

Believes Uprising Against Huerta is Now Imminent

Counsellor Sent Away by the Provisional President Says That Mexicans are Tiring of His Despotic Rule and Are Planning to Overthrow Him

(Special to the Journal)

VERA CRUZ, May 19.—Dr. Aureliano Urrutia, ex-minister of the interior, declared here today that he left the capital because he feared assassination and in the belief that a revolt would shortly occur in the City of Mexico.

"I left the capital he said, 'for two reasons. The first was a knowledge of a plot among General Huerta's close political supporters to assassinate me, they saying I knew too much. Second there has been planned a general revolt of the people and the army.'"

Twice arrested and hustled through the streets by American soldiers, and hissed and threatened by his countrymen, Urrutia was forced to face yesterday some of the indignities to which he subjected others while he was high in power at the capital. He expects to sail for Europe at the first opportunity. The cry "Let us witness that American justice be done," shouted by crowds of Mexicans, through the streets last night, today found reflection in a request to General Funston that the fugitive be detained until a new government and a new judiciary has been formed at Mexico City and charges can be filed for the alleged crimes perpetrated by Urrutia while he was minister of the interior.

There appears little likelihood, however, that Urrutia will be held. At one time General Funston did tell him to leave as soon as possible but relenting he sent word to him he might remain in Vera Cruz temporarily. Urrutia professed that his only desire was to remain here under protection of the Americans.

Later, however, he decided to go to Europe. This decision was due to the attitude of his own people rather than any lack of hospitality on the part of the Americans. After he had been taken to a hotel from the police station he was detained after his arrival he crossed the street with his family consisting of his wife and eight children, to lunch at a cafe.

American soldiers accompanied him. They stood in the dining room near his table and outside other soldiers were busy preventing the intrusion of any natives who muttered their threats and openly denounced him.

Antonio Rivero De La Torre, editor of El Dietmen, who was the leader of the demonstration against Dr. Urrutia, is held at police headquarters charged with disturbing the peace. He has become a popular hero.

The Urrutia incident has served to demonstrate in a striking manner the widespread anti-Huerta sentiment in Vera Cruz. Residents find it difficult to separate Urrutia from the Huerta regime, notwithstanding the public dismissal of the man by the provisional president.

"Why it would appear that they think I am still working for Huerta," said the fugitive as he paced up and down his room. "Some of them think I am down here on some sort of a secret mission for Huerta and others that I am here conniving at some plot with the rebels."

TWO BODIES DUG-UP NEAR MAGGLESFIELD

ONE WAS BODY OF A NEGRO AND THE OTHER OF A LITTLE GIRL.

(Special to the Journal)

TARBORO, May 19.—The report comes up from Macclesfield, a small town in this county near here, today that may lead to trouble for the perpetrators of the gruesome jest.

It appears that early Saturday morning a negro man of that village was going toward the town when he discovered the bodies of a negro man and little girl lying under a clump of trees on the ground by the side of the road near a negro cemetery. He did not stop to investigate, but hastened to the store of Corbett & Moore and related the circumstance. A number of white men hastened to the scene and found the bodies during Friday night the bodies had been disinterred from their graves and that the left hand had been taken from the body of the man and the trunk mutilated in a number of other places.

The body of the girl had not been touched apparently, so it is thought she was dug up by mistake. The ghouls had left the cadavers on the scene of their job and as the news spread it created quite a commotion in the little place. The negroes were terribly frightened and the authorities are conducting the strictest investigation of the matter. The bodies were reburied by Corbett & Moore.

NORFOLK SOUTHERN FLAGMAN INJURED

FOOT SLIPPED ON CROSS TIE—TAKEN TO GOLDSBORO FOR TREATMENT

J. S. Adams, flagman on a freight train between Goldsboro and Beaufort, had the misfortune of spraining his ankle very severely yesterday afternoon, while enroute from Goldsboro to this city.

The accident occurred at Caswell while some box cars were being shifted. Adams' foot slipped off of a cross tie, throwing him with his weight on the side of his foot and causing a very painful sprain and possibly a dislocated joint.

When the injured man arrived at Dover he had a telephone message sent to New Bern asking that a physician meet him at the train and dress his wound. This message was misunderstood and instead of meeting the freight train the physician met the passenger train which arrived here a short time after the departure of the freight.

Mr. Adams was carried on to Beaufort where he was transferred to the Westbound train and carried to his home in Goldsboro where he received medical attention.

THE strike in the Colorado copper mining districts, costing many lives of workers and militia alike, has aroused national attention. President Wilson was forced to order federal troops into the state. The illustration shows J. W. Brown, national organizer of the United Mine Workers, and a group of the union strikers. Brown is the leader of the strikers and claims that John D. Rockefeller is responsible for the trouble. The pictures were taken at Trinidad.

Boston Millionaire To Locate Here

Dr. Earl S. Sloan Purchases Immense Tract of Land Near New Bern. To Build Up Estate Equal to That of Biltmore

Purchasing from J. W. Stewart a tract of land containing four hundred and fifteen acres and also acquiring another tract of twenty five acres from Craven county adjoining his first purchase, the whole located on Trent river, two miles West of New Bern, Dr. Earl S. Sloan, the discoverer and manufacturer of the famous Sloan's liniment and whose home has for years been at Boston, Mass., plans to erect a mansion and build up an estate which will equal if not surpass the famous Biltmore estate in Western North Carolina.

Dr. Sloan came to New Bern several weeks ago to investigate the advantages of this section and, after traveling all over the United States in search of a desirable location, decided to locate here and at once began negotiations tending to the purchase of the property which is more familiarly known as the Colonel Ransom estate and these were concluded yesterday.

The tract of land in question has a river frontage of about one mile, is covered with one of the prettiest pine groves in North Carolina and has a spring on it which has often been called "the spring of eternal youth." The water from this spring is crystal clear and at all times retains an even temperature, making it cold and sparkling in the summer months and of an even temperature in the winter. The overflow from the spring will be turned into a fish pond and this will be stocked by numerous varieties of the funny tribe.

Immediately after making the purchase Dr. Sloan telegraphed Robert L. Smallwood, a New York architect and a former New Bernian, to draw up

MRS. VICTOR HALL LEAVES LOUISA FOR RICHMOND

Widow Accused Of Murder Makes Trip Alone.

BIG CROWD AT STATION

Charged With Having Killed Her Husband Several Weeks Ago.

(Special to the Journal)
RICHMOND, May 19.—Recognized by only a few of the several hundred who had gathered at Main street station, Mrs. Victor Hall, under indictment in Louisa County for the murder of her husband on the morning of April 15, and forbidden to remain within the borders of Louisa county until her trial, arrived in Richmond last night. After experiencing some difficulties in securing a vehicle the forlorn woman proceeded at once to the home of her cousin, N. T. Dowdy, 2114 Venable street.

Mrs. Hall was unaccompanied and there was no one at the station to meet and greet her. Detective M. S. Angle, of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway secret service, who continued his investigation into the burning of the Green Spring depot, came down on the same train, but did not force his presence on the woman nor offer to molest her further. Mrs. Hall is under a $5,000 bond for her appearance before Judge George S. Shackelford in the Louisa Court on July 14, the date on which her trial has been set, and she will be free and untroubled by detectives while she is in Richmond.

A large crowd was at Louisa courthouse station when Mrs. Hall arrived from the home of her attorney, R. Lindsay Gordon, to take the train. She was accompanied only by Mr. Gates, a merchant of Louisa Courthouse, who has evidenced great interest in her, and who is one of the few who has proclaimed his belief of innocence.

Detective Angle offered his help, and told her kindly that she would probably be subjected to curious stares while on the train. According to tales she replied that she could stare as well as others, and seemed to be unperturbed by the scrutiny and curiosity her presence would naturally excite. Fifteen miles east of Louisa Courthouse station Mr. Harris, a bridge tender, who has known her for some time approached her, and they conversed together the rest of the way to Richmond, occupying a seat somewhat distant from the detective. Mrs. Hall requested that she be not followed by detectives and newspaper men and she was not interrupted.

Arrived at Main street station she lingered behind the people who detoured, and walked slowly through the waiting crowd, succeeding in hiding her identity from the majority who sought to catch sight of her. Harris left her immediately, and the woman was absolutely alone, an alien within strange gates. She had been expected by her cousin on Saturday night, and there was none to meet her. It was with some difficulty that she secured a carriage, and so fearful was she of being shadowed that she refused to give the owner of the vehicle the address to which she wanted to be driven. She said that she would tell the driver as soon as she had gotten away from the station, and so it was agreed. But fears that attempts would be made to interview her and that detectives would be forever hanging on her heels were groundless, and Mrs. Hall will be as free from intrusion as though she were again in her own home.

NO POLICE COURT YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

Owing to the fact that there were no cases on docket, there was no session of Police Court yesterday afternoon.
