SUCCESSFUL MEN

JOHN JACOB ASTOR

America's first millionaire, was a very far sighted man. He left the little village of Waldorf on the Rhine to come to this country of wonderful opportunities to engage in the business of selling pianos, but he soon learned that there was more profit in the fur business. In good years and bad years, he prospered because under all circumstances he was a rigid economist and close trader.

By the close of the eighteenth century he was the richest man in the United States. Then, as his wealth continued to grow, he did something which nearly everybody thought was foolish. He bought land on Manhattan Island, far beyond the developed section, which to the ordinary vision was not likely to be encroached upon by the then little city for generations to come. The wise men in New York said he was inviting ruin, tying up vast sums in unproductive land that meant nothing but taxes. But he kept on buying land. In 1848, he died leaving an estate worth over $30,000,000.
