a reasonable excuse, he shall be guilty of a breach of discipline, and fined such sum as the majority of the company may, by their laws, have fixed, not exceeding the sum of five dollars, or may be imprisoned for a term not exceeding five days."

Died.

In Boston, on Wednesday, the 1st instant, in the 63d year of his age, after a short illness, Edward Graham Daves, of Baltimore, Md., second son and third child of John Pugh Daves and Elizabeth B. Graham, his wife, late of New Berne, N. C., deceased. Alas! Our Brother.

Of the four nominations made by the populists for the Supreme court two are Republicans and two are Democrats. Faircloth and Furche are the Republicans; Clark and Conner the Democrats. Judge Clark is now on the Supreme court bench and Conner is an ex-Judge.

Prof. Edward Graham Daves

The announcement of the death of this cultured gentleman appears in another column.

Not only in New Bern the place of his nativity and in Baltimore the place of his residence will the death of this gentleman be mourned, but wherever he is known, and there is scarcely any telling to what extent that was, for he was not only eminent as a scholar, but had in the three score and six years of his life mingled with many of the very prominent people of both hemispheres.

He was born in this city. His education commenced in the New Berne Academy, and he early showed marked taste for the classics. At the age of twelve years he was at the head of his class as a student of Greece and Virgil, thus giving token in early life of his mental ability and scholarly tastes.

Commencing at the age of fourteen he spent three years under select private tutors while living on a plantation with a relative.

Then he entered Harvard College. This was at the time when Jared Sparks, the pioneer explorer among the archives of American history was President, and Pierce, the great mathematician, was among the faculty. Among the afterwards eminent men who were students at the same time were President Eliot, Bishop Perry, Furness, the Shakespearian, the younger Agassiz and Rev. Phillips Brooks, D. D.

This was at a time when there were few Southern boys in the college, but their influence was out of proportion to the numbers. Young Daves was diligent, of a social temperament and was popular. He was consequently chosen President of various college societies and was the marshal of his class.

In classical studies he continued to be specially proficient and had the advantage of having admirable instruction from Sophocles, a native Greek who was counted one of the most thorough of teachers, and a perfect master of all Hellenic lore.

Mr. Daves graduated in 1854 with second honors, and with a prize for oratory, then studied law and left Cambridge in 1856 with the degree of Bachelor of Laws and after a brief time spent with an established law firm was admitted as a member of the Maryland bar.

But just at this time he was elected to the Greek Professorship in Trinity College, Hartford, and it being a pursuit he loved, law books were laid aside for his favorite classics and he devoted himself, with diligence and success, to the duties of this position for five years.

In 1861 he sailed for Europe and spent ten years in the Eastern hemisphere. He first attended lectures for a short time at Bonn and in the autumn settled at Berlin at that most interesting period in German history when William had just been crowned King of Prussia and the initial measures of his reign were the appointment of the then little known Bismarck and the perfecting of that fine army organization which revolutionized the military system of Europe.

After traveling much in Germany, both studying and teaching, he moved to Paris in the spring of 1863, at that brilliant period in the French capital when Louis Napoleon, flushed with his victories in the Crimea and in Italy was posing as the arbiter of Europe, and when the court of the Tuilleries was the centre of the highest political interest. "The Empress Eugenie was then at the meridian of her beauty, and was the acknowledged Queen of taste and fashion, and around her throne were fluttering the butterfly-like of every clime."

After a year spent in France, Professor Daves moved to Vevey on the lake of Geneva and there established a private school for American boys. He thus spent five years, the routine being broken by frequent journeys.

In 1865 he spent a month at Rome when the city was still under Papal sway and the city garrisoned by French troops, upon whose bayonets rested the Papal throne.

In 1867 he attended the World's Fair at Paris. At this time the world seemed at the pinnacle of its glory. The sovereigns, statesmen and illustrious men of every country in Europe crowded the French capital and were entertained with great military pageants to show them that France was invincible in arms.

In 1869 Mr. Daves moved with his pupils from Vevey to Florence.

Again he reached Paris on a summer day in 1870 just as the news was received which furnished the pretext for declaring war against Germany and found all France wild with excitement and then passed over into Germany and back to Italy in the Autumn.

That with his pupils he took a journey in the Orient spending nearly three months among the wonders of Egypt, thence through the Suez canal going thence to Syria and the Holy Land visiting its most important places and ending at Mt. Carmel. Then on the travelers went to Constantinople the meeting point of European and Asiatic life and then on to Greece and Rome where an audience was granted to Prof. Daves by Pope Pio Nono. There the summer was passed in slowly travelling across Europe ending with Rotterdam and London and then Prof. Daves came back to Baltimore after an absence of ten years, settled where he devoted himself to private ### teaching and lectures or literary topics.

Of late years his interest has centered mainly in colonial history, and it was through his efforts and influence that the monument to the heroes of the Maryland time was erected on Guilford battle field, and he organized the Virginia Dares Memorial Association, the company formed to purchase and preserve old Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island, the birth place of American liberty.

Prof. Daves was an active member of the Cincinnati and of the society of the Sons of the Revolution. The former society was formed at Hillsboro in October 1783 with General Jethro Sumner President and Maj. John Daves, a Revolutionary hero, the grand father of Prof. Daves an original member. It was composed of officers of the Continental line.

We close this notice with expressed opinion of our townsman Mr. Jonathan Havens, a friend of the family.

In conversation with him he said that he considered Professor Daves one of the highest intellects ever born in North Carolina; he was a man of elegant address, and fascinating manners, of rational gifts, and above all the highest type of a christian gentleman.

POPULIST CONVENTIONS.

The Assistant Republican Party Meets and Makes Nominations. The Platform.

We take the following account of the Third Party State Convention proceedings at Raleigh, from the Wilmington Messenger:

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 1, 1894. The Populist State convention met at Metropolitan hall at 11:30 o'clock. It was called to order by Marion Butler, who was greeted with great applause when he stepped on the stage. Capt. J. B. Lloyd read the roll of counties, in accordance with the request of Mr. Butler. The floor was filled with delegates, the number apparently being 400. In the gallery there were at least 300, some delegates, some spectators, many of them farmers, and there were many negro onlookers.

A few colored delegates were noticed on the floor. It was very hot and fans and hats waved incessantly. In a private box sat a quite pretty young lady, a very unusual sight at a political assemblage.

Some of the most earnest Populists who attracted attention were W. S. Barnes, S. O. Wilson, W. H. Worlth, J. W. Denmark, Dr. Cy. Thompson, Huck Kitchin, Harry Skinner, W. F. Strout, and Dr. Pat. Exam. At 11:40 o'clock Rev. S. O. Norris opened the convention with prayer, at Mr. Butler's request. He prayed most earnestly for the Populist party and its success. It was truly a political party.

Mr. Butler then made a few remarks, while Mr. Richmond Pearson, Mr. H. G. Ewart, and Mr. V. S. Lusk, all well known Republicans, were sitting in the rear of the stage, expressing perhaps a fatherly and kindly supervision over this gathering of "associate Republicans."

Mr. Butler appointed as temporary chairman Capt. Lloyd, and as temporary secretary Mr. J. W. Denmark, of the Progressive Farmer.

While the committees were out there were calls for Harry Skinner, who said he appreciated the call and termed his reception "almost an ovation." He said he did not want office. Had he wanted office he would have remained in the Democratic party. He said the Populist party was the only one which could save the country. He took occasion to condemn the march of the Cossack army and the strikes at Homestead and Chicago, but said a society which did not recognize the brotherhood of man or the fatherhood of God was destined to disruption, and a party which would not legislate for the people ought to be sunk into oblivion.

While Col. Skinner was speaking a number of Republicans took their seats in rear of the stage. Among these were C. M. Bernard, Dr. Mott, J. C. L. Harris, H. L. Grant, W. A. Guthrie, U. D. Dockery, W. A. Baily and others. These appeared to enjoy Skinner's remarks, even though he said the Democratic and Republican parties belonged to the devil. He asserted that the People's party was the savior of the people. He declared that the party must put up only the best, ablest and purest men to be nominated for treasurer and justices, men equal to those the Democrats will name. He then spoke of Grover Cleveland and John Sherman as "pirates," but got very faint applause for this remark.

The chairman of the committee on permanent organization reported, recommending Professor John Graham, of Warren, as permanent chairman, and J. B. Lloyd and J. W. Denmark and editors of reform papers as permanent secretaries.

THE PLATFORM.

The committee on platform reported, through Marion Butler.

The platform declares for free coinage, 16 to 1; denounces the repeal of the coinage of silver, reaffirms the best Standard National platform; denounces the refusal to use silver, as well as gold dollars; favors abolition of National banks and the issue of treasury notes, these to be legal tender for all debts; denounces both Republicans and Democrats for contracting the currency and for issuing interest-bearing bonds in time of peace; denounces the McKinley Tariff bill and the pending Tariff bill and the tax on sugar and other necessities, terming the pending Tariff bill as a cowardly makeshift for tariff reform; favors a graduated income tax, favors laws against dealing in futures declares that State rather than National fiat forms should govern Representatives where platform conflicts opposes foreign immigration; opposes monopolies; sympathizes with the oppressed, but opposes rioting or anything else not in strict compliance with the laws; attacks the administration and Congress for debauchery and riotous living, and points with pride to the little band of Populists at Washington; favors four months public schools; condemns the Democrats for failure to enforce the anti-trust laws and against broken banks, favors a reformatory; condemns the Legislature for lavish expenditure and for failure to collect back taxes; condemns the election methods of Democrats in the last election in certain counties and demands changes in the Election Law. The platform was adopted by a rising vote.

THE NOMINATIONS.

After some dispute the platform committee was instructed to retire and present to the convention the names of four persons for the Supreme court. The committee presented the following resolutions:

"We declare our intention to cast our votes for W. T. Faircloth for chief justice, Walter Clark for associate justice, to succeed himself, D. M. Furche to succeed Judge MacRae, and H. G. Conner to succeed Judge Barwell.

Kitchin nominated Spier Whitaker for chief justice, but this was quickly withdrawn. Nat Mason nominated Walter Clark for chief justice. This also was withdrawn and the four names reported by the platform committee were nominated by acclamation.

The executive committee was empowered to fill vacancies of any who declined to be candidates.

W. H. Worlth was also by acclamation nominated for treasurer. William A. Graham was placed in nomination by his name was quickly withdrawn.

As soon as the State convention adjourned at 6:30 o'clock the Populist Congressional convention of this district met and nominated W. F. Strout, of Chapel Hill, for Congress.

New York Truck Quotations by Wire.

Messrs. Palmer Rivenburg & Co., of New York, telegraphed the following quotations for that city last night.

Watermelons, large, 25 and 30c; medium, 15 20c; grapes, Niagara, 5 and 8; Delawares, 8 and 10; Moore's early, 7 and 9; Champsions and Ives, 8 lb. baskets, 20 and 25; Sweet's yellow, $2.25 to $2.75; Red, $2.00 to $2.50.

HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

The Pullman car works have been started up.

The Mayor of Chicago has denied permission to have a street parade in honor of Debs.

What is to be the largest sailing vessel in the world is now being built at Bremen, Germany. It is to be of iron, a five-master, 6,156 tons, 365 feet long, 50 feet across the beam, and 304 feet from deck to keel.

The Florida democratic convention endorsed the course of President Cleveland and the Democratic House in the present tariff crisis were uncompromisingly and enthusiastically endorsed, and the conservative Democratic Senator condemned.

Another Japanese-Chinese naval battle has taken place. The Chen Yuen, one of China's best iron clad was sunk and two cruisers captured. It is reported that still another cruiser was destroyed. About one thousand Chinese are said to have been drowned.

War has been formerly declared between Japan and China. Another engagement resulted in a victory for the Chinese. The declaration of hostilities has aroused all the fanaticism of the Mongolians and they proclaim vengeance upon Japan to the bitter end. The forces of the Chinese were led by European officers. The condition of affairs has very much imperiled the lives of foreigners.
