AAUW Hears Warner Wells

"I see the book, Hiroshima Diary, in three and possibly four dimensions," Dr. Warner Wells told the Chapel Hill Branch of the American Association of University Women at their meeting in the Morehead Planetarium Faculty Lounge on Tuesday evening. "It is much more than the story of one man's experiences."

Dr. Wells, who is the translator of the Diary and now a member of the staff of the UNC Hospital, went on to tell his reasons for going to Japan and his experiences and thoughts while in that country.

Concerning the use of the bomb, Dr. Wells thought the American people should not burden themselves with a feeling of guilt. "Instead," he said, "be thankful you are here tonight, for if either Japan or Germany had had the bomb, they would have dropped it on us. But," he told the group, "we must realize that we have reached the point of no return in international relations. Unless a peaceful solution without resort to armed force is found, we face extinction."

Mrs. Francis Gray Patton, author of Good Morning, Miss Dove and many other stories, introduced Dr. Wells to the group. She praised the simplicity and beauty of the translation of the Diary and the fact that Dr. Wells was able to preserve a subtle flavor of Oriental thought and speech.

Mrs. I. T. Littleton, Vice-President of AAUW, announced that Mrs. Earl Wynn will serve as president of the group during the coming year, filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. John Skretting who has moved from Chapel Hill.
