CRIME PREVENTION PROCLAMATION—In the presence of Chapel Hill Exchange Clubbers Roy Cole (left) and Coy Durham (right), Chapel Hill Mayor O. K. Cornwell signs an official proclamation denoting next week, Feb. 9-15, as Crime Prevention Week in the municipality, in cooperation with the Exchangeites' nation-wide crime prevention week observance.

New, Larger Community Map Ready

A newly-revised and enlarged map of the entire community is now available for public distribution through the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants Association.

An initial printing of 15,000 copies of the new map was ready today according to Association Secretary Mrs. Jane Whitefield. It was revised by Engineer John Gove from his original map of four years ago.

Newcomers to the community will receive a free copy of the map through greeters services and individual copies will also be distributed as in the past by the Association's member merchants. The Town of Chapel Hill, University Service Plants, and Carolina Inn have each bought 1,000 copies.

SEN. HUMPHREY TO SPEAK

Senator Hubert Humphrey will make a public address on "Mutual Understanding, a Challenge to America" Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Hill Hall at the opening meeting of the eighth annual World Affairs Conference.

Golden Rule Contest Deadline Is Saturday

Chapel Hill and Carrboro school children are reminded today that their essays for the "Golden Rule" Contest must be mailed to Box 749, Chapel Hill, prior to Feb. 16—next Sunday.

Harvey Carnes, pastor of the United Congregational Christian Church, also announced that judges for the Contest will be Mrs. A. C. Howell, Chairman; John Manley, pastor of the First Baptist Church; Miss Sarah Virgo, of the Social Service Department at Memorial Hospital; and Peter G. Phialas, Assistant Professor in the UNC English Department.

'Petites Dramatiques' To Offer T. S. Eliot's 'Cocktail Party'

"The Cocktail Party" by T. S. Eliot will be presented in the "Petites Dramatiques" series at the University next Sunday and Monday nights.

Both performances will begin at 8 p.m. in the main lounge of Graham Memorial Student Union. The public is invited without charge.

The leading roles will be played by Peter Sinclair, economics instructor at UNC; Betty Rhodes, a junior from Kinston; and Russell Link, a senior from Jamaica, N. Y. Mrs. Sinclair's wife, Betty, who was formerly with the Montreal Repertory Company, will be in the cast as will three other graduate students; Sam Baker, Greensboro; Dorothy Walters, Warrenton; and Ben Clymer, Wilmington, Del.

All cast members have appeared in Carolina Playmaker productions or previous "Petites Dramatiques."

Chapel Hill Baptists Note Boy Scout Week

Troop 826 of the Chapel Hill Baptist Church initiated Boy Scout Week yesterday with special ceremonies during the church worship services.

The Rev. Samuel T. Habel gave recognition to the troop and singled out five adults for their work in remodeling the church's Scout Hut. These men were Max Weaver, Julian Caston, Harvey Bennett, Watts Scott, and Bill Ballenger.

Charles Lloyd was advanced to the rank of First Class Scout and Mike Fox and Dennis Andrews brought in as Tenderfoots.

William Pullen Gets Fellowship

A University faculty member has been chosen to receive one of eight $2000 fellowships for advanced study in the Graduate School of Library Science at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N. J. The money is to be provided by the Carnegie Foundation.

William R. Pullen, Assistant Librarian for Technical Processes at the Wilson Library with the rank of Associate Professor of Political Science, will participate in the combined seminar and internship program for carefully selected men and women in administrative positions of senior rank in large university libraries.

The seminar to be taught by Prof. Keys D. Metcalf of Rutgers, former librarian at Harvard, will begin in March and continue through May of this year.

Official rules and entry blanks for the Contest may be obtained from Mrs. Mary Jane Mahn, Old Mill Road. Open to all Chapel Hill and Carrboro children in grades four through 12, the Contest offers a $5 prize to one winner in each grade.

The subject of the essay is: "The Meaning of the Golden Rule in My Community." Entries should be no more than 300 words, and will be judged on the basis of originality, sincerity and neatness. At the top of the first page of each essay, the child should print his name, address, school, and grade. Winners will be announced on March 3.

Jamerson Sets Record Though Swim Team Loses

In the Myers Park meet, which Myers Park won 57-26, the following Chapel Hill points were scored: Jamerson—first in 200-freestyle and 150-medley; Stapleton, second in 100 butterfly; Alexander, second in 100 breaststroke; Chapin, third in 100 freestyle; Foster, third in 100 backstroke; Butler, third in 50 freestyle; and Stapleton, Butler, Alexander, and Straughn, first in 200-medley relay.

With Ben Crutchfield, star sprinter, out with an infected ear, Coach John Edwards' Chapel Hill High swimmers turned in their best performance of the year here Saturday in losing to the Richmond Y team 44-37. Going into the final events the teams were tied at 37-37. Richmond took the 200 relay to win the meet.

Last Wednesday the locals also lost to Myers Park there.

On Saturday Jimmy Jamerson led Chapel Hill with two firsts, breaking the North Carolina High School record in the 200 freestyle with the fine time of 2:05.7. This bettered the State record of 2:06.2 and Jamerson's Chapel Hill High record of 2:07.2. Jamerson also won the 150 individual medley relay in 1:46.5.

Other Chapel Hill firsts were scored by Ed Kenney in the 100 backstroke in 1:13.3 and the 200-yard medley relay team of Ed Kenney, Barbee Alexander, Terry Stapleton and Tommy Butler, with the last two overcoming a 15-foot Richmond lead to win in 2:04.5.

Tommy Butler took second in the 100 breaststroke, Terry Stapleton second in the 100 butterfly, Stuart Chapin second in the 100 freestyle, Skip Foster third in the 100 backstroke and 150 individual medley and Billy Goodrich third in the 100 freestyle for other Chapel Hill points.

Home Ec Facilities--'Desperate Need'

High School home economics teacher Mrs. Jane Price—whose pupils must often wear coat and gloves to stay warm during their class instruction periods—has declared that new homemaking department facilities at Chapel Hill High School are "a desperate need."

Her report was graphically emphasized in noting that the early morning classroom temperatures currently dips to about 55 degrees, coal dust from an open fireplace flecks sewing work, and the age of the building makes it difficult to control mice and silverfish.

This proposed construction is one of the final items of capital improvements tentatively scheduled for completion through bond funds approved in a county-wide issue year before last. School Board members expect to consider this project as soon as a contract is let for construction of a new high school cafeteria—likely in the near future.

A Question: A question to be decided is whether the new facilities will be in remodeled rooms of the existing school buildings or in an all-new building. A recommendation from state officials on this is now being awaited.

Mrs. Price submitted her statements on the alarming situation now in existence in her department in a report recently sent to all members of the local School Board. It showed that the scope of home economics instruction has had to be continually decreased while the courses have grown in popularity, all because of the badly outmoded—and in some cases dangerous—facilities now in use. The classes are now taught in a remodeled frame dwelling at least 35 years old.

By way of introducing her factual report Mrs. Price stated "The program is in great danger unless some relief is given in the very near future. We have waited patiently during the rebuilding program of the last few years. We certainly needed a gymnasium and no one realized any more than I do how desperately we need a new cafeteria."

'Next Biggest Need' "With the money which is now available I am of the firm conviction that a new homemaking department with adequate laboratory classrooms is the next biggest need." Earlier this year it was estimated that about $100,000 to $120,000 might be available for this purpose, depending on the final costs of some other projects.

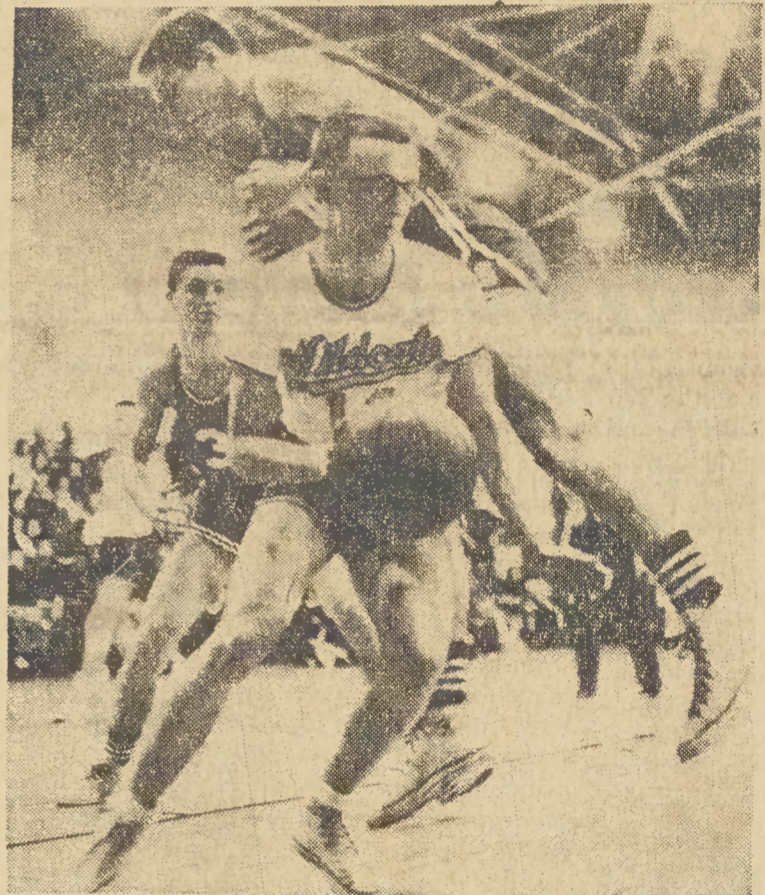

The teacher's report declared that "as to curriculum we are steadily going backwards," noting that lack of space and teacher capacity forced the dropping of the third-year home economics course this year. If present conditions continue, she declared, the second-year course will have to be dropped in another year or

PTSA Plans Panel Program About Testing

"Testing, Counseling and Guidance" will be discussed by a panel of experts at the meeting of the Chapel Hill High and Junior High School Parent-Teacher-Student Association which will be held on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Carrboro School Auditorium. The topic is one in which PTSA members expressed great interest in a poll on proposed program subjects.

The panel will consist of William D. Perry and Paul Irvine of the U.N.C. School of Education, Ella Stephens Barrett of the N. C. Department of Public Instruction, and Joseph M. Johnston, Principal of Chapel Hill High School and Associate Superintendent of Chapel Hill schools. The moderator will be James E. Wadsworth, U. N. C. Housing Officer and PTSA Program Chairman.

All parents of Carrboro, White Cross, and Chapel Hill high school students are urged to attend, with no home work to be assigned students for the following day. Junior High students and their parents also are invited, while parents of Carrboro Elementary School students are invited as guests.

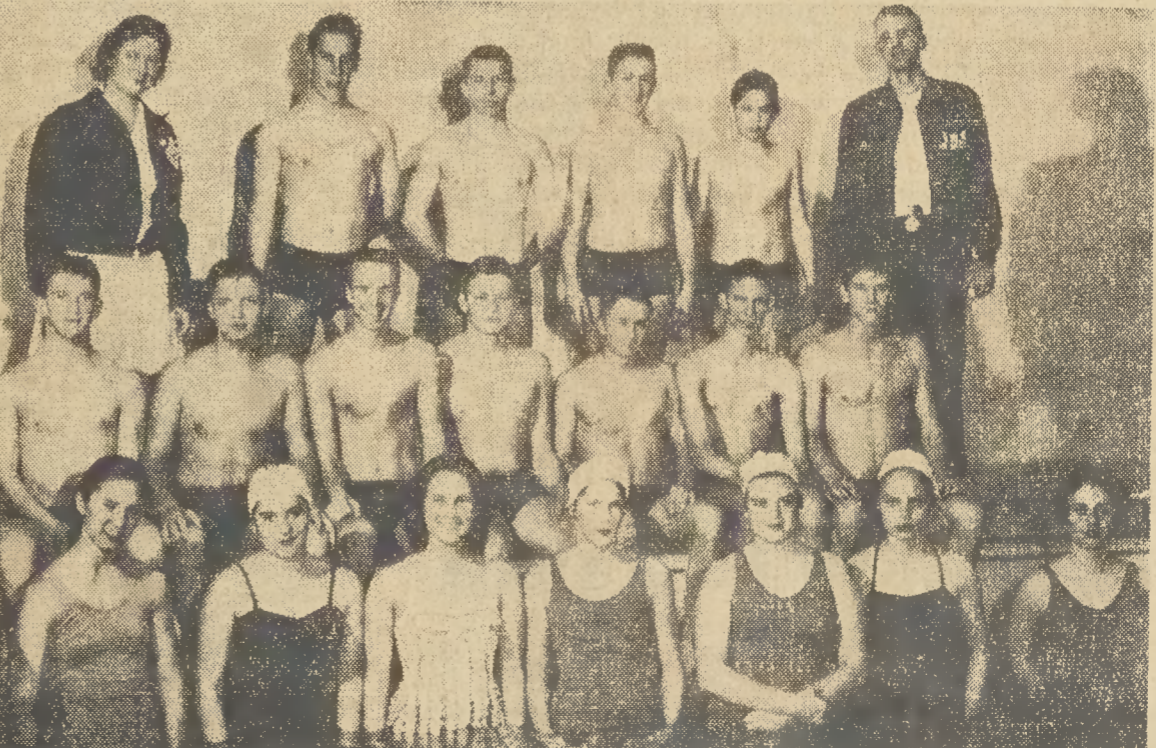

OVER THE TOP—Chapel Hill High School's David Henry swings around quickly while a Southern High School player seems to be missing him in a top-side leap during Friday night's Southern Wildcats game here. The visitors won a close one, 53-50.

White Cross Body For Merger

The White Cross District School Committee has gone on record unanimously as favoring a vote on the proposition of that District joining the Chapel Hill City Administrative Unit.

The action came last Saturday night at a meeting in Hillsboro with the Orange County Board of Education.

No action has been taken on the proposal by the County Board, which has before it a 341-name petition from group of Carrboro citizens agitating for such an election and a divided Carrboro District Committee whose majority strongly opposes annexation.

Next Move The County Board's next move probably will be to confer with the Chapel Hill Board of Trustees to secure its official attitude as a matter of record, a move largely perfunctory on this particular point inasmuch as the City Board is known to favor the move.

However, there are a number of "ifs" which would present themselves should an annexation vote fail to carry, and the County Board in all likelihood may want to settle some of them before an election is called. No time for this meeting has been set.

The motion to ask the County Board to call for an election was offered by C. P. Jones, seconded by Edmond Strowd and voted unanimously by the Committee which in addition includes Bernard Durham.

Members of the committee did not indicate they thought a majority of the White Cross District voters would vote in favor of entering the Special Tax District.
