BELGIANS FOR THE SOUTHERN STATES

BALTIMORE IMMIGRATION CONCERN HAS REPRESENTATIVE IN WAR-STRICKEN COUNTRY

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 17.—With in a few weeks, according to the present plans, a number of Belgian farmers and their families who are now war refugees in Holland and England, will be located on lands in several of the Southern States, which will be sold them by the owners at such rates and upon such terms as should enable them to finally establish themselves as self-supporting American farmers.

The Southern Settlement and Development Organization has a representative in Holland to-day, and within a short time two more will leave for England and Holland to put into effect the matured plans, which have been built on practical lines, so as to conform in all respects to the laws of the several countries, but, which however, will be carried out in the spirit of a broad philanthropy. Letters have been sent to Boards of Trade and similar bodies in the South, land companies and individual owners who have large tracts of land which might be suitable for locating Belgians thereon, asking if they desire to actively co-operate in the movement. Responses to these letters indicate a South-wide desire not only to help the Belgians refugees, but to help them help themselves.

According to latest reports over 250,000 Belgian families, aggregating 1,250,000 men, women and children are war refugees in Holland, England, and France. A large proportion of the men are skilled agriculturists, and thousands are specialists in the growing of vegetables, fruits or flowers, in dairying and in the raising of livestock and poultry. A large proportion of the farming class own small farms in Belgium, from which they were driven by the contending armies, and information from Holland and England is to the effect that most of them have abandoned all hope of returning to their farms for many months, if at all.

The Belgian farmers, market gardeners, florists, dairymen, livestock and poultry raisers are world-famed for their skill, thrift and remarkable ability. They are accustomed to working intensively small farms, and to a large extent they understand the conservation, upbuilding and enrichment of soils and the intelligent employment of manures and fertilizers. Although general farming as practised in the United States was not followed largely in Belgium, the Belgian farmer's acre yield is largely in excess of the acre yield in the United States, in several crops two or three times as large.

The Year Book of the United States Department of Agriculture shows that in 1912 the Belgian wheat harvest amounted to 15,348,000 bu. from 397,000 acres. (This gives an average of 38.6 bushels of wheat to the acre, and the average acre yield in the United States for the year was only 15.9 bushels.) The following figures of Belgium agriculture taken from the 1913 Year Book shows that Belgium raised 38,000,000 bushels of oats from 648,000 acres. (An average of 58 bushels against 37.4 bushels in the United States); 4,160,000 bu. of barley from 84,000 acres (an average of 51 bushels against 39.7 bushels in the United States); 21,342,000 bu. of rye from 650,000 acres (an average of 33 bushels against 16.8 bushels in the United States); 121,481,000 bu. of potatoes from 387,000 acres (an average of 313 bushels against 113.4 bushels in the United States.)

The Southern Settlement and Development Organization has been selected as a clearing house by a number of large interests, which not only are in hearty sympathy with the nation-wide movement to take care of the present needs of the refugees while they are in Holland and England, but which go further and believe that by bringing a large number of the agricultural class into the Southern States, both the Belgians and the South will be permanently benefited.
