PEOPLE In Brief

ED LANIER FONDLY—A three-inch thick loose-leaf notebook at last Monday's meeting of aldermen. He presented to the assemblage that contained all of the town's ordinances enacted since 1925. The book was carefully indexed and compiled along with the previously-enacted ordinances within the next two weeks.

TOWN'S CHIEF STAR—On its completion, the Planetary Director Tony says that celestial phenomenon on Thursday night was especially unusual, except that the atmosphere was particularly clear and Chapel Hillians got a clear view of the planet Venus changing off the lower tip of crescent moon during the early morning. This happens several times a year, Mr. Jenzano said. The moon's orbit comes near the plane of Venus. A lot of people called the Planetary Director for an explanation of this.

PROUD FATHER OF A BOY—who already had two girls—was announcing his news of his heir recently, to a crowd of friends. The congratulations poured in to him every hand until he chanced to see another father—the father of four young girls. Informed of the birth of a new child, the father of the four girls inquired of the infant's sex. Told it was a boy, he answered with all the confidence of a man—"Oh, that's better. Better luck next time."

B. COLE, THE GROVER—owner of Dogwood Acres, is looking spiffy these days driving around in a new Cadillac. He says he always wanted one, and he's always with the Bank of America. Hill—was one. Only one, he admitted, he's in the house with his wife.

MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION—Harvey Daniell sat down his desk in a new location this morning. The Association offices moved over the weekend from Bankers Building into spacious new street floor quarters in Carl Smith Building on North Columbia Street.

WOOD DOWDY OF SAN—is in extremely critical condition at Memorial Hospital, suffering from multiple fractures of the head and chest, incurred late last night when his northbound car failed to negotiate the Man's Curve on the Pittsboro highway at the Dogwood Acres driveway.

"Didn't Derail"

Derails in the nation's gridiron contests last week failed to derail all of the armchair football fans in town last week. Cary Phillips, winner of the News Leader's first weekly contest, missed only one game in capturing the $500 first prize. You, too, can outguess the experts. Enter the contest by using the entry blank on Page 2. No charge for entering. Leave the blank with any of the sponsoring firms listed on Page 2. This past week's winners will be announced in Thursday's News Leader.

Registration For Fall Semester Hits 6,061

From Alabama to Colorado, from the Bahamas to Vietnam the students kept coming in until UNC's total enrollment figure for the fall semester reached over 6,000. Tar Heels led with a 78.3 percentage or 4,748 out of the total 6,061 students enrolled.

The enrollment is divided into 4,993 men and 1,068 women (approximately a 4 to 1 ratio in favor of the lasses).

Twenty-seven per cent of the males are veterans and total veterans of both sexes number 1,376, with 19 of those coeds.

Among the 1242 out-of-state students 174 come from Virginia, 150 from New York, 128 from South Carolina, 109 from Florida and 92 from Georgia. A total of 41 states and the District of Columbia are represented.

Foreign students at the University total 71 from 35 different countries. India leads by far with a delegation of 11; next highest are Canada and Puerto Rico, with five each, and Philippine Islands

Exchangeites' Sale of Napkins To Be Conducted All This Week

The Exchange Club's third annual paper napkin sale will be conducted throughout the community nightly this week, beginning tomorrow night.

Club President Dan Decker said the sale would begin in Glen Lennox, and Oakwood-Rogerson Drives immediately following tomorrow night's brief supper meeting of the group. (The nightly sales hours for house-to-house calls will be 7 until 10:30, he said. It is planned to contact every household in town.)

On the committee in charge of the project are Lester Foley, Red Tyler, Watts Poe, and Julian Cason, however all 30 members of the club are expected to participate. Householders will be asked to buy five boxes of napkins for a dollar.

Last year the club realized about $400 from this project. All of the profits will go into the club's three basic projects: Cub Scouting, the school safety patrol, and care of elderly families at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Fire Prevention Week Under Way In Schools

Fire Prevention Week got under way locally today with timed fire drills at all local schools. Bill Hobbs, chairman of the Jaycee-sponsored observance, said a trophy would be presented later this week to the school which carried out the most orderly drill.

Mr. Hobbs is being assisted in putting on the observance by Jim Parker and Fred Dale. A town fire truck has been on hand to lend a touch of realism at each of the school drills. Fire safety movies will be shown in all schools during the week and fourth grade pupils will be given a fire safety questionnaire to be filled out at their homes.

Scouts Get Nuggets, Cash Awards As Prizes In First Gold Rush Event

Boy Scouts from all over Orange County—"prospectors" in the District's first "Gold Rush"—carried home imitation gold nuggets that netted them hard cash at the end of the all-day event held on Saturday at the old iron mines site north of town.

District Scout Executive Robert L. Collins said the project was unusually successful and seemed to capture the enthusiasm of all 80 participants. Adapted from a similar event held by Scouts in California, the field day was carried on as a test of various phases of scouting.

Fifteen competing patrols were started out early in the morning on compass bearings from the iron mines site toward nine different stations that they were to hit during the day. At each one they were given a field problem to execute, graded in points by the adult leaders, and then presented with from one to five gold nuggets depending on their grade. At the end of the day the nuggets were valued at $1.10 apiece and the money turned in to each patrol treasury.

First prize—a double-mantel gas lantern—went to the Eagle Patrol of Troop 39, of which Tammy Lefler was patrol leader. His group came in with 43 of a possible 45 nuggets. Members of the patrol were Dennis King, John Gove Jr., Cliff Perry, Jamie Ness, Charles Hubbard Jr., and Kerney Andrews. In second place was the Vulture Patrol of Troop 39, of which John Poushee was patrol leader. Second prize was a single mantel gas lantern.

Troop 39 was presented a trophy by the Rev. Charles Hubbard for coming in with the greatest number of nuggets. Senior Patrol Leader Leigh Skinner Jr. received the award for the troop.

The event was begun at 9 a.m. from San Francisco—the name designated for the Iron Mines with Bonner D. Sawyer, "mayor" of the city acting as starter. At the mid-day recess Judge L. J. Phipps told

Tom Noells Recaptured By Officers On Friday

Tom Noel, Carrboro escapee from a Cary Prison Farm roads gang recently, was back in prison today to complete a term for assaulting Durham County highway patrolman.

The 26-year-old Negro gave up without any resistance when officers surprised him late Friday night in Manly Snipe's store at Orange Grove eight miles west of here. Officers said today they'd suspected he was somewhere in the County since his escape from the roads gang several weeks ago.

Highway Patrolman E. S. Robinson said he got a call a little before midnight Friday that a man resembling Noell was at Snipe's place. The officer said he notified Sheriff's Deputy Albert L. Pendergrass, who in turn picked up Carrboro Patrolman W. E. Clark Jr., and all of them went to Snipe's store.

Mr. Robinson said he arrived first, and met Noell at the door. "I didn't recognize him at first" said Mr. Robinson. "He'd lost so much weight. At first he wouldn't admit he was Noell, but after he was handcuffed he did." The officers said they understood the fugitive had awakened Snipes a short while before to get some gas, having run out of gas nearby.

Noell was sentenced from Durham earlier this summer after assaulting a highway patrolman in Durham County who had stopped him for drunken driving.

Tours Of News Leader Plant Being Held During This Week

The Chapel Hill News Leader, in cooperation with National Newspaper Week over the country October 1 to 8, is happy to participate in various phases of this annual educational campaign.

Stories in connection with this event are carried on the editorial page of this issue, which features an article by University Journalism School Dean N. N. Luxon. Classroom groups in all of the community schools, as well as students in the University Journalism School, have been invited to visit the offices of this newspaper for a guided tour of the plant during the week.

The general public is invited to come out, too, any time during the day. The News Leader is printed in the News, Inc., building on Main Street in Carrboro. Also printed in the same plant are The News of Orange County, The Alamance News, and The Daily Tar Heel.

Prof. Phillips Russell, Editor of the News Leader, will speak to the Rotary Club Wednesday evening in connection with National Newspaper Week.

As the closing event of the observance News Leader carrier boys and parents have been invited to a banquet in their honor to be held in the Carrboro Baptist Church dining room, on Friday evening.

Carrboro Cop Is Resigning

Carrboro Policeman W. E. Clark Jr. has resigned from the town police force, effective next Friday. He said today he planned to take a job with the Village Laundry here next week.

Mr. Clark was hired last spring following the death of Patrolman E. C. Parnell. He had earlier served on the Chapel Hill Police force.

Mayor J. S. Gibson said the town commissioners would probably hire a replacement for him at their regular meeting on October 12. Meanwhile, if necessary, the Mayor said, Town Maintenance Superintendent Hughes Lloyd could serve as relief man on the force, as he has done in the past for both Patrolman Clark and Police Chief J. Alvin Williams.

CHHS Readying For Hillsboro

The traditional "battle of Orange County" on the gridiron will come off this Friday night when Chapel Hill High faces its biggest rival, Hillsboro. The game will be played there at 8 p.m.

Thomasville defeated the Wildcats here on Friday night for the locals' third straight loss. Hillsboro, living up to pre-season expectations, easily beat Methodist Orphanage 31-0. In the County series recently Hillsboro has beat Chapel Hill for the last two years and Chapel Hill won for four years before that. But records don't mean a great deal in this game, which is generally a close, hard-fought contest.

Coach Bill Grace said the team should be in pretty fair shape physically for this Friday's game although Hooker Butler will still be out, and Co-Captain Lewis Freeland, with a bad shoulder, will probably be used sparingly.

HOSPITALIZED

Today's register of patients at Memorial Hospital includes

Curney Atwater, James A. Duke, Mrs. Atlas Fearington, Mrs. I. G. Greer, Mrs. Hicks Hamrick, Mrs. W. F. Hancock, Mrs. Frances Harris, Willie C. Morris, R. K. Nicks, Howard W. Odum, Hugh F. Pendergrass, William N. Sharpe, C. C. Sugg, Richard E. Taylor, and Mrs. Early Womble.

Weather Reports

Generally fair and continue warm today, tonight, and tomorrow. Expected low tonight, mid 60's. Expected high tomorrow, near 90.

Bouquets Of Flowers, Words Vied At Hillsboro Courthouse Rites

Bouquets of words and flowers were in equal abundance about the new Orange County Courthouse this morning as the day's formal opening exercises for the new $250,000 building got under way at 10:15 a.m. with the opening of Superior Court.

At the request of the Orange County Bar, Superior Court Judge Leo Carr of Burlington, resident Judge for the district, was called to sit on this week's civil term of court. He was introduced by Bonner D. Sawyer, President of the County Bar Association, and delivered a brief congratulatory address to the 100 persons scattered through the courtroom. The audience was about equally divided between lawyers, prospective jurors, spectators, and persons having court cases coming for trial on the day's docket.

The rites culminated this afternoon with speeches in the courtroom by a half-dozen visiting and county dignitaries. Governor William B. Umstead, scheduled to make the featured address, could not be present, having entered Watts Hospital for treatment and a general checkup yesterday. An open house was held in all county offices in the building, which were bedecked with colorful bouquets sent by friends and associates of the various public officials. Refreshments were served to the public in the gleaming new home demonstration kitchen on the second floor throughout the afternoon.

The board of county commissioners sat down to its first meeting in their board room on the second floor, immediately following the opening of the court.

Clerk of Court Edwin Lynch called seven Chapel Hill Township residents to serve on the first jury as the initial case was called on the week's docket of 30 cases. The local jurors were Martha E. Lloyd, James Coker Williams, J. Walter Clark, Daniel O. Price, Vinson Dodson, Herman M. Greene, and J. C. Williams.

GODFREY, LUXON ON PANEL

James L. Godfrey, professor of English history at the University, will serve on a panel which will criticize 25 newspapers in a "Consumers' Critique of Editorial Pages" at the National Conference of Editorial Writers meeting at the Grove Park Inn in Asheville, Wednesday. Norval Neil Luxon, Dean of the School of Journalism, will moderate the panel.

Three Items

Three items in Thursday's issue of the News Leader—the story of James Street's death, a reference in the editor's column about prices in Chapel Hill, and the running of an out-of-town competitive advertisement in the paper—have stirred up quite a controversy in the community. The News Leader's stand on these issues is given in a special comment on page four.

COURT RITES HELD TODAY—Bonner D. Sawyer of Hillsboro, President of the Orange County Bar Association, stood behind the judge's bench in the spacious courtroom of the new county courthouse, at 10:15 this morning, to begin the day's formal ceremonies for the opening of the courthouse. About 100 persons were on hand for the occasion, which culminated in ceremonies at the courthouse this afternoon. Above, the bar area of the courtroom is shown as seen through the window from the second floor hall of the courthouse.
