

10 CENT. "CASCARETS"
IS YOUR LAXATIVE

Best Liver and Bowel Cleanser and Stomach Regulator in the world
—Work while you sleep.

Get a 10-cent. box.
Put aside—just once—the Salts, Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.
Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

It has been discovered that the man who laughs ten times a day that mine of the laughs were inspired by something he said himself.

A New Jersey woman leaped out of a ten-story building last week while suffering with toothache. It must have been the jumping kind.—New Orleans Picayune.

UNCLE ABNER

A good many sharp jokes fall flat.
The best thing about most any man is his wife.

There's many a slip twixt the soup-spoon and the lip.

Grease and Warmth.

Keeping out the cold—a troublesome job just now—is a business which engages the attention of all save the natives of the tropics, and some savage or semi-civilized races have hit upon curious methods. The commonest practice, apart from wearing furs, is that of greasing the body. All the arctic tribes do this, and in Tibet they go further and smother themselves from head to foot with a thick black oil pigment. Another Tibetan method of keeping warm is to wear a kind of steel basket or braizes over the loins filled with burning coals. We shall look for these in the winter fashion plates.

Cut Off a Quarter's Worth.

"How much do you charge for cutting off a dog's tail?" said a small boy to a veterinary recently, exhibiting a quarter in one hand and leading a canine with the other.

"The operation customary costs a dollar, but I will do it for you for 50 cents," replied the gentleman addressed.

The boy looked at the coin in his hand disappointed for a moment, but his face brightened, he stuck out his hand which contained the coin and said:

"That's all I've got: cut off a quarter's worth."—National Monthly.

Fighting With Handicap.

Jack Johnson's boxing with a broken left arm is a feat of endurance that may be compared to some extent with Tom Sayers' famous fight with Heenan in 1890, when his right arm was broken soon after the fight commenced. Both events ended with a draw. Not so, however, another memorable contest in pugilistic annals—the fight between Tom Cribb and Molleneaux, the black, in 1871, in which the latter, who was beaten, fought nearly three rounds with the heavy handicap of a fractured jaw.—London Chronicle.

Didn't Reassure Manager.

"The manager of one of the southern leagues," says Joe Tinker, "was warming up a colored 'rookie' for one of the pre-season games. The young buck was promising, but some doubt had been expressed as to his ability to stick for nine full innings. 'How are you, Rastus?' asked the manager—'in pretty good shape?' Think you can go nine innings?' 'Yassah, Ah'm in good shape, boss—but is yo' outfielders in shape?'"

Building a City to Order.

India's new winter capital, now building near Simla, will, it is now estimated, cost $40,000,000, and when the work is well under way from 15,000 to 20,000 men will steadily be employed. Twenty-five miles of tramway are being laid about the site. The general work is considerably backward.

Our Old Error.

Mrs. Rose Pastor Phelps-Stokes, advocating American old-age pensions, such as Germany and England have, said: "We are getting over the nineteenth-century idea that the aged destitute have necessarily been shiftless and worthless. Yes, thank goodness, we are getting over the old idea that people with ought are naughty."

Napoleon's Vain Struggle.

One hundred years ago marked the beginning of "the great week" as they termed the final effort of the Emperor Napoleon and France against the crushing mass of their enemies—against the woes and humiliations of invasion, which they had formerly inflicted upon all the peoples now allied against them. The allied sovereigns were resolved to force back the emperor toward Paris. Napoleon, despite the great odds against him, continued to wage an active and heroic struggle with the comparatively small army under his command. He engaged in a series of almost daily combats, by which he sometimes retarded the progress of the allies, but in the end the invading armies of Russia, Prussia and Austria always gained ground and shortened the distance between themselves and Paris.

Whiskers and Religion.

Whiskers and religion have ever been associate. Imagine a priest of any of the Greek churches without his flowing beard. Fancy, if you can, a picture of a British Druid unbearded. Look back only to the beginnings of the primitive Methodists, with their shaved top lip, but full beard and whiskers. Look at our own day and the Jesuit with his "Flying Roll" of back hair and finger-combed chin growth. And look at the Plymouth brethren—they have an unwritten law which means an unshaved face. But you never get Beelzebub and beard—never see a Mephistopheles with more than a chin-fork—never an edition of Milton with illustrations of a flowing-bearded Satan.—London Chronicle.

Don't Hand Diaries Around.

People in the habit of noting their candid opinions in diaries should be careful when showing them to other people. Shirley Brooks records that "Delane, the editor of the Times, Sir William Russell and Lord Hartington were in a railway carriage, when some dispute arose about a date Russell affirmed that he knew, having made an entry in his diary. This was in his traveling case, and he produced it. He found the page, but not being able to read—his glass having slipped into his trousers—he gave it to Delane to read, who read: 'John Delane tells me such is the case, but then he is such a d-d liar that one doesn't know.'"

Crown Prince a Hunter.

Crown Prince Frederick William is strongly desirous of visiting America. The heir to the German throne is not particularly anxious to pay an official visit to the United States, in fact he would like to avoid anything like this if it were possible, but he wants more than anything else to do some big game hunting in the Pacific northwest. The crown prince has hunted in India and is going to the African colonies in June, but he would like particularly to hunt in Alaska. He has an ambition to shoot bears, moose, and caribou.

Many a man would rather climb upward than be on the level.

Too many people view life through the wrong end of the telescope.

The great trouble with the fellow with more money than brains is that he hasn't brains enough to know it.
