DRUG SYNDICATE OWNS SING SING

FORMER WARDEN CLANCY ASSETS THAT YEARLY PROFIT TO BAND IS OVER $25,000.

NEW YORK, August 15.—The sale of cocaine, heroin, morphine and opium to prisoners in Sing Sing has netted to what is known as the "drug syndicate" a yearly profit of more than $25,000, according to James M. Clancy who resigned recently as warden. Mr. Clancy insisted upon the acceptance of his resignation because he found that the politicians inside the prison were too powerful, with their own side influence for him to fight. In an interview with a Herald reporter last night Mr. Clancy revealed a startling condition existing in the prison relative to the traffic in drugs. Only a few days before Mr. Clancy quit Sing Sing he arrived at the prison unexpectedly at half past 1 o'clock in the morning and found several keepers in the yard. They told him they were watching a small motor boat that had just landed at the prison pier without showing any lights. He and the keepers watched the craft for fifteen minutes, while several men on board her were unloading cases and packages. Then they ran down to the pier, hoping to arrest the men and detain the vessel. But the smuggler crew was too quick for them and got aboard and quickly shot out in to the stream. The cargo that had been unloaded consisted of several cases of whiskey put up in half pint bottles for easy sale among prisoners, and a large quantity of cocaine, heroin, morphine and opium.

Through their political influences outside of the prison, the convicts control the prison, according to Mr. Clancy, and no warden can expect to obtain reform, proper discipline or establish corrective measures until that influence is broken. While warden Mr. Clancy discovered many ways in which drugs were smuggled in to convicts. He also found that in several places inside the walls opium smoking dens had been fitted up. Mr. Clancy found that it was a common practice to conceal cocaine and similar drugs postage stamps on letters or under the embossed letters and pictures on stationery or postcards. Discovering that several prisoners were receiving an unusual quantity of new handkerchiefs which from their stiffness, indicated that they had not been laundered, Mr. Clancy examined these incoming handkerchiefs and found that they had been saturated in a strong solution of cocaine and then dried and ironed. By placing a part of the handkerchief on the tongue, a drug user could obtain the desired effect. Lead pencils, which appeared to be new and in unbroken boxes were found to have lead only a short distance in each end and the rest of the holes were packed with drugs. In apparently new shoes sent to prisoners hollow heels and soles filled with drugs were found. Chewing gum was literally filled with cocaine and heroin.

Convicts who are dealers in these drugs have made large sums of money, according to Mr. Clancy, and have when their sentences expired left the prison with hundreds of dollars that they did not have when they entered. "There is now little hope for the young man sent to Sing Sing for the first time," said Mr. Clancy. "He comes out a drug user or a criminal far more dangerous than when he entered. He has absorbed it twice to be found there. Some say New York State will discover that Sing Sing is a far more expensive institution to the people than the mere cost of maintaining it as a penitentiary."

DON'T DO IT.
Don't Pay Any Attention To The Alluring Bait. (Greensboro Everything) We read a big ad in the Progressive Farmer which wants you to send to a grocery house, a "pure food" concern to buy your groceries. In order to get you interested an offer of plates and knives and forks, free is made. We hope no farmer who reads this paper will send a dollar out of the South. We have grocers, both whole sale and retail in this county, and when you patronize the local merchant you are helping build up your section. You are making your own property worth more money. You are assisting to build towns and cities. You have gained nothing by sending away for stuff that may be cheaper in price and dear in the end. Buy at home. Keep the South's money in the South. Build here the institutions that are worth while. Let the mail order houses go. Our merchants will give you prices equal to the North. They will back up their guarantees and they will help you. They are the ones who make a market for your produce. Keep talking it and keep insisting that the South's money remain in the South. In this way we all help each other prosper.
