

Paper Wants Gray To Return Or Quit

The News and Observer, influential Raleigh newspaper, yesterday called upon Consolidated University President Gordon Gray to "return promptly or resign promptly."

The newspaper, in its lead editorial, said:

"... at a time of almost unequalled crisis in education in North Carolina the state is denied the active and articulate leadership of a president of its greatest educational institution."

The editorial concerned the situation of the Consolidated University, the president of which is now on leave of absence serving as Assistant Defense Secretary. "President Gray should return promptly or resign promptly," said The News and Observer.

"There should be no need for the executive committee of the trustees of the Consolidated University to put on the agenda for its November meeting a review of the status of President Gordon Gray," according to the editorial. "Mr. Gray has been gone since June. The University has had no leader with the full position and prestige of president since that time. Neither Mr. Gray nor the executive committee should require more time to 'review' such a situation."

"Gordon Gray should choose by his return or his replacement North Carolina should have an active head of its greatest educational endeavor when it needs it most," concluded the newspaper.

Commissioners To Meet Mon.

The Board of County Commissioners will meet Monday night at 7:30 o'clock to study the new job classification and salary scale originally presented at last week's meeting by Donald Hayman of the Institute of Government at the Board's request.

The study sets up a civil service type of system for the county government, including analyses and salary scales for each job category. All employees of the county are included with the exception of elective officials, department heads, and employees of the Extension Service, the Welfare and Health departments who are already under the State Merit system.

Half-Holiday Declared In Schools For Fair

Orange County schools will suspend classes at noon on Friday, October 21, to permit children to attend the North Carolina State Fair in Raleigh.

An effort is being made to coordinate Fair activity of all the schools and Superintendent G. Paul Carr said he hopes all parents will cooperate with this plan in order that students may not be out of schools at widely varying times. Tickets are available for all children who wish to go on this assigned day, he said.

Panty Raid

The first panty raid of the 1955-56 year took place last night, as a group of boys gathered at 12:15 a.m. in the Lower Quad, making noise highlighted by the playing of a trumpet. The group gathered in size and went to the court in front of McIver Dorm where it stayed five minutes. Then it went to Carr Dorm in a group of about 400 and remained there for 15 minutes. The raid ended up on the intersection of Cameron Ave., and Raleigh Rd., where the students began to disperse, partly due to police coercion at Carr, and to the need of sleep. No arrests were made.

ASC Election Set Tuesday

Farmers in each of Orange County's seven townships will go to their township polling places next Tuesday to elect representatives to direct the ASC program in the county next year.

Committees will be elected in each township from a group of 10 nominees already announced.

The polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

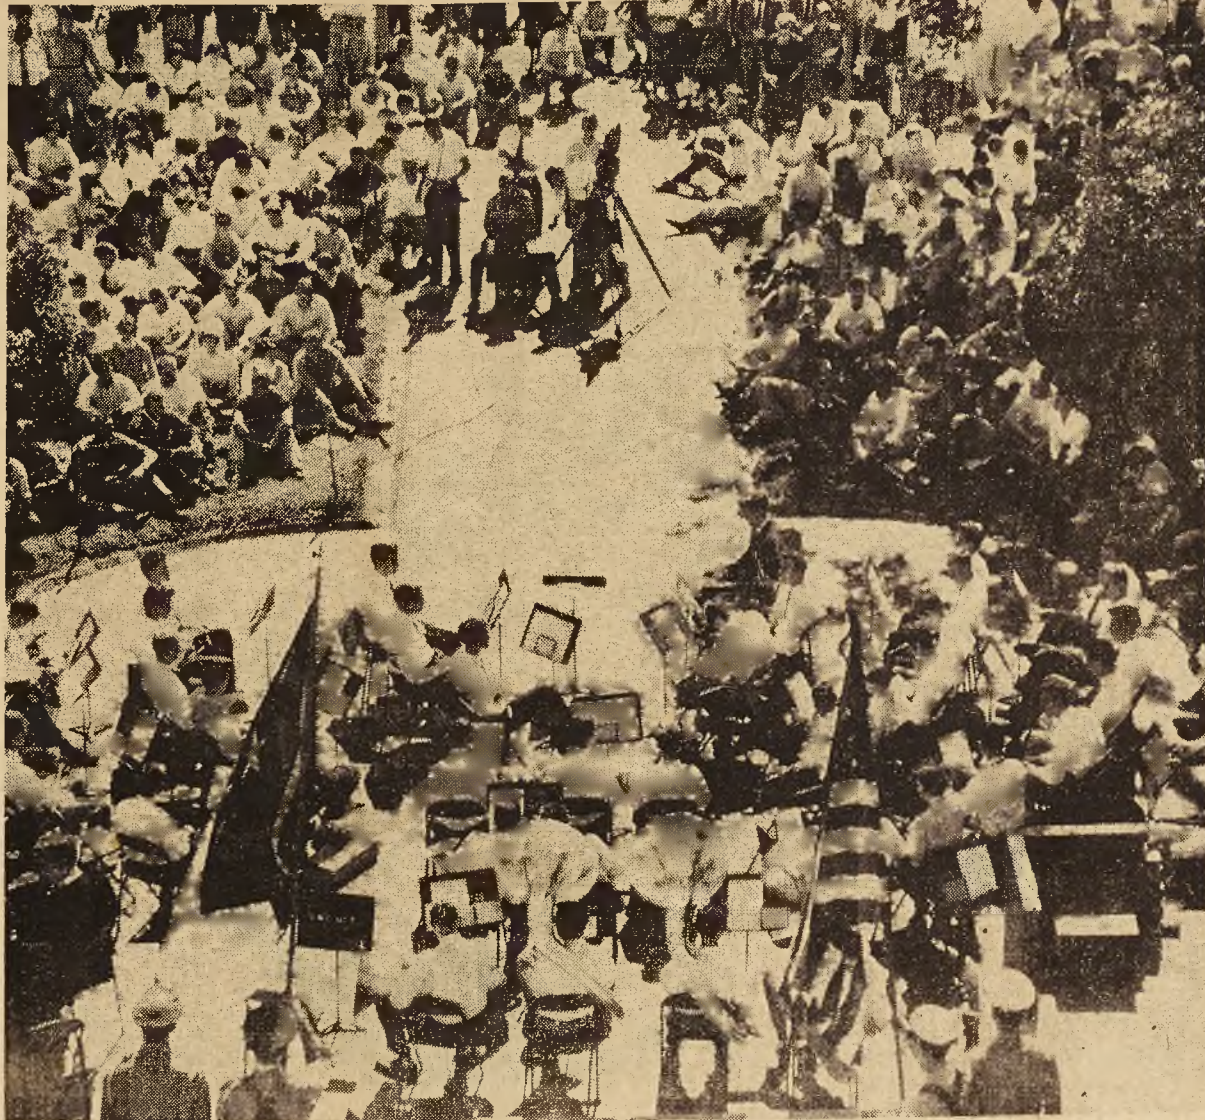

McAdams urges all eligible voters to go to the polls and cast their ballot for the men they want on the local committee to represent their community and make vital decisions that will affect the entire community.

"The ASC program is administered by farmers, it is a farmer-run organization," McAdams stated. The responsibility for running the ASC Program more or less is placed upon the farmers."

Polling Places

Polling places will be as follows for each township:

Hillsboro, ASC office, Agricultural Building; Eno, Mick Hill's Service Station, on the St. Mary's Road; Little River, Murray's Store; Cedar Grove, Chandler's Store; Cheeks, Forrest and Forrest, Eiland; Bingham, Whitfield Store at White Cross; Chapel Hill, Farmer's Exchange at Carrboro.

This was the scene from the top of the South Building yesterday as students, faculty members, administration officers and alumni met briefly at the administration building's steps to celebrate UNC's 162nd birthday. After South Building ceremonies and songs, the group moved to Davie Poplar for benediction and "Hark The Sound." (Henley Photo)

University Celebrates Anniversary

"Chapel Hill — this center of knowledge and culture, this home to seekers of learning of all nations, is a vastly different place from the same spot of 1793."

Those were the words of Peter O'Sullivan at yesterday's exercises commemorating the 162nd anniversary of the first state University in the country.

O'Sullivan, a member of the Carolina Playmakers and narrator, told the story of the cornerstone laying scene, which was re-enacted in pantomime and costumes before an assembly of faculty, administrative officials, students, alumni and townspeople.

The ceremonies, held in front of South Building, began with a musical program by the University Band, under the direction of Herbert Fred.

In the cornerstone laying scene Carl Williams of Charlotte took the part of Gen. William R. Davie, who laid the cornerstone in the actual ceremony.

June Eschweiler, graduate assistant in the Dept. of Drama, directed the pageant.

Chancellor Robert B. House was master of ceremonies and led the responsive reading. Dr. Samuel T. Habel, pastor of the Baptist Church of Chapel Hill, gave the invocation.

A minute of silence in honor of the University alumni who have died during the year was followed by "Integer Vitae" sung by the Men's Glee Club, directed by Dr. Joel Carter.

A color guard, composed of cadets of the Air Force and Navy ROTC units, led the assembly the Davie Poplar for the benediction and closing song, "Hark the Sound."

Entertainment Event Planned At New Hope

The New Hope Advisory Board met last week and planned a very interesting and entertaining program for their second community meeting in the Farm and Home Efficiency Program. This event will be held on Wednesday, October 26, and will get under way with a fishing rodeo for children under high school age to be held at the fishing lake at Camp beginning at 4:30 p. m. Suitable prizes will be given to the youngest catching the biggest fish, the smallest fish, and the most fish.

Following the rodeo, a Brunswick Stew supper will be served at the Camp Dining Hall at a small charge. The general public is invited.

After supper, representatives from the Wildlife Resources Commission will present a very interesting program of wildlife conservation. At the conclusion of the program, farm families will be invited to participate in this program by posting "Hunting By Permission Only" signs, and the seeding of protective cover for game, etc.

William James Battle, 84 Passes Away

William James Battle, of Chapel Hill and Texas, uncle of Mrs. Nell Battle Booker, died in Parkview Hospital at Rocky Mount Saturday morning at the age of 84.

He was for many years professor of Classical languages at the University of Texas and was once its acting president. He was the youngest son of Dr. Kemp Plummer Battle, who was president of the University here after the Civil War.

Dr. Battle was born in 1870, but lived in Chapel Hill during his youth. He spent the rest of his life at "Senlac." He received his Ph.D. from UNC at the age of 23. He spent three years at the University of Texas and three years at the University of Cincinnati. He was largely instrumental in building the University into a major institution.
