A JAPANESE PROVERB.

"Fortune will call at the Smiling Gate
Ere long, you will find it so.
She may be early, she may be late,
But come she will and in royal state,
And if you but work, while you smile
and wait
No more forth she'll go.

For Mistress Fortune—a woman still—
Will travel many a mile,
Past gates that glow with haughty
fill,
Past gates that are dull and lifeless—
still,
Till at last she comes, as she surely will,
Where you give her smile for smile.
—Life.

ENTERTAINING MEETING OF CANTERBURY CLUB

HELD TUESDAY AFTERNOON WITH MRS. T. A. UZZELL.

A most interesting and entertaining meeting of the Canterbury Club was held Tuesday evening, with Mrs. T. A. Uzzell, at her home on Middle street. The subject for the evening was William Wordsworth. After the regular routine of work, a most interesting sketch of the life of the poet, was read by Miss Margaret Bryan, and in turn the following Poems and Sonnets were read and interpreted by the respective parties:
"Immortality," by Mrs. J. T. Hollister.
"London," and "Asleep," by Miss Maud Hurley.
"The Tables Turned," by Miss Summerell.
The reading and interpretations were rendered by each in a most effective manner.

Adding to the pleasure of the evening was the presence of their former Chairman, Mrs. R. P. Stevens, of Athens, Ga., nee Miss Mabel Chadwick, who made a cheerful little talk in her individual and most charming manner. Among the new members admitted to the Club, were Mesdames S. L. Dill Jr., H. B. Tyler, C. W. Pettit and C. C. Covell.

A most delightful ice course was served during the evening.

The guests present were: Mesdames Chas. Ives, T. J. Roberts, Monroe Howell, J. T. Hollister, Charles Hollister, Sam Dill, E. K. Bishop, Kate Spencer, M. M. Marks, R. P. Stevens, John Dunn, C. W. Pettit, Misses Margaret Bryan, Bettie Windley, Rodman, Maud Hurley, Bessie Summerell, Mary Oliver and Mary Uzzell.

BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED.

Delightful Afternoon With Miss Laura Hughes.

Miss Laura Hughes entertained the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Club yesterday afternoon at the beautiful colonial home of Mrs. J. A. Bryan, on Middle street. At the conclusion of a number of close games, dainty refreshments, consisting of Mousse and Cake were served, followed by wine, tea and nuts.

The guests of Miss Hughes were: Mesdames John Dunn, Owen Guion, Chas. Thomas, R. DuVal Jones, J. T. Hollister, Charles Duffy, M. D. Nelson, Francis Duffy, Monroe Howell, Tom Evans, Misses Mary Oliver, Jennette Hollister, Margaret Bryan, Rodman, and Mrs. Owen Guion.

Currency Measure to Be Law in a Few Months.

Wisdom of President Wilson in Keeping Congress at Work Has Been Demonstrated—Wall Street Lobby Made Powerless.

The extra session of congress came to an end automatically on December 1, 12 o'clock noon; the hour on which the regular session began. The clock struck with the currency bill still furnishing a subject for conversation in the senate.

It is much to be regretted that this important measure has not been placed on the statute books. But President Wilson's decision to keep congress at work on currency instead of letting the session end as soon as the tariff bill was passed has been justified.

The Wall street lobby had to be met and whipped before any currency legislation was possible. Thanks to the insistence of the president, most of this necessary work has been done at the extra session. When the Vanderbilt scheme of a great central bank under control of Wall street was turned down, and both factions of the senate committee met on record as favoring regional reserve banks, controlled and regulated by the government, the ultimate triumph of the administration measure was assured.

As matters stand, the house has passed this bill by an overwhelming majority, and house leaders know pretty closely how much amending they will permit. The senate should get through talking about the measure some time in February. If this is done, the currency bill will become law in March. Had it not been for the preliminary work of the extra session, Wall street could have delayed the measure till the middle of the summer, and perhaps prevent its passage altogether.

The wisdom of President Wilson's habit of "sticking to the job" needs no further demonstration.

Wool and the New Tariff.

With sales for the week reaching the very respectable total of 3,675,000 pounds, the wool market is in an extremely healthy condition, steady and firm, with a decidedly better feeling than has been evident for some weeks. Conditions warrant the assumption by dealers that prices are much more likely to show a slight advance after December 1, when the free wool clause becomes effective, than to decline. The English auction sales clearly showed the advantage of some cents a pound on their raw material at home as compared with their European competitors. The activity of German and French buyers in England counteracts any depressing British influence, and to bring foreign wools to the level of the Boston market would require a recession of from two and one-half to five per cent. from prices realized at the last English sales.

The reason why the wool industries are standing up so much better than iron and steel at the present time is explained by the fact that textile corporations do not come into such immediate contact with government restrictions as do the iron and steel mills, which are the principal sellers to public service corporations. The difficulty of the great public service corporations in financing themselves at the present time is the cloud upon the horizon. The tariff changes which would apply most severely to the textile industry seem to have scarcely any influence.—Wool and Cotton Reporter.

College Men Organize.

Several factions of men of the University of Illinois, both faculty and students, all having democratic convictions in lesser or greater degree, have been organized into one society, "Comitatus." The majority of the prominent local democrats are to form the membership, and the granting of chapters to other colleges is contemplated. The function of Comitatus is to aid the party of Jefferson in all ways possible in the university and vicinity. The general idea of the fraternity was originated several years ago; and many college clubs of democrats flourished during President Wilson's campaign.

Limit of Impudence.

Lying on the desk as this is written is an "open letter" to President Wilson from the head of a sugar lobby in Washington. It begins:

"Excellent Sir: Please keep away from the subject of sugar at this time!"

The exclamation point is the Journal's. When the emissary of a thieving trust tells the president of the United States to "keep away" from the subject that affects every man, woman and child in the nation, some mode of typographical emphasis is in order.—Chicago Journal.

Ex-Insurgents.

Of the seven Republican senators who voted against the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill August 5, 1909, La Follette of Wisconsin, Cummins of Iowa, Nelson and Clapp of Minnesota and Bristow of Kansas are members of the present senate. Only one of them, Senator La Follette, voted for the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill. The other four in the supreme test deserted the cause of honest, downward revision and fell in line under the leadership of old-guard Republicans in a purposeful and final manner.

MORE GOOD THINGS.

These southern biscuits are good to serve for any occasion, and are especially good split and toasted. Scald a pint of milk with a teaspoonful of lard, two of butter and two of sugar and two of salt. Dissolve a half of a yeast cake in a little of the cooled milk, beat an egg and add to it, then mix all together with six cups of flour. Beat and set to rise in a covered pan or mixing bowl. For six o'clock tea, put the sponge to rise at ten o'clock in the morning. At three in the afternoon knead and roll out as for ordinary biscuit; cut with a small cutter, brush the top of each biscuit with butter and put to rise. They should be very light, a little more than double their original bulk. Bake in a hot oven for fifteen minutes, or perhaps twenty.

Put a cup of sweet potatoes to cook in water until they are tender. Boil for 15 minutes. Mash them very fine and add a good flavor.

Scotch Potato Soups.—Cut a cup and a half of flour two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a half cup of lard, put in a third of a cup of butter and add a cup of mashed potatoes. Make a soft dough by adding a beaten egg and milk to roll. If the potato is moist no milk will be needed. Divide the dough into three parts and roll in rounds half an inch thick; cut and bake in a hot oven. Split, butter and serve hot.

Boneless Birds.—Cut veal cutlets into two-inch squares, pound until thin, salt and pepper, lay on a sprig of parsley with a piece of bacon; roll up and skewer with two toothpicks. Roll in flour and brown in a little fat, simmer gently in a little water until tender—it will take two hours. Remove the dough into three parts and roll in rounds half an inch thick; cut and bake in a hot oven. Split, butter and serve.

Peanuts and Lettuce.—Prepare lettuce, sprinkle with finely broken, nut, chopped, nuts, and add a French dressing with a bit of grated onion or onion juice.
