He says the Seminole will be much better equipped when the returns to Wilmington than when it left. Engines, of a different and a better type, have been installed. Their averagement will enlarge the coal bunkers, so that a great deal more coal can be carried at one time. The towing facilities of the cutter, also, have been changed, making this work much easier and safer.

Quarters for a ship's surgeon, too have been installed, and a surgeon will be added to the official corps of the cutter. She will be of great assistance in many cases of rescue at sea and in a number of other ways.

The gymnasium outfit which was presented to the Seminole boys by Lloyd's, London, for the valliant rescue of a British ship, has been held up at Spaulding's factory during the summer, but will be shipped to Wilmington within a few weeks.

Ed. Nickson and Lon Willis, of Salter Path, while floundering a few nights ago, discovered what seemed to them as being a very large fish of a strange specimen in the bottom of the creek. Nickson stuck his spear in this object and to his great surprise learned that he had gigged a five foot alligator. The alligator broke Nickson's spear and turned on the sporteman. Nickson at once seized an ax and struck at the alligator with a terrific force, but his aim was not good and he missed his mark, and becomming over-balanced, fell overboard. In scrambling to get back in the boat Nickson stirred the mud up so that the alligator came to the top of the water and the death blow was
