GOOD ROADS AND RELIGION.

Two Leading Ministers Show the Connection Between Good Roads and I Meient Gospel Work.

On the last day of the Road Congrein Charlotte, Rev. J. R. Brooks, D. D. School 4 p. m. The public are cordially formerly paster for four years of Centenary M. E. church, New Berne, and Rev. Dr. Preston, of the Presbyterian church made talks on "The Relation of Better Public Roads to Country Church Attendance," The Charlotte Observer reports the speeches. We make extracts. Dr. Brooks was the first speaker. He said:

REMARKS OF DR. BROOKS.

"Such roads as they have in the New Ergland and the Middle States, and in some portions of this country, affect the attendance on church services greatly. With good roads not half the horse would be needed to take the people to church; only about one-tourth of the time would be required, and there would be only about one-tenth the worry and discomfort and unpleasant effor to reach church now necessary. If we bad good roads three times as many people would attend church in winter.

"Good roads would revolutionize and gratly improve the plan of giving the gospel to the people who live outside of the cities. There are too many churches, and not enough people to a church, in the country. Every man wants a church at his own door, for the reason that he cannot get away from his door to go to church. The country preachers have to travel over the muddy roads from one church to the other. If we had good roads the distance between the churches ould be considerably decreased. "With roads like those in and about travel would be lessened. With good reads, the church privileges in the country would approximate those of the
