Students Swarm Downtown Stores

Hundreds of new students at the University swarmed over the downtown area of Chapel Hill on Tuesday afternoon for the Merchants Association's official welcome to them.

Twenty-five of them returned to the campus richer by from one to 10 dollars apiece for having deciphered the scramble-word sentence, "Chapel Hill Welcomes UNC Students," as posted letter-by-letter in Franklin Street stores. It was estimated by Joe Robbins, Chairman of the Association's Trade Promotions Committee which staged the welcome, that well over 1,000 new students turned out for the occasion.

They were welcomed in most business establishments by the giving out of souvenirs. At J. B. Robbins and University Florist they were treated to refreshments and both theaters offered free admission to the new students.

At a booth on the main corner downtown they were given the Merchants Association's official map of the community, local newspapers, a shopping bag from Belk-Leggett-Horton, and the entry blank for the cash prize contest. The letters for the works in the key sentence, were scattered in the show windows of the 29 stores designated on the blanks.

By mid-afternoon the $44 in cash prizes had been given out to 25 students who filled in the blanks with the right missing words, and about 30 more brought in correctly-filled-out forms still later. Object of the contest, of course, was to acquaint the new arrivals with the stores of the town.

Top prize winners in the contest were as follows: Strud Nash, 351 Cobb Dormitory, first prize, $10; Robert Walker, 24 Old East, second prize, $5; Marlynn Hill, Nurses Dormitory, third prize, $4; Walter W. Wilson Jr., 223 Cobb, fourth prize, $3; and Tommy Alexander, 223 Cobb, fifth prize, $2.

Glen Lennox Area To Have New Cub Pack

The organization of a Cub Scout pack in the Glen Lennox neighborhood was approved at a meeting of Cub Scout leads for a round table discussion on Tuesday evening.

Herb Holland, chairman of the session, said that a complete re-organization of the four packs now functioning in the community would be made in order to start up the new Glen Lennox group. This will be done on the basis of a survey of all boys of Scout age to be made by the Jaycoes next month, he said. The Glen Lennox Methodist Church will sponsor the new pack.

District Scout Executive Rip Collins announced that the Gold Rush would be held on October 8, much on the order of last year's initial one of these events. He also announced that plans were already under way for re-organization of an Explorer Scout group here.

'Adventures' Planned By Playmakers Friday

Samuel Selden, Director of the Carolina Playmakers and Chairman of the University's Department of Dramatic Art, has announced the annual "Adventures in Playmaking" program, tomorrow evening at 7:30, in the Playmakers Theatre.

Students and community members interested in theatre are invited to attend the illustrated lecture on the history of the department and the Playmakers, and to meet with the staff to discuss the coming season. The invitation is extended not only to those who plan to participate directly, but also to those who are interested in learning about the activities of the University theatre here.
