ANNOUNCEMENT

WE Sell The L. & M. Semi-Mixed Real Paint

IT'S Pure White Lead, Zinc and Linseed Oil made in to a semi paste, not as thick as white Lead, but so that it can be easily made ready for use to SAVE COST

This is the Way to make it Ready for Use.

To each of 4 gallons of the L. and M. Semi-Mixed Real Paint at about $2.10 a gallon, you add 3 gallons of Linseed Oil at about 75 cents a gallon,—Thus making 7 gallons of paint for $1.50 per gallon—or $10.65 and Saving about 4.00

If any manufacturer made up this 7 gallons of paint all ready for use, and put it in gallon cans, the price would be $2.00 a gallon or $14.00. Send for sample cards and place your orders for paint, and remember—White Lead, Zinc and Linseed Oil Paint has been the best known paint for more than one hundred years.

"THE LEOPARD'S SPOTS"

Thomas Dixon's Great Play Here On October 13.

In connection with the coming engagement in this city of Thomas Dixon's latest play, "The Leopard's Spots," founded upon his famous book, it is interesting to note that his new book, entitled "The Southerner," which came out this summer has scored another big success for the distinguished Southern author.

His new novel deals with the life of Abraham Lincoln, marking the first time the martyr-President has ever figured in fiction. It is not generally known that Lincoln was a Southerner but Mr. Dixon brings out the fact that he was born in Kentucky, though reared in Illinois. The author also dwells upon the fact that Lincoln was in sympathy with the South at all times. General Robert E. Lee is also a character in the novel, so with these two great National heroes in the same story, it is not surprising that "The Southerner" is another winner.

Mr. Dixon's dramatic version of "The Leopard's Spots" will be seen at the Masonic Theatre on October 13, under his personal direction.

That cold day is coming soon. We have our heaters on display. Come and pick them while the time is ripe. J. S. Basnight Hardware Company, 67 South Front street.

CUTTING VENEERS.

Three Methods Are Used—Sawing, Slicing and the Rotary Cut.

Veneer is very thin lumber. The raw material is usually purchased in logs of random lengths. Some are cut into slitches and in turn sawed into thin sections called sawed veneer. In other cases the logs, after being steamed, are shaved to sharp knives. This method produces sliced veneer. Neither of these processes is as extensively used as the third, the rotary cut, although for certain purposes they are of importance.

The structure of the wood, the size of the logs and the use for which the veneer is designed largely determine the process employed. Some foreign woods are very hard and, like soft domestic woods—the softwoods, for instance—often produce the best veneer when sawed, while for other woods the slicing method is preferred. Where the product is for fine exterior finish and has to be selected and matched according to the figure or grain, sawing is the favorite method.

The rotary cut process is similar in principle to the slicing process. The logs, after being steamed, are cut against a fixed knife the length of the log and wide sheets are shaved off. Veneers are cut into a number of thicknesses. The domestic woods, rotary cut, range from five-sixteenths to one-fiftieth of an inch and the imported woods from three-sixteenths to one thirty-fourth. In the sawed and sliced products the thickest veneer is five-sixteenths.—Indianapolis News.

FEATS OF MEMORY.

One Man Who Antecedes Wesley by His Knowledge of the Bible.

One of the most astonishing mnemonic feats on record is recorded by John Wesley. "I knew a man about twenty years ago," writes Wesley, "who was so thoroughly acquainted with the Bible that if he was questioned as to any Hebrew word in the Old, or any Greek word in the New Testament, he would tell, after a little pause, not only how often the one or the other occurred in the Bible, but also what it meant in every place. His name was Thomas Walsh. Such a master of Bible knowledge I never saw before, and never expect to see again."

Walsh had a close rival in Macaulay, who, according to James Stephen, could repeat "all Demosthenes by heart, and all Milton, as well as a great part of the Bible."

A strange instance of freak memory is recorded in the case of a servant girl in a Scottish manse. She was almost illiterate, yet when delirious in fever, surprised those around her by repeating long passages of the Bible in Hebrew. The kitchen where the girl spent her evenings adjoined the minister's study. He was accustomed to read aloud. The girl had not understood or consciously taken heed of the reading, yet her mind had seized upon and stored the phrases.—London Chronicle.

What English Means.

Mrs. Smith—What are you reading, John? Mr. Smith—I am reading Herbert Spencer's "Principles of Biology." Mrs. Smith—Why—what—what's that, John? Mr. Smith—Herbert Spencer's "Biology." Let me read you an extract—his definition of life. Listen: "It consists of the definite combinations of heterogeneous changes, but simultaneous and successive, in combination with external existences and sequences."

"Why, John, what in the world is the man talking about?"

"I am astonished at you, Jane. Why, this is the work of the great English scientist."

"Yes, I know, but what is he writing about?"

"He is defining life, I told you. What did you suppose he was writing about?"

"Good gracious! I thought he was trying to get a patent on a clothes-horse!"—London Tit-Bits.

Birds Shot With Water.

Shooting a humming bird with the smallest bird shot made is out of the question, for the tiniest seeds of lead would destroy his coat. The only way in which the bird can be captured for commercial purposes is to shoot him with a drop of water from a blowgun or a fine jet from a small syringe. Skillfully directed, the water stuns him. He falls into a silken net and before he recovers consciousness is suspended over a cyanide jar. This must be done quickly, for if he comes to his senses before the cyanide whiff snuffs out his life he is sure to ruin his plumage in his struggles to escape. Humming birds vary in size from specimens perhaps half as large as a sparrow to those scarcely bigger than a bee.

Rifled Firearms.

In the South Kensington museum are several wheel lock muskets with rifled barrels made during the reign of Charles I. If not earlier. Such barrels were then usually called "screwed." Zachary Grey in a note on "Hudibras," part 1, canto 3, line 533, says that Prince Rupert showed his skill as a marksman by hitting twice in succession the vase on St. Mary's Stafford at sixty yards with a "screwed" pistol.—London—Notes and Queries.
