SOME TIME.

Last night, my darling as you slept,

I thought I heard you sigh,
And to your little crib I crept
And watched a space thereby;
And then I stopped and kissed your brow—

For oh! I love you so—
You are to young to know it now,
But some time you shall know!

Some time, when, in a darkened place

Where others come to weep,
Your eyes shall look upon a face
Calm in eternal sleep;
The speechless lips, the wrinkled
brow

The patient smile shall show—
You are too young to know it
now,

But some time you shall know!

Look backward, then, into the years,

You see me here tonight—
See, O my darling! how my tears
Are falling as I write;
And feel once more upon your
brow

The kiss of long ago—
You are too young to know it
now,

But some time you shall know!

"AN AMERICAN CITIZEN" TO BE SEEN SOON

WILL BE PRESENTED BY PAINT AND POWDER CLUB.

"An American Citizen" is arming himself with the material necessary to produce an unusual amateur performance, and it will not be his fault if he doesn't win. But New Bern can rest assured the Club is entirely patriotic and will furnish an "American Citizen" with its best ammunition consisting of its best talent, best powder and paint, with the aim in view that when the performance "goes off," it will be more than a play.

"The American Citizen" is one of those comedies which appeal to all, the scenery, the costumes, in fact everything connected with the performance carries its own individuality and gives the audience something to think about. The Club has started to work early, so that each character may make a careful study of the life of the role she or he is to portray, and in order that each member may work to strengthen not only his or her role, but to act in a manner that will assist in the true portrayal of the characters of the entire play.

ANOTHER ONE OF THOSE FAMOUS WARNER MASTERPIECES.

Another one of those famous Warner Feature Pictures is in store today for the patrons of the Star Theatre. This is "Journey's Ending" a three reel masterpiece with Marion Leonard in the leading role.

In this photoplay Miss Leonard brings out her exquisite artistry, and her power of emotional acting has full play. It is one of those "sweetest ever told," a pure love romance in a modern yet picturesque form.

The story is as follows:

An old boatman in an Italian-American village loves a young girl, Miss Leonard, who laughs at his affections. She has certain psychic powers and a display of these brings upon her head the enmity of certain fortune telling women in the town who stir up the people to a point of frenzy by their denunciations of her as a witch. She is set upon in the streets by a mob and her life is only saved by the intervention of the old boatman, who is struck blind, however, in rendering her aid. Out of gratitude and pity the girl marries him.

Years pass and we see the girl settled in a large city, where she is earning a prosperous living herself and her blind husband as a Grecian seeress and psychic healer. Scores of fashionable devotees throng her temple and presently there comes a man of wealth and affairs who desires relief from certain mental ailments with which he is afflicted. He falls madly in love with her, knowing that she is married and that her blind husband depends on her for support. Again the wealthy man visits her and tells her of his love. Her blind husband overhears the conversation. Believing that he is a hindrance to her happiness, he shoots himself. Grief-stricken over the loss of the one who loved her with a pure love, she refuses the attentions paid her and seeks seclusion, devoting the rest of her life to the uplift of humanity.

This three-part Warner's Feature will appeal to all. The story is powerful and with a sustained interest that holds to the very finish of the final scene.

PRETTY RIBBON CASE

DAINTY AND MOST USEFUL ACCESSORY FOR BUDOIR.

Work of Putting It Together Will Furnish Amusement for the Spare Hours—Only Cardboard, Ribbon and Thread Required.

Every one who keeps a special roll of ribbon for her lingerie will like the little case illustrated.

Ribbon frequently disappears just when it is wanted, but if hung on the dressing table the owner will find that much time will be saved which might otherwise be spent in a fruitless search.

The case was made from two pieces of white cardboard. Each piece was cut three inches in diameter; an inch larger than the roll of ribbon which was to be inserted.

The cardboard was covered with a pretty flowered ribbon, which was especially suitable, as it had running through it a gold shimmering thread. Two circular pieces of ribbon were cut out to cover each piece of cardboard, and joined together by oversewing all round the edges.

The roll of rose-colored ribbon was then inserted between the covers, and a hole pierced through the middle of the two latter and the roll of ribbon.

A piece of ribbon was threaded through the holes and sewn securely to each cover. It was then joined at the top into a rosette.

In the center of each cover a smaller rosette with ends was sewn to give a finishing touch.

Should the worker wish to make one of these for a present the color scheme of the owner's room should be taken into consideration.

The case would look delightful covered with white linen, finished with blue or pink ribbon. The monogram of the owner should be worked in the same color.

In order that the linen covers could be removed easily when soiled, buttoned eyelets should be worked at short distances apart round the edges. A piece of ribbon should then be run through these and tied in a web bow.

Another holder which is very easy to make is contrived from half a yard of ribbon.

The worker should choose a wide weave of silk ribbon covered with a pretty floral design. To make the case, the ribbon should be turned up about one-third of the width, and caught at intervals of three or four inches with a neat fagoting stitch to form pockets.

The hems on either side should be finished in the same way.

The worker should next take some stiff white cardboard, and cut into four pieces in the shape of the pockets already made. These pieces of cardboard should be slightly smaller than the pockets, otherwise they will not fit in easily when wound with ribbon.

Some pretty lingerie ribbons should next be chosen, and a different color wound round each cardboard and arranged in the various pockets.

To complete this case, the worker should add a tiny pair of scissors to one end of the case. These should be attached by means of a narrow piece of ribbon. At the other end a bodkin should be fastened in the same manner, and slipped into a narrow pocket, which should be allowed for when making the ribbon pockets.

A piece of ribbon should be sewn on the back, so as to tie the case together when folded.

A case of this description would take up very little room in a drawer or box, for it has the appearance of a cardcase when folded.

All of Chiffon.

A famous dressmaker has evidently been borrowing his ideas from some early Victorian picture book, for his latest achievement has been a dance frock for a debutante made entirely of wide chiffon spunges, frill upon frill from hem to waist, more frills on the bodice and a trio of narrow ones to form the short sleeve. The finished effect is, however, particularly soft and becoming, and worn with silk stockings and black velvet slippers with black ribbons crossing the instep is quite smart and original looking, with a suggestion of old world grace about it that yet entitles it to be well out of the realm of the "fancy dress" variety of the "ball costume."

KNOWLEDGE BEING TO BE HAD ONLY OF VISIBLE AND CERTAIN THINGS, ERROR IS NOT A FAULT OF OUR KNOWLEDGE, BUT A MISTAKE OF OUR JUDGMENT, GIVING ASSENT TO THAT WHICH IS NOT TRUE.

A DIET OF ONIONS.

This much abused vegetable, which cannot conceal its presence because of its odoriferousness, is one of our most valuable vegetables. Nature provides for her children by sending an abundance of these little tender green stalks to us early in the spring, and in the fall stocks our cellars with them for the winter using. There is no salad, except perhaps a fruit, that is not improved by the appetizing zest of a bit of onion or onion juice.

When the appetite becomes keener in the cold wintry days, care must be taken not to over-eat. If onions are served twice a week at least the system is in good tone to withstand any drain of disease or extra work, for they are valuable scavengers in the system.

A disordered system will result in a cold, which is often directly caused by over-eating. We cannot expect the department of the interior to go on overworking year in and year out. If we eat our food in haste and multiply our exercises by two in the evening, we would have less of colds, grip and pneumonia.

Onions With Cheese.—This is a dish especially good for a cold, night supper. Cook sufficient onions for the number to partake; drain them and place a layer of the cooked onion in a buttered baking dish, pour over a half cup of rich white sauce, sprinkle generously with cheese, and repeat with another layer of the onions, white sauce and cheese. Put into the oven and serve when well heated through.

Onions Stuffed With Sausage.—This is a most elegant dish, which may be used for company. Take the mild Spanish or Bermuda onion, a half dozen or more, peel and parboil until tender enough to scoop out a center; chop the part taken out and mix with well seasoned sausage, and fill the centers. Make a sauce of chicken stock, if you have it, if not use butter and water. Put the onions into a baking dish and bake, basting occasionally until thoroughly tender. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs, and when they are brown serve from the baking dish.

Stuffed Tomatoes.—Tomatoes stuffed with chopped onion and cucumber, seasoned well and mixed with French dressing, a little chopped parsley added, is a most appetizing salad. Serve each tomato on a leaf of lettuce or set in a nest of blanched head lettuce.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

CHARACTER is higher than intellect. A great soul will be strong to live as well as to think.

May we so live, we dread not here to die; So die, we dread not afterward to live.

A VARIETY OF CAKES.

In making cakes, have all the materials at hand before beginning the operation, then at the last moment there will be nothing vitally important missing. When eggs are high we will wish to choose cakes with few of them, and there are many. With butter always high, we like to use as little as possible, and substitute a cheaper fat, when the flavor may be disguised by spices.

Eggless Devil's Food.—One cupful of sugar, a quarter of a cup of shortening, one-half cup of sour milk, two cupfuls of flour, two squares of chocolate dissolved in a half cup of boiling water, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a half teaspoonful of soda and a teaspoonful of baking powder. Bake in loaf or layers.

Coffee Cake.—Mix well together three tablespoonfuls of sugar with two of melted butter, and one egg. Sift two tablespoonfuls of baking powder with two cups of flour; add salt and the grated rind of a lemon. Mix together, adding the milk gradually, alternating with the flour. When ready for the oven, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar.

Snow Cake.—Cream a half cup of butter, add a cup of sugar, a half cup of milk, alternately with two cups of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add flavoring and fold in the whites of four eggs beaten stiff.

Pork Cake.—To one cup of fat chopped salt pork add a cup of boiling water, one cupful of raisins, one cup of brown sugar, one-half cup of molasses, one teaspoonful of soda and different spices to taste. A cup of well softened dried apples is an improvement.

To all the eyes of the world's history children have loved their toys to be in the shape of animals. Mules appear among the toys of pottery from Crete, made at Athens; spotted cows from Egypt; a toy riding a swan; a goat from Cyprus, made before the Christian era; rams, ducks, fish all bear witness to the love of the children of early times for animals in miniature as playthings.—Mrs. F. N. Jackson, "Toys of Other Days."

Enemy of the Book Lover. One of the most common of the book destroyers is the bread borer, which is found in libraries and in rare books. It is half an inch long, downy, light brown in color and striped lengthwise. It lays its eggs between the leaves of books and in cracks in the covers. The young hatch in five or six days and the larvae at once bore long narrow tunnels through paper, leather and wood of the binding.

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured. "I was taken with diarrhoea and Mr. Yorks, the merchant here, persuaded me to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After taking one dose of it, I was cured. It also cured others that I gave it to," writes M. E. Gebhart, Oriole, Pa. That is not at all unusual. An ordinary attack of diarrhoea can almost invariably be cured by one or two doses of this remedy. For sale by all dealers. (A)
