

STORSTADT'S BOW SUSTAINS STORY

Battered And Bent Condition of Stern Tells Story.

SEAMEN TO BE BURIED.
Registered Mail a Total Loss, But $140,000 in Money Orders Will Be Paid.

(Special to the Journal.)
MONTREAL, June 4.—The collier Storstad, which rammed the Canadian Pacific Empress of Ireland in the St. Lawrence last Friday, causing the loss of more than 900 lives, completed unloading her heavy cargo of coal today, and it was possible to make a thorough inspection of her bow, shattered by the shock of the collision.

Her stem was twisted so much to starboard that it formed a semicircle. Some of the lower plates on her bow also were twisted and others had been torn away. There is a large indentation on each side of the stem.

The condition of the Storstad's stem is pointed to in connection with Capt. Anderson's claim that when the collision with the Empress of Ireland occurred it was impossible for the collier's stem to remain in the hole because it was twisted by the forward movement of the Empress.

The Storstad is still in the possession of the bailiff who seized the vessel on the Canadian Pacific Company's claim of $2,000,000 damage against the collier.

Funeral of Empress's Crew.
The Canadian Pacific officials stated tonight that the funeral of the members of the crew of the Empress of Ireland who lost their lives in the disaster and whose bodies have not been claimed will take place on Friday at 10 o'clock at Quebec. The Canadian Pacific will bear the expense.

According to the statement of Montreal post-office officials, the heavy registered mail, amounting to 100 packages which went down on the Empress, is a total loss and there will be no compensation for the sending or addresses of the packages. The postal regulations provide that the department is responsible only for registered mail actually lost in the mail, and then only to the extent of $25 for each package.

Notices are being sent out by the Montreal post-office to thirty-four exchange offices in all parts of the world, notifying them of the loss of the mail, and providing a list of the registered letters.

Big Consignment of Mail.
The Empress of Ireland carried 159 bags of newspapers, 51 bags of letters, 8 baskets containing 301 parcels, and 1,093 registered articles.

Those who sent money orders to Europe were lost on the Empress, however, will not be out of pocket, as duplicates of the money orders held in Ottawa, will be copied and dispatched to London. The persons concerned will receive the money. It is estimated that $140,000 in money orders went down in the mail bags.

Lloyd's the insurance underwriters, will decide whether it will be feasible to raise the funds of the Empress from the bottom of the St. Lawrence, it was stated today.

Demand Release of Collier.
In support of its contention that the Storstad was not to blame for the collision her owners, through counsel today, prepared an application to Justice Dwyer, of the Admiralty Court, demanding the release of the collier from arrest. In the application, the owners deny all liability for the accident, and urge that the collier be released when a bond of $234,000 is filed. The application will come before Justice Dunlop on Thursday.

The application will be opposed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. It is the intention of the owners of the Storstad should she be released, to place the ship in dry dock, not in New York, as has been previously stated, but in Montreal or Quebec.

A private investigation into the collision is being conducted by Captain Lindsay, the Dominion Wreck Commissioner.

Orders have been issued that the members of the crews who were on watch at the time the vessels collided must be held here until the inquiry is over.

Acting under cable advices from relatives in England the Canadian Pacific Railway will bury the body of Sir Henry Seton Karr at Quebec.

IN POLICE COURT.
Mayor Had Only a Few Cases Yesterday.

George Morris, colored, was arraigned before Mayor Bangert at Police Court yesterday afternoon charged with being disorderly in the city limits. Judgment was suspended on the payment of the cost, and doctors bill for sewing up a wound on the back of Ben Chase's head, also colored, inflicted by Morris.

There not being sufficient evidence for conviction in the cases against Tom Fleming and Ben Chase, both colored, they were discharged.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS A MEETING

MANY IMPORTANT MATTERS TAKEN UP AND ACTED UPON BY THE MEMBERS

The last meeting of the Woman's Club for the current year was held in the Club Rooms on Wednesday, June 3rd. A goodly number of interested members were present and much interest shown in the different phases of the work as reviewed or mapped out for the coming year. Mrs. Owen Dunn was unanimously elected Recording Secretary for the ensuing year. Mrs. J. P. C. Davis read a most interesting report of the State Federation in Fayetteville to which she was a delegate from this Club. A new department to be known as An Economic Department was proposed and it was voted to create this department by having a committee to study and formulate plans during the summer months the committee to be named later by the chair. A general discussion as to the advisability of purchasing a piano for the Club rooms was entered into, and it was voted to buy a piano, the selection of an instrument to be left to a committee to be named by the President later. This committee is as follows: Mrs. J. R. B. Carraway, Chairman; and Mrs. John Aberly, from the music department; Mrs. C. R. Thomas, from the Social Service; Miss Laura Ives from the Shakespeare; Mrs. J. Spencer, from the Canterbury; Mrs. Eby, from the Civics Department; and Mrs. Bonner, from the Current Events. In order that the new year books shall be ready by the November meeting it was voted that all programs of departmental work must be in the hands of the President ready for the printers by October 10th, otherwise the departments failing to have ready their programs by that date will not be able to get their programs in the year books at all. # TEN NIGHTS IN A BARROOM AT THE STAR THEATRE

RENOWNED PICTURE IS TO BE SHOWN THERE TODAY—A BIG FEATURE

Mr. J. M. Bradlet for five years the Western representative of the Moving Picture World, one of the founders of the Exhibitors' Times, and editor of the Motion Picture News and the author of an interesting booklet, "What Are Motion Pictures?" is in town.

Mr. Bradlet is presenting at the STAR theatre, today, a feature film of five reels: "TEN NIGHTS IN A BARROOM" from A. T. Arthur's book, a photoplay better than a million temperance lectures. This feature is not only endorsed by the clergy but has received the highest comments of the press in general. The Dramatic Mirror says: "The highly moral melodramatic 'Ten Nights in a Barroom' is probably known to the majority of people throughout the world. It has been done on the stage and in pictures times innumerable, but it has remained for the Photo-Drama Co., to put on the first high class motion picture version in a new form."

Mr. Bradlet has been in the Carolinas since last February, organizing the managers of motion picture theatres for the uplifting and betterment of this most popular amusement. With a strong organization in sight, motion pictures will enjoy a still greater popularity.

The following is a brief synopsis of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," which will be shown at the Star theatre today:
At the age of twenty-one, Joe Morgan inherits his father's grist mill. Soon after he weds Fannie Owen, one of the prettiest and sweetest girls in the village of Sedarville. Happy-go-lucky Joe soon feels the responsibility of the mill irksome and he engages his companion, Simon Slade as manager, leaving Joe free to indulge in his desire for drink and idleness.

Joe spent his money freely (as do all the alleged good fellows when they have it) but the shrewd, business like Simon Slade saved his, and when Joe, who has mortgaged the mill, is unable to meet the note when due, Simon advances the money, thus buying half interest in the business. Having less to do than before, weak-willed Joe slides the downward path.
Through all these darkening days the ever-loving and devoted Fannie clings to her dilapidate husband without a word of reproach; even the birth of a baby girl, whom Joe worships, did not stop him from his downward course. Slade had sold his share in the mill to Judge Hammond, and had opened a tavern. Joe became his best customer. Spending his money lavishly. Joe was a welcome visitor to the saloon, and when he lost the mill, he mortgaged his home, the proceeds of which went in the same manner as the rest of his money, "OVER THE BAR."

Eventually the time came when he had to meet the mortgage on his home, and being unable to meet the obligation he knows not where to turn for assistance, except to his friend Simon Slade, with whom he had spent his money. When he called upon Simon, he found no longer the Simon Slade of boyhood days, but a hard-hearted tavern keeper, with no thoughts of the past, who refused to lend the needed amount and gave Joe to understand that he was no longer a welcome visitor at the tavern.

Joe awakes to a realization of what a fool he has made of himself, but now it is too late. In a short while his home is sold, he and his wife and child are thrown out in the world, without home and friends. Joe, who now has sunk to the level of the village drunkard, tries to drown his thoughts in drink, his faithful wife is compelled to do washing and other drudgery. She becomes dangerously ill, and instead of going to get Joe, as she had been accustomed to do on various occasions, she sends her child, now a girl of ten, to the saloon to bring her father home. At the time of her entrance into the saloon, Joe is having an altercation with Slade. They come to blows, Slade attempts to strike Morgan with a bottle. Joe's daughter, in an effort to save her father, steps between the two men, and receives the fatal blow. Joe, frenzied with grief when he realizes what Slade has done, attempts to strangle him.

Joe takes little Mary in his arms, and rushes home with her. His wife realizes what has happened and for the first time since their marriage she upbraids him. The excitement is too much and Joe is seized with delirium tremens. After days of agony and torture, he is brought to a realization of what has happened, but only in time to see little Mary die from the cruel blow of Simon Wade. Before her death she extracted from her father a solemn vow that he would never drink again.
