Break-Ins And Theft Of Exam Papers From University Offices Is Charged

A Durham man has been charged with stealing student examination papers from two instructors' offices in the University Political Science Department.

Herbert Gattis Andrews Jr., 36, was bound over for Superior Court trial following a preliminary hearing here Thursday morning before Justice of the Peace John A. Cates. A bill of indictment from the grand jury will be sought against the defendant on three felony charges, in which Andrews has posted $7,500 bond.

Caldwell Break-In Charged
Warrants signed by State Bureau of Investigation Agent Jack Thomas charge that Andrews broke into the Caldwell Hall offices of Gordon Cleveland and Carl C. Moses, UNC political science instructors, and "did take, steal, and carry away and convert to his own personal use examination papers, said papers being the property of the University of North Carolina, and in the custody of Professors Gordon Cleveland and Carl C. Moses."

Another warrant charges that Andrews, on August 2, broke into the office of Dean of Student Affairs Fred Weaver and Director of Student Activities Sam Magill, 206 South Building, in which office were confidential files in the custody of these two persons.

A bond of $2,500 for each of the three offenses was signed by the defendant's father, H. G. Andrews Sr., of Durham. Mack P. Icenhour of Durham rising senior at the University, is listed as a witness in the cases and was ordered to post a bond of $500. This bond was signed by Dean Weaver. Messrs. Cleveland and Moses were also listed as witnesses in the cases.

UNC Sought SBI
SBI Director James W. Powell said in Raleigh that his agency was requested to enter the case by University officials. Gattis was arrested on August 9.

According to Mr. Powell conviction on the charges could bring sentences of up to 10 years. They concern "the taking of examination papers and question . . . in violation of Sec. 14-401 of the General Statutes," the SBI chief said.

Sommerfield Named At UNC

Roy Elmer Sommerfield has been appointed as Assistant Professor of Education in the Extension Division of the University.

He will take up on Sept. 1 his duties which include travelling throughout the state to instruct-UNC extends on classes in education for teacher in need of the courses. He will also teach at the UNC School of Education.

Prof. Sommerfield comes from Oklahoma A. and M. College where he has served for the last four years as an associate and assistant professor.

Between 1937 and 1952, he taught at different schools in Michigan. He is married and has three children.

Roof Fire At 'Pines' Quickly Extinguished

A roof fire at The Pines Restaurant was quickly extinguished by the Chapel Hill Fire Department early Thursday afternoon.

A general alarm was sounded on the blaze, which was noticed about 2 p.m. Fire Chief J. S. Boone said the flames stemmed from the flue leading to a charcoal grill. This had become overheated and had ignited the roof, he suggested. About $100 damage was caused.

Democratic Convention Digest —Cooling Off After Chicago

By PHILLIPS RUSSELL

Three institutions through which the American people like to express themselves are football, circuses, and political conventions. The circus as demonstrated by Barnum and Bailey seems on its way out, but football and nominating conventions are still potent. Both demand much yelling, intricate organization, and mass emotion.

Santayana, the Spanish-born philosopher who taught at Harvard, thought American football was unique. So is a national convention of the sort just held by the Democrats at Chicago.

'Otherwise Sane People'
It was a circus, a football game, and a fever. Thousands of otherwise sane people seemed happy to stand around hotel lobbies until their back legs were numb, and talk, talk, talk.

Could any other country in the world furnish a spectacle like that at the Conrad Hilton, where both Stevenson and Harriman had their headquarters? Floor after floor of excited people pushing through each other amid a welter of signs, slogans, buttons, banners, candidates' photos, elevators and free drinks.

The overwhelming lavishness of it, the wastefulness of it, and the enjoyable disorder of it all, must have struck any visitor from Indonesia as something not to be comprehended.

Bragged on Troubles

People bragged about not being able to get an elevator for 20 minutes. They bragged about not getting any sleep. They bragged about having to wait for food. They exulted in being assaulted, ignored, gouged, and trodden upon. They were happy in being subjected to pain, shortage, annoyance, and uproar.

Affairs at the convention hall were the least interesting part of the show. Picturesque elements were few. Only the Arizona delegation wore a distinctive head-gear—gilded Sombreros which in a subdued light looked pink. Only the Southerners did any consistent yelling. One listened in vain for a note of fervor, a streak of evangelism. American love of organization triumphs over its own enthusiasms.

Governor Hodges' seconding speech was so carefully prepared and smoothly delivered that it didn't fetch a single clap or war-whoop. The Democrats' lack of a compelling issue is likely to show itself in the campaign. People do not vote their convictions so much as they do their resentments.

Older Politicians Fallen

The convention itself might have seemed dull except for the gripping race at the close between Kefauver and Kennedy. It's evident that the older politicians who have for so long dominated the Democratic party have fallen to the rear. Younger men are taking over, and they want more action and more progress toward definite goals.

I was struck with the vigor and drive shown by the California delegation, which was on the same floor and only two doors from the North Carolina headquarters. They were mostly young men who want to see the Democratic party show more vitality. They want to see government pay more attention to Asia and less to Europe. They are willing to make room for peoples hitherto weak and submerged. They want to keep step with an evolving world.

It was a general feeling that in Stevenson and Kefauver the Democrats have named a strong ticket—one much superior to the one the Republicans seem about to choose. We are going to need all the intelligence and energy we can command to cope with a world which is under the sway of new concepts.

Dollar Days—'Great Promotion'

The Summer Dollar Days sales promotion in Chapel Hill and Carrboro this past weekend attracted bargain-hunting customers from throughout the Chapel Hill trading area and seemed to please both businessmen and shoppers.

Moyle Johnson, Chairman of the Merchants Association - sponsored event, said this morning he felt it was "quite successful" and noted that shoppers now "seem to feel that our merchants are getting more promotions conscious. He noted the comment of one woman customer during Dollar Days—"Now we don't have to go to Durham for the sales any more."

Carlton Byrd, manager of Bell Leggett-Horton, was particularly pleased with an "extra" he tagged on the promotion on Saturday morning. He purchased a load of over 100 watermelons from Jerome Thompson, local farmer, and sold them at the cut-rate price of four for a dollar. "People snapped 'em right up after we unloaded them on the sidewalk," said Mr. Byrd.

Hunting Laws Cited For Doves And Rails

Orange County Game Protector Bob Logan calls the attention of local sportsmen to the following regulations in connection with the forthcoming opening of the hunting season for doves and rails.

The first half of the dove season will be from September 10 through October 5, and the second half, from December 14 through January 10. The bag limit is eight per day, the possession limit, eight, and shooting hours, from noon until sunset daily.

The season for rails will open September 1 and extend through Nov. 9, the bag limit being 10 per day and the possession limit, 20. Shooting hours will be from 30 minutes before sunrise through sunset.

Slifkin Heads Two Projects

A U.N.C. physicist is directing two government research projects involving properties of and atomic movements in certain metals.

The research, directed by Lawrence Slifkin, assistant professor in the Physics Department, is being conducted under separate contracts from the Atomic Energy Commission and the Office of Ordnance Research.

The AEC contract was awarded for the study of atoms. Under the contract, Mr. Slifkin and graduate students working under him are using radioactive tracers to study the movement of atoms in solid metal. He explained that atoms in zinc and lead jump about at the rate of about 100 times a second at room temperature. At temperatures just below the melting point, he said, they move at about one million times a second. Instruments similar to geiger counters are being used to study the atoms.

The OOR contract was granted for research in to the properties of silver chloride. This compound, Dr. Slifkin said, possesses many of the properties of metal, but at the same time is transparent. For this reason, researchers can project light through silver chloride.

Three Resign Teaching Posts

Three resignations in the University Division of Health Affairs were announced yesterday.

Dr. Paul W. Vinton, professor and head, Department of Prosthodontics, School of Dentistry, whose resignation takes effect Sept. 1. He will accept a position with Seton Hall University College of Dentistry.

Associate Professor Geraldine Gourley of the School of Public Health will resign Sept. 15 to accept a position as medical social consultant with the United States Children's Bureau at Dallas, Texas.

Dr. William E. Loring, assistant professor, Department of Pathology, School of Medicine, resigned Aug. 18 to become assistant professor of pathology in the New York University School of Medicine.

Strongest Possible Ticket Chosen By Party: McClamroch

"The strongest possible ticket" was nominated by the Democrats at their convention in Chicago this past week, in the opinion of Roland McClamroch of Chapel Hill, an official delegate to the sessions.

He and Mrs. McClamroch returned home last night after getting off the delegates' special train at Greensboro. Mrs. McClamroch watched most of the convention from the vantage point of a TV set at the Hotel Morrison because of the extraordinarily strong TV floodlights which brought on severe eyestrain to spectators at the convention hall.

North Carolina made an excellent impression at the convention, in the opinion of the local delegate. He cited the fact that Gov. Hodges was selected to second Adlai Stevenson's nomination as proof of this. Concerning the vice-presidential nomination Mr. McClamroch expressed the opinion that favorites, rather than issues, were more involved in the Tar Heel delegation's split vote support of Sen. Kennedy—for whom Mr. McClamroch also voted.

On the social calendar during the week Mrs. McClamroch attended a luncheon for delegates' wives given at the Morrison Hotel on Wednesday by Mrs. Thomas Pear-

Charlotte Degree Team To Give Masons' Rites

A degree team from Excelsior Lodge No. 261 AF & AM of Charlotte will confer the Master Mason degree for Durham Lodge No. 352 AF and AM this Saturday, at 7 p.m.

The Masonic session, which is expected to attract over 300 Masons from the Durham area, will be held in the Durham High School Gymnasium, Charles M. Thompson, Master, announced.

Recognized throughout the three-state area of the Carolinas and Virginia for its dramatization of the third Masonic degree, the Charlotte team is scheduled to confer the degree on four candidates. In addition to the large number of Masons expected for the meeting, a number of officials from the Grand Lodge of North Carolina are also expected to attend.

over the state, the Association was founded about five years ago and is affiliated with the National Paraplegic Foundation. One of its principal projects at present is the encouraging of installation of facilities for handicapped persons in school, college, and public buildings.

Reuben Hill To Speak At Amsterdam Meeting

Reuben Hill, University sociology professor, will deliver a paper to the World Congress of Sociology at Amsterdam next Friday. His paper will be entitled "Family Patterns in the Changing South."

He has been in Europe since June, exploring the family research centers there.

Prof. Hill has been based in Paris and Brussels. His summer assignment is the first part of a long term international study of the interrelations of authority patterns and family stability.

He is now participating in the UNESCO Seminar on Family Research at Cologne. In early September, he will also take part in the meetings of the International Union of Family Organizations at the Hague.

Racing On Durham Boulevard Charged Against Two Drivers

Charges of racing and speeding on the new dual-lane Durham-Chapel Hill boulevard have been brought against two drivers by the State Highway Patrol.

Arrested in the Friday night incident by Highway Patrolmen E. R. Kirby and Tom Winborne were Mrs. Pearlina Burnett Nickerson, 36, of Chapel Hill, and William Junior Parker, 18, of Durham. The patrolmen said they were parked along the highway near the Durham County line about 1:30 a.m. Saturday when the two cars passed them traveling abreast headed for Chapel Hill. The officers gave chase to the speeding vehicles each in his own patrol car and stopped them just after they had taken separate routes at the bypass intersection east of Chapel Hill. According to the arresting patrolmen Mrs. Nickerson's daughter was a passenger in the Parker's auto.

Each driver was charged with racing on the public highways and speeding 80 miles an hour. The defendants, booked for trial in Chapel Hill Recorder's Court, reportedly denied having been racing.

Cox Leads N. C. Jaycees Meet

Bob Cox of Chapel Hill presided over his first regular quarterly convention of the State Jaycees since his election as President of the organization at the group's meeting at Guilford College this past weekend.

During a business session yesterday morning the convention heard State Attorney General W. B. Rodman speak on the Pearl Plan for maintenance of the public schools and afterwards voted to go on record in support of the amendments to be presented to the voters of North Carolina in the September 8 referendum.

Local Jaycees attending the meeting, at which about 250 young men and their wives from all over the state were present, were Mr. and Mrs. Sandy McClamroch, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Culberson, Mr. and Mrs. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Monk Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Phillips, and local President Walt Baucom.

Mr. Phillips was the luckiest of the local group attending the meeting in winning a beautiful coffee table as a door prize on Saturday night.

Four New Members Inducted Into Club

Four new members were inducted into the Chapel Hill Jaycees on Thursday evening, bringing the group's membership to 99.

Bill Alexander welcomed into the Club Jim Roberts of Harris-Conner's Chevrolet, Inc., sponsored by Fred Abernethy; Bill Stanford, local farmer, sponsored by Donald Stanford; Dick Spivey, UNC student, sponsored by John Cates; and Jim Drake of Chapel Hill Tire Co., sponsored by Bruce Martindale.

For the evening's entertainment Program Chairman Oliver Watkins introduced Billy Arthur who gave a humorous talk. Social Chairman Earl Blackburn announced plans to have a family picnic outing for the club on September 12 in place of the first regular September meeting.

The group also voted to give a $25 donation to the N. C. Symphony Society. Leonard Hampton reported on plans for the weekend's state Jaycees meeting in Guilford County. The resignations of Chick Ehmgig and Lindy Sparrow, both of whom are moving to Florida, were announced.

Nine Exchangeites Attend Convention

Nine members of the Chapel Hill Exchange Club attended the annual state convention of Exchange Clubs this past weekend at the O. Henry Hotel in Greensboro.

Official delegates from Chapel Hill were Pat Pope and C. M. Carroll. Others present were Club President and Mrs. Herb Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Coy E. Durham, Dr. and Mrs. Duncan Getsinger Mr. and Mrs. H. Mac Vandivier, Wallace Williams, and Bill Tyler.

The convention passed a motion urging support of the constitutional amendment on public schools to be voted upon in the Sept. 8 election.
