An Alligator Attacks Two Boys. Alligators really seem to be getting more abundant and bold in this vicinity than ever before. Mr. J. D. Hensley's little boy, David, and a companion, Hardy Priest, son of Mr. Stephen Priest, narrowly escaped falling victim to a large one in Haywood's creek, where they were hunting summer duck in a small boat. They noticed the alligator making for them when he had got to close quarters; getting close to the boat he opened his mouth and wheeled around with elevated tail his evident intention being not to hit the boat but to knock one of the little fellows out. With a paddle they shoved the boat out of the way just in time to entirely escape the blow. The alligator made for them again but they rowed on and left him. This creek is the same one in which the live eleven foot alligator that Mr. Hensley has on exhibition was captured by fishermen in a net a few months back. Mr. Hensley proposes in company with some one else to soon go hunting for this last alligator.

The Faculty of the Collegiate Institute Completed.

Prof. James E. Hughes of Philadelphia, has accepted the position of instructor of ancient and modern languages in New Berne Collegiate Institute. He was graduated from Haverford College (June, 1894) with the degree of A. B. Before entering college, he was graduated from the Philadelphia High School, which has a high standing, with the degree of A. B. and lately the degree of A. M. was conferred on him by the same institution. He also spent a year at a boarding school (St. Luke's Academy). During the past two years of his college life (Senior and Junior years) he devoted his time almost exclusively to two subjects, Latin and Greek, 10 out of every 15 required hours of work being given up to them. The first two and a half years of his college life were spent at Lehigh University where he received a good training in mathematics and modern languages as well as in the classics. He afterward went to Haverford in response to the offer of a scholarship by the president, Isaac Sharpless. At that time he decided to teach Latin and Greek on graduation and accordingly specialized to that effect. He is also familiar with the use of the type-writing, knows how to keep books, and has a very good knowledge of music. His course in college has been very extensive and he is a thorough scholar. President Sharpless says: "James Edward Hughes is graduated this year from Haverford College. "He entered here as a Junior from Lehigh University and has done good work mainly in classics. He is a young man of good character and habits." Prof. Gifford of the same institution says: "This certifies that Mr. James E. Hughes has been under my instruction in Greek for the last year and a half of his college course. "The work done during this time has been chiefly on Plato and Greek Tragedy. "It gives me pleasure to testify to his general good scholarship in this subject." Miss Susan Dillingham is also added to the faculty. Her qualifications are too well known in New Berne to detailize. She holds a diploma from a High School in Lowell, Mass.

An Iron Fence Needed.

A general renovating and some slight repair work is going on at the Collegiate Institute building preparatory to opening the school next week. We believe the Trustees intend in some way improving the enclosure, either with a neat curbing or iron fence. The latter improvement should be made immediately. It has already too long been an eyesore to have rotten posts and broken wire strung along the sidewalk to grace an institution of learning, situated in the very heart of the city, and where trains daily pass, and the travelling public brought face to face with so unsightly and uninviting surroundings. A good substantial iron fence is most needed. It will cost considerable to first place it there, but it would be permanent and lasting, and always look well. Again it would put a cessation to persons tramping through the grounds and cutting it up into paths, thus marring the only public lawn within the limits of the city. It is with more than passing regret that we cannot point with pride to our leading educational institution. It cannot be classed as in keeping with the progress and advancement of New Berne, and her refined and cultured people. Prof. Mendhall the new Principal, has come among us highly endorsed, and he has made a good impression during the short time he has been here, but his efforts will be in vain, if he does not meet with the hearty co-operation of our citizens, and especially the trustees of the school.

Collegiate Institute Prizes.

This school offers three prizes this year. One to that pupil who shall attain to the highest average grades on recitation and examination during the scholastic year. Another to the pupil who makes the greatest progress in Elocution and Rhetoric during the year and on the Commencement. No pupil can compete for these prizes unless in school the first week and who shall be in school the entire scholastic year--also must sustain a good report. E. P. MENDENHALL.

Annual Examination of the Life Saving Crew.

Messrs. David Jones, Wm. Willis, Joss. W. Harris, Kilby Guthery, Alex. Moore, Jos. E. Wade and M. T. Lewis went to New Berne to be examined for service in the Life Saving Station at Cape Lookout. The crew is examined yearly. The station opens earlier this year and the crew will be put on for ten months instead of eight as formerly. The bill passed making this a law is certainly a wise one. The salary of each member of the crew is reduced from $85 to $60 per month. Beaufort Herald.

W. T. CARO, Deputy Collector, New Berne, N. C.

OAKS POULTRY FARM

The Coming Poultry Establishment of the South.

A visit to any one of the Poultry farms around New Berne is an interesting event and not the least so is one to the fine ones "Oaks Poultry Farm" recently established by the experienced fanciers, Messrs. John Ellis & L. S. Wood, which occupies a portion of the far-famed stock and truck farm of Messrs. Hackburn & Willett. The Oaks from which the enterprise takes its name. The enterprise was established only this spring and its arrangements are as yet but fairly started yet sufficient progress has been made to show that it is destined to be another progressive enterprise of which New Berne will have just cause to be proud.

As our readers know the business was started too late this spring to get fairly into it then, but 1250 chickens were hatched out. The birds are now thriving finely and will afford a good nucleus for the next season's operations.

Fifteen varieties of high class thoroughbred chickens are being bred. They are: Cochins--buff, white, black and silver-laced; Plymouth rocks--barred and white; Brahmas--light and dark; Minorcas--black and white; brown Leghorns, Indian game, black Spanish and Houdans. It is a splendid assortment of varieties and the farm will in a few months more be almost a Poultry show in itself. It is the intention of the proprietors to make it the largest and most complete poultry establishment in the South, and in this effort they have the good-will of the entire community for success.

One hundred acres will, as required be devoted to the poultry. Fifteen acres are now taken up in building and yards. The buildings embrace the keepers residence, an office apart from the residence, the incubator quarters in which three incubators of 200 eggs capacity each will be run next season, a building not yet erected but which soon will be for the chicks during the first week or two of their lives. (It will be sufficient for 1200 of them at a time) the regular chicken houses of commodious size and each divided into three apartments with each apartment opening into its own yard.

A good number of the buildings are already completed and others are to be erected at once. Every variety will have its yard where the finest birds will be raised to sell for breeding purposes all over the country, and in addition to raising these breeding birds for fanciers, very large flocks of Brown Leghorn and Minorcas will be kept with unlimited range exclusively for eggs for market.

The Emperor of China has been accustomed to have ten men hold his umbrella. He does not intend to lose it, but the war may change all that.

It must be a bit wearisome to grow up with a town in Norway, if Tromso, which has taken 1,000 years to get 6,000 inhabitants, be a fair specimen of town growth in that country.

John McLean, a Sherman lunatic, has an inordinate desire for water, and will stand and drink it as long as it is handed him. Acting Warden Pitts kept account one day of the water used, and it reached nearly seven gallons. He never drinks the last cupful handed him if he is informed it is to be the last, but lets it set undisturbed for half a day. He is 60 years old. (El Paso Herald.) It is remarkable that Texas should consider a man crazy because he wants water.

There were three terrible mine disasters in the United States Friday. The most appalling was near Seattle, Washington. A coal mine caught on fire and the miners were imprisoned in the fiery furnace. Thirty-seven dead bodies have been taken out and others, it is not known how many, are still inside. It is not thought any can escape. A gas explosion in a colliery at Gilberton, Pa., killed two men and seriously injured nine more and four men in the Methuyst mine at Creede, Col., were literally bruised, burned and boiled to death by the dropping of an iron cage while the shaft house was on fire.
