A MOST interesting ceremony at Vera Cruz was the raising of the American flag over the city by General Fred Funston's troops. This event marked the beginning of real, organized occupation of Mexico by the United States forces. The illustration was snapped just as the folds of Old Glory were spread to the breeze. The stars and stripes last floated over Vera Cruz in 1847, when the invasion of Mexico was begun. It floated there until 1848.

DIOCESAN COUNCIL TO MEET NEXT IN NEW BERN

THIS WAS DECIDED UPON AT MEETING HELD THURSDAY IN WILMINGTON.

WILMINGTON, May 20.—The annual meeting of the Diocesan Council of East Carolina of the Episcopal church, following the business meeting yesterday afternoon, the excursion to Wrightsville Beach later, and the service which were devoted to missions this evening at St. James' church came to a close, after sessions that have been designated as among the most successful in the history of the diocese.

Yesterday morning the outstanding features were the acceptance of New Bern's invitation for the Council to meet there next year in connection with the 200th anniversary of the founding of the parish there and the providing for the re-division of the three convocations—New Bern, Wilmington and Edenton—and making only two—Wilmington and Edenton. To work in these will be chosen an arch deacon for each, at a salary of $1,800.

downtown offices of the Standard Oil Company and the threats that they would visit his estate, Mr. Rockefeller was content with four guards. These he called in from an open window when he wanted to feel assured that they were on duty. With the new system in operation the flashing of the lights answered by the guards, who press buttons and sound buzzers above their employer's bed.

A similar system is being installed at the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

REV. SAM SMALL TO SPEAK HERE SOON

SUBJECT IS "HIS MAJESTY, THE DEVIL"—LECTURE FREE AT THE COURT HOUSE.

The coming of Rev. Sam Small, the famous southern evangelist, editor, and lecturer, wherever he speaks is creating wide interest, and on every hand men are heard to say, "He is the greatest speaker I have ever heard, and I am mighty glad he is coming to New Bern." Dr. Small is a man of exceptional attainment on politics and literature.

He was born in Knoxville, Tennessee, in the city founded by his family forebears; graduated with high honors from Emory and Henry College in Virginia, and after admission to the bar in Tennessee, became private secretary to ex-President Andrew Johnson and followed that statesman's political fortune to the United States Senate. He holds the literary degrees of A. B. and A. M. from his alma mater; Ph. D. from Taylor university and D. D. from the Ohio northern university. He is a trained journalist, many years editor of leading southern newspapers, principally the noted "Atlanta Constitution." He is the author of several books. By appointment of President Hayes he served as a secretary of the American Commission in Paris in 1878, and as a delegate from this country to the International literary Congress of that year. He has served in many notable national conventions of political, commercial, and reformatory character. While in the United States army in Cuba in 1899, he was military supervisor of public instructions, engaged in the reorganization of the public schools on the island.

The Detroit Free Press made the following comment after Dr. Small's appearance in Detroit recently: "Those who heard Rev. Sam Small at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon were held spellbound by his powers of logic, wit and earnest eloquence. He quickly won the sea-level of his audience, and then he moved it to tears, laughter, or applause at his will. Per-

ARE TO CANVASS GRAVEN COUNTY VOTE SATURDAY

This Decided Upon Yesterday At Noon.

CONVENTION TO BE HELD.

Interest In The Congressional Situation Continues At Fever Heat.

At a meeting yesterday noon of the Craven county Democratic Executive Committee it was decided to leave the formal canvass of the votes cast in Saturday's primary until the county convention which is to be held on Saturday.

Another matter which will come up in the convention is that of rendering a decision as to whether a second primary will be held to decide whether G. V. Richardson or G. A. Whitford will represent the county in the legislature.

With so many votes to count the convention will have a task on its hands which will not by any means be enjoyed by the members and it is the general opinion that the canvass of the votes should have begun yesterday and concluded before the convention is called to order. However, this was not done.

Interest in the Congressional situation remains at fever heat. Each day the belief grows stronger that Hon. Charles R. Thomas has secured the nomination and his friends are confidently asserting that the vote when counted will be found in his favor.

There seems to be some doubt in the minds of a few that it will not be an easy task to count all of these votes, there being so many candidates in the race. However, there will be little or no trouble. The committee who will canvass this vote have thoroughly studied the preferential primary law and will be in a position to handle this part of the work in a thorough and expedient manner.

As to the selection of Mr. Thomas, even the friends of several of the other candidates in the race have conceded the victory to him and it only remains for the final canvass of the votes to affirm this.

SENATE UNLIKELY TO PASS ANY ANTI-TRUST LAW

President Gompers and Associates Have Made Many Demands.

NO ACTION TO BE TAKEN

President Gompers and Associates Have Made Many Demands.

(Special to the Journal)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—There has been little change in the anti-trust legislation situation in Congress for ten days. Those conversant with the facts do not think that more than one-fourth of the members of the House or Senate care to tackle seriously the measure at this session. The House may pass one or more anti-trust measures, but the Senate will discuss them for a time and adjourn without passing them—such is the consensus of opinion now.

The House will begin consideration of the proposed trust legislation this week. The Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce expects to report the Trade Commission bill, which was prepared by a non-partisan subcommittee two weeks ago.

The trouble about this anti-trust legislation, according to the leaders of the Democratic forces of the House, is that it requires hard work and members of Congress have been here so long without a rest that they lack enthusiasm for the great effort it will require. Three out of four members of the House would rather not pass trust bills at this time.

The demands of American Federation of Labor are worrying "labor Congressmen." The President has indicated in no uncertain way that he will not stand for the exemption of labor organizations from the operation of the Sherman law and other anti-trust acts to come.

President Gompers and associates who manage the affairs of the American Federation of Labor have served notice on their friends in Congress that the House bill must be so amended "that it will definitely and clearly exempt the organizations of workers from the civil as well as the criminal sections of the Sherman Anti-Trust law, and by so doing reflect the pledges of the Democratic party."

It was undoubtedly the intention of Congress, the labor leaders argue, in connection with the Sherman act, to enact a law that would be effective in the prevention of huge combination of wealth from crushing their competitors in the business world. It was also the avowed and openly expressed opinion of the statesmen who wrote the law that it should not apply to farmers or laborers' organizations established for the betterment of the producers of wealth.

Over these interpretations the congressmen will battle for some weeks. The House and Senate will support the President in his purpose to give union labor just what he thinks it is entitled to and no more under the Sherman law.

The House bill presented by Chairman Clayton, of the Judiciary Committee, does not exempt the labor unions from prosecution under the Sherman act. It provides that nothing contained in the anti-trust laws will be strud to forbid the existence and prevention of fraternal, labor, consumers, agricultural or historical organizations, orders or associations instituted for the purpose of mutual help, and not having capital stock or help, or conducted for profit, or to forbid or restrain individual members from carrying out the legitimate objects thereof.

Sam Hines Held On Murder Charge

HE IS ACCUSED OF MURDERING RUFÉ EDWARDS TWELVE YEARS OR MORE AGO.

(Special to the Journal.)

TARBORO, May 20.—Recorder James Pender tried two interesting cases here this morning in which a murder done 12 years ago was brought to light, and the other in which two one-armed negroes engaged in a lively race.

The first case was that of the State vs. Abram Davis, alias Sam Hines, a negro charged with the murder of Rufe Edwards, another negro man, near Macesfield in 1902. Detective Milford Haynes, of this city, recently took the case and worked it up with a result that last Friday the defendant was arrested by him at Bayboro, in Pamlico County, and brought here for trial. Davis, or Hines, admits that he is the man wanted and the evidence produced at the preliminary hearing today was sufficient for the recorder to bind the man over to the Superior Court.
