CHEERING.

When the tariff bill was in conference we had grave apprehension for the future of the Democratic party. There seemed to be an impassable gulf between the Democrats of the House and Democrats of the Senate and we feared that the next House would be Republican. But when a tariff bill was passed that is infinitely better than the McKinley law, we saw that the storm cloud was passing away, and we believed that the sun of prosperity would soon shine upon the American people.

We looked for the resumption of business, but we did not expect so great a revival.

The Philadelphia Record publishes from day to day reports of the resumption of business by established industries, as well as the inauguration of new enterprises. In its issue of August 30th it gives two closely printed columns of projected and resuscitated industries in the states of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and West Virginia. That there is corresponding activity in other parts of the Union is not to be doubted.

The South never suffered from the late depression to the extent that the East and the West suffered, but even here the beneficial effects of the repeal of the McKinley law are plainly to be seen.

Hope has revived throughout the country.

It is said that the tide of immigration is turning Southward. If the South can be so fortunate as to secure the better class of immigrants it will be of incalculable benefit to her, but it should be distinctly understood that she has no room for anarchists, socialist, and revolutionists. Honest and intelligent labor is welcomed in the South, and no where more so than in North Carolina, and it matters very little whence it comes if it become assimilated to our customs and is obedient to our laws.

Another cheering sign of the times is to be found in the hopeful spirit that is animating our people. The tribe of grovelers will never become extinct, but the great mass of the people are moving about with more cheerful faces and a quicker step. If their future is not better than the past has been it will be met with a more resolute spirit, a determination never to succumb, but to press forward in the path of duty wherever it may lead.

Men are to be men, and no longer loiterers on the sands of time, and this of itself spans the horizon with the bow of promise.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Southern Development—Our Delegation at Home—Only Ransom Left—The Knights of Pythias—Other Notes.

The Southern development association opened its session at Willards Hall at 10 o'clock this morning. The object of this meeting of representative business men of the south is to discuss and provide an organized method of investigation and development of southern investments and resources, and to take action in any direction looking to an improvement of the business condition of the south. One idea which will be elaborated in the convention in Washington a permanent exhibit of southern resources and a bureau for establishing communication between northern investors and southern investments.

The meeting was called to order this morning by Samuel Blackwell of Alabama, third auditor of the treasury. Prayer was offered by the Rev. E. B. Bagby chaplain of the House of Representatives.

Mr. E. A. Ebert of Salem was made one of the Vice Presidents. Mr. W. F. Beasley of N. C. was put on a permanent committee on the scope and plan of business. A number of delegates from different southern states registered to-day.

Senator Ransom is the only member of our delegation in the city. Mr. Woodard left to-day for N. C.

Washington is crowded with Knights of Pythias and visitors, and crowds still come in on every train.

To-night Robert Downing who ranks high in the Pythian order will reproduce at the National Theatre the famous old play of Damon and Pythias. The motto of the Knights is, Friendship, Charity, Brotherhood, and the order is founded on the motives underlying the romantic story of the famous old Romans above referred to.

The fight over the relative merits of the Senate tariff bill over the House bill has been transferred to the Democratic Congressional committee.

Representative Wilson has been most heartily endorsed by the democrats of his district who renominated him for Congress yesterday. Reports from the convention show that the enthusiasm for Mr. Wilson was so great that it could with difficulty be kept within bounds. One delegate from a mountain Co. moved "that all delegates go down to the train and meet Billy Wilson of West Virginia." To Washingtonians who know Mr. Wilson as a scholar and a statesman somewhat dignified in manner, this might sound disrespectful, but it indicated that Mr. Wilson had reached a place very near the hearts of the people of his district.

Veracious history chronicles the fact that the motion was amended so as to read "William L. Wilson of the U. S.," but nevertheless the reference to Mr. Wilson as "Billy" touched a chord that roused the convention to wild enthusiasm. Much interest attaches to Mr. Wilson's campaign this fall, for he is expected to set the pace for his democratic brethren on the tariff question. In Washington Mr. Wilson has many friends and he will have the best wishes for his personal success of many who do not accept his views of pending political issues.
