DISHERS WORTH TRYING.

When there is a little stewed corn or creamed corn left from dinner, a good supper or breakfast dish may be made of it. Toast slices of bread, butter well and pour over the seasoned corn. Serve very hot. Peas may be served the same way.

Custard Pudding.—Line a baking dish with slices of sponge cake, make a custard of a quart of milk and the yolks of four eggs, one-half a cup of sugar and flavoring to taste. Pour the custard into the baking dish over the cake. Beat the whites of the eggs stiff and sweeten with four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar; spread over the top of the custard when it is nearly baked. Brown the meringue and serve cold. If the custard is cooked before putting into the dish the browning of the meringue is all the heat needed.

Beef en Casserole.—Broil a two-inch slice of steak until brown on both sides, then lay in a casserole with two cups of rich brown sauce; add three onions cut in halves, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Put on the casserole, cover and set in a moderate oven for two or three hours. Serve from the casserole. Season the meat with salt, pepper and a bay leaf while cooking.

Orange Pudding.—Moisten a cup of bread crumbs with as much milk as they will absorb. Beat the yolks of four eggs with the whites of two, add four tablespoonfuls of sugar and the grated yellow rind of an orange. Stir all together, then fold in the beaten whites of the eggs, and steam in a well buttered mold two hours. Serve with

Orange Sauce.—Mix one and a half tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with one cupful of sugar and stir it into a pint of boiling water; cook until it thickens, and then add two tablespoonfuls of butter and a half cupful of orange juice.

Chocolate Fudge With Raisins.—Two cupfuls of sugar, a half cup of milk, a third of a cup of sirup, a square of chocolate and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Cook together until a soft ball is formed in cold water; add a half cupful of chopped raisins and a few pecans, broken in bits. Stir until thick, pour out into a greased pan and mark off in squares.

FRIVOLOUS word, a sharp retort.
A flash from a passing cloud,
Two hearts are scathed to their inmost core,
Are ashes and dust forever more
Two faces turn to the crowd
Masked with pride with a life-long lie
To hide the scars of that agony.

MEALS FOR A DAY.

For a good breakfast there is nothing more wholesome than a bit of fruit; a half of a grape fruit or orange or an apple to make a good beginning.

During the cold weather, after a small dish of oatmeal well cooked and served with good top milk or thin cream, two or three griddle cakes, a piece of bacon or a small ball of sausage and a cup of coffee will make a satisfying meal for a busy, active person.

If the noonday meal is a dinner, we will have a good soup of some kind, either a clear broth with rice or a vegetable soup. For the meat dish try a pot roast with prunes. It is very common, but it is very good.

Add a pound of well washed prunes to the meat while cooking, and remove them and add a little seasoned vinegar to them, and serve with the meat.

For a vegetable that is nice to serve with the roast, onions stuffed with bread crumbs and nuts and baked while cooking with butter and water.

A simple salad of lettuce with French dressing or a little chopped apple and celery served on lettuce makes a good substantial salad.

Apple pie and cheese, the cheese grated and sprinkled over the top of the pie and set in the oven to melt, is a good dessert.

If one desires a simple one that is more easily prepared, there is always canned fruit and small cakes and cookies, which, with a cup of tea, is a dessert nice enough for anybody.

Emergency Pudding.—Toast stale cake, spread with preserves and put slices together in the form of sandwiches. Top with flavored and sweetened whipped cream; dot with bits of jelly, and serve.

Collared chicken, apple sauce and hot glassy bread is another good combination for a supper or a luncheon.

NORTH CAROLINA MAY GET COALING STATION
BEAUFORT, WILMINGTON AND SOUTHPORT TO BE INVESTIGATED BY COMMITTEE

Washington, D. C., March 11.—Before the Government decides upon a coaling station which is soon to be established on the Atlantic coast, Southport, Wilmington and Beaufort will be visited by a committee to see whether one of these places would not be the best location for such a station. The fact that the harbor of refuge which will be established at Cape Lookout, is so near to these North Carolina towns will be in favor of North Carolina securing the station. Senator Overman has introduced a resolution calling for an investigation by a committee of Southport, Wilmington and Beaufort. The junior Senator believes either one of these cities is better located for a coaling station than any other place yet mentioned. Senator Tillman wants Charleston to get the much sought prize.

SCHOONER LOST
Captain and the Crew Were Saved. Cargo Steam Coal.

Norfolk, March 11.—A cable from Kingston, Jamaica, announces that the three-masted schooner Laura M. Hunt, Captain Johnson commanding which sailed from Norfolk for Jacksonville on February 10 last, with cargo of steam coal, was lost at sea and her master, his wife, infant daughter and six men who composed the crew had been landed there by the steamer Wildemere, which took them off the schooner in mid-ocean.

The Laura ran into the fierce storm which did so much damage off this coast about the first of the month and was badly battered, losing her boats and leaking sharply. It became apparent that she could not long be kept afloat and therefore when the Wildemere hoove in sight signals were set and the rescue followed.

The schooner which was owned in part by her master, in part by S. P. Blackburn, of New York, and carried 813 tons of coal, was valued at $16,000 and was partly insured. She was to load pitch pine at Jacksonville for St. John, N. B.
