Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

AEROPLANES are proving of distinct utility to the American army in Mexico. General Funston is using them constantly to keep track of the movements of the Huerta forces. The illustration (top picture) shows an aviator coming ashore in a hydroplane after a reconnoitering trip, and at the bottom is Lieutenant Mustin, an army aviator, making his report after returning from scouting over the Vera Cruz suburbs.

HUGHIE JENNINGS SAYS DETROIT'S THE NINE

RED HEADED PERSON HANDING OUT A NIFTY LINE OF DOPE TO THE FANS.

(By Frank G. Menke.)

NEW YORK, June 10.—A red headed person named Hughie Jennings, who hails from Detroit, and who is well known in vaudeville circles, is abroad in this land just now with a new monologue, entitled "Detroit's Gonna Cop Sure."

In his home town this Jennings fellow made a great hit with his chatter, but in a number of other cities when he has appeared, especially in Philadelphia, U. S. A., no laughs have greeted his utterances, despite the fact that Mister Jennings is the funniest baseball person outside of jail.

"We are the people this year—we are," remarks Jennings. From the appearance of things now, it seems that all persons desiring to gaze upon the world series games this fall will have to spend half of the time in Detroit. But there's no better place to spend half of your time—nor all your time, than Detroit. Beautiful city—very beautiful.

"The folks over in Philadelphia think the Athletics have the greatest infield in the country. And the Pirates think theirs is just about as good. Well, wait until my infield gets to working together a little longer—and then the experts will not be so hasty in slipping the medals to the Athletics and Pirates.

"Burns, my new first baseman, is a wonder. He can hit, run and can get anything that comes within a mile of him. And in addition he is brainy. Kavanough, at second, is one of the most brilliant all-around players that has broken into the game in many years.

"I've got a couple of pretty good catchers this year and Cavaloski rounds out a steady, reliable pitching staff.

"Of course, I am a bit weak in the outfield. The only fellows I have out there are Bobby Veach, Sam Crawford, and a fellow named Cobb. Sam is getting pretty old now, and he can't average more than four or five hits a day, but he served us well in years gone by, and we are keeping Sam just to demonstrate to the people that there is some sentiment in baseball.

"Cobb looks like a 'comer' this year. Earlier in the season I thought of asking for waivers on him because he was batting only a trifle over 300 but he is doing a little better now and I guess I'll keep him.

"All in all, I think my team stronger in every way than that which grabbed the bunting in 1907, 1908, and 1909."

Down in Cincinnati, which is on the Ohio River, the villagers are thinking of presenting Charles Lincoln Herzog with a brewery—the highest honor that Cincinnati can bestow on a person.

Charles went down there, against the advice of friends and the pleading of his relatives, and by infusing his mediocre collection of Athletes with some of his own fire and enthusiasm, has succeeded in getting them to put up the test articles of baseball that has been seen in that vicinity for a considerable period.

Of course the Cincinnati fans don't expect to win the pennant for them. If he did, the whole town would die of shock. And a lot of persons in Cincinnati aren't prepared to die just yet. The supply of asbestos down there is too limited. All they hoped for was a team that could put up an interesting and scrappy exhibition of baseball. And that's just what the Reds are doing.

Walter Johnson has been discovered.

Some Boston player has just learned that all Johnson has is a fast ball and a prayer. That's all—just a fast ball, and a prayer. Inasmuch as one can't swat a prayer with a hickory club, and few batters are able to hit Johnson's fast ball with the same implement, it seems to us that the "speed-king" shouldn't worry over being "discovered."

CIVIL CEREMONY IN INTERNATIONAL WEDDING

FIRST PART OF ROOSEVELT-WILLARD NUPTIALS CONSUMMATED YESTERDAY.

(Special to the Journal.)

MADRID, June 10.—In the residence of the magistrate of the Boenavista district, the Belle Wyatt Willard, daughter of the American Ambassador to Spain and Mrs. Joseph E. Willard, and Kermit Roosevelt, son of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, were united in marriage by the Spanish civil ceremony to-day.

Although the function was small in comparison with the religious ceremony which takes place tomorrow in the American Embassy, all the formalities of Spanish law were strictly observed.

Ambassador Willard had specially requested that there be no exceptions made on account of the high position of the contracting parties and every requirement of the law governing foreign marriages was fulfilled.

The minister of State had suggested that the justice go to the American Embassy. But the Embassy is technically United States territory and so outside the jurisdiction of the magistrate.

The magistrate took his duties today as a high honor and had fitted up a room in his residence with some elaborateness for the occasion. The house is in the most aristocratic part of the city. Large throngs watched the participants on their way to and from the justice's home.

The wedding certificate was signed by the Spanish premier, Edgar Dato; the Minister of State, the Marquis of Lema; Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador to France and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, the father of the bridegroom.

The Spanish populace takes the liveliest interest in Colonel Roosevelt. Wherever he went today, crowds followed and tried to get a glimpse of him. There were cheers at several points, and the American ex-President responded by taking off his hat, smiling and bowing genially.

BOOMS KISS INSURANCE.

No Nagging and Good Habits Protection for Workers.

(Special to the Journal.)

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—Cheerful kisses from happy wives were set before the 150,000 employees of 2,000 electric light concerns in the United States by the National Electric Light Association today as the best guarantee against being killed in the day's work.

The "safety first" principles of the association thus were summed up by Paul Lupke of Trenton, N. J., who applied them to all workers in dangerous callings.

"The wife who nags her husband and sends him away from home banging the door after him stands less chance of seeing him come home whole, but in order that your wife may send you with a cheerful face to work about electrical machinery, there must be freedom from dissolute habits, freedom from financial distress, freedom from loan sharks, freedom from all worries, so that in peace of mind you have power of concentration."

ASK CONGRESS TO AID VOCATION TRAINING

$7,000,000 A YEAR REQUIRED FROM NATIONAL GOVERNMENT, IT IS URGED.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The commission on National Aid for Vocational Education reported to-day on the urgency for getting Congress to appropriate at least $7,000,000 a year for the purpose.

"The human problem," says the commission, "is most important." This nation is spending more than a billion dollars annually almost all of which is being used to meet such purely physical problems as the national defense, the promotion of commerce, the operation of the postal and custom service, the preservation of law and order, the creation of public buildings and the improvement of rivers and harbors and the reclamation of arid lands.

"Important and necessary as is this service, the proposal to give a modest amount to the State for vocational education of our workers is vastly more so, in the proportion that the human problem is greater than the physical. We have done much in the outreach of the Federal power for the encouragement of things which, although obvious, are relatively superficial as compared with the need for the practical education of twenty-five million untrained people, who reach to the very heart of our body politic and weaken or strengthen our social structure.

"National grants for vocational education are justified by the national character of the problem, because it concerns all the people and is of nationwide interest and importance."

The commission is composed of Senators Hoke Smith and Page, Representatives Hughes of Georgia and Foss of Ohio; John A. Lapp of Indianapolis, Miss Florence Marshall and Charles A. Prosser of New York City; Miss Agnes Nestor, Chicago, and Charles H. Winslow of Washington.

COATLESS PASTOR IS EMULATED IN PEWS

SOLID COMFORT IN RELIGION AS WELL AS IN OTHER THINGS.

(Special to the Journal.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10.—Solid comfort in religion—or at least while taking part in the evening church services—is now assured to the men of the Centennial Baptist Church congregation and its pastor, Rev. E. Hez Swem, by the summer rule of "no hot coats or high stiff collars for men." This rule, or relaxation of rules, has been made by Mr. Swem to bring men to church on summer evenings. It went into effect for the season at the Centennial Baptist Church last night.

To furnish an example, Dr. Swem started the ball rolling by rising in the pulpit and shedding his own coat; he even went so far as to turn back his shirt sleeves and then, prepared for action, started into his sermon. Men all over the church rose, and with relieved expressions, slipped out of the hot garments, which fashion decrees shall be worn by males except on very informal occasions. And that was the keynote of the whole thing—informality. Undoubtedly "a comfortable time was enjoyed by all."

Mr. Swem realized that some men would let their religion drag in summer time rather than submit to the stiff, unbending ceremony of church.

Miss Georgia Keene, left yesterday morning for a few days visit to friends and relatives in Kinston.
