

High School Band Honors Director Milton Bliss

The spring festival concert of Chapel Hill High School Band Thursday evening drew a good attendance. This is Milton Bliss's first year as conductor but it has been a successful one, with a superior rating attained at the state test. The band expressed their appreciation of Bliss during a ceremony which recognized achievements of band members during the program. The program included works by standard and contemporary composers, played musically and with a welcome flexibility and fine intonation. The "Westchester Overture" by Grundman and Grofe's "Mississippi Suite" were the highlights of the works performed by the full band.

The clarinet and trumpet sections were displayed in several ensemble numbers. Two members of the band performed solos which indicated talent seldom found in high school groups.

John Hanft, flutist and winner of the junior award for musicianship, played the "Menuet" from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne Suite, No. 2."

John Adams performed the first movement of Mozart's "Third Horn Concerto," assisted by a fine piano accompaniment.

The audience particularly enjoyed two novelty numbers, "Tzena, Tzena, Tzena," and "Stars and Stripes Around the World." Greig's martial "Huldigungsmarsch" concluded the program. The community can be proud to support a band of this calibre.

JOHN KENFIELD OFF

John F. Kenfield, the tennis coach, leaves tomorrow for his summer session at Glenageary, Ill. Mrs. Kenfield will stay in their country house for the present. Kenfield has felt better since his boys beat a highly touted Rollins College team here and then on their northern trip defeated Princeton after being licked here.

Dowd Davis' Recital Is Well Received

Dowd Davis, senior organ student at the University, presented a recital of music on last Sunday evening at Hill Hall, ranging from Pachelbel to Karg-Elert. His program began with a four-part harmonization of the chorale, "Wie schon leuchtet der Morgenstern," by J. S. Bach, and was followed by Chorale Preludes on the same melody by Pachelbel and Bach, and an improvisation on the chorale by Karg-Elert. The well-known "Tocatta and Fugue in D Minor" of Bach, the "Chorale in A Minor" by Cesar Franck and "Nun Danket Alle Gott" by Karg-Elert completed the program.

Mr. Davis' choices of registration were appropriate for each of the compositions. However, the organ seems best adapted to the more romantic music of Franck and Karg-Elert. The contrasts in the Bach "Tocatta and Fugue" produced by the changes in manuals were nicely transmitted, and a controlled tempo throughout the work, plus careful phrasing, resulted in a creditable performance.

On the whole, Mr. Davis lacked the assurance necessary for a wholly satisfying performance, but with further experience in public performance, the desired clarity and confidence will be forthcoming.

'Evening Of Opera' A Rewarding Program

On Thursday evening, May 20, the Music Department of the University presented a program entitled "An Evening Of Opera." This proved to be a recital of operatic arias and duets performed by students of the voice department.

David Phipps, baritone, opened the program with the well-known "Ombra mai fu" from Handel's Xerxes. From this point the program continued in chronological order covering a period of two and a half centuries. Composers represented were, beside Handel — Monsigny, Mozart, Donizetti, Verdi, Bizet, Lalo, Puccini and our own George Gershwin.

Professor Joel Carter introduced each singer and made explanatory comments of the excerpts presented. Participating in the program, in addition to Mr. Phipps were John Park, tenor; Barbara Spencer, soprano; Joseph McCugan, baritone; Nora Jane Rumph, soprano; Eugene Parsons, tenor; William Chance, baritone; Robert Churchill, tenor and Velma Perry, soprano. Piano accompaniments were played by Ronald Andrews, Henry Miller, Art Winsor and Eugene Wagoner.

The small but appreciative audience who defied the inclement weather were rewarded by a program which held both interest and quality.

Two-For One's Cost Seen By Dean Luxon

Two professional schools will get new homes for the cost of one if the 1955 General Assembly appropriates funds for a building for the School of Pharmacy, Dean Norval Neil Luxon of the School of Journalism told members of the Western North Carolina Press Association meeting in Asheville Saturday night.

Dean Luxon pointed out that less than $200,000 will be needed to remodel and equip Howell Hall, present home of the School of Pharmacy, to meet the needs of the School of Journalism. He asked cooperation of the editors in supporting Pharmacy's request for new facilities in the Health Center on the campus.
