Merchants Express Optimism On Trade Promotion Fund Drive

Members of the Merchants Association Trade Promotions Committee are this week winding up their fund campaign to finance eight different sales events during the coming year.

Committee Co-Chairman Carlton Byrd said that most of the contributions and pledges had been received, but that a few solicitors were still completing their rounds. In all he expected there would be over 100 business contributors, each making pledges of from $12 up to $175 for the current year's program. About $4,000 has been budgeted for the financing of these events. Mr. Byrd said he felt certain that this goal would be successfully reached.

In making the solicitation the Committee and the Association's Board of Directors was divided into two teams—one headed by Monk Jennings and the other by Joe Augustine. Mr. Augustine's team, in gaining the highest total of pledges for the third successive year, is to be treated to a steak dinner, tentatively set for March 10, at the expense of the losing team.

30 Now In New Methodist Body; Formation Set Easter Sunday

The Rev. A. Mickey Fisher, pastor of the newly-organized North Chapel Hill Methodist Church, has announced that Easter Sunday, April 6, has been named as the official organization day for the church.

The first services of the new church were held last Sunday in the basement of the parsonage at 18 William Circle. "In spite of the snow and extremely cold weather," the Rev. Mr. Fisher said, "we had a very good group." He added that the congregation now has 30 members.

Church members completed renovations in the parsonage basement before last Sunday and have finished installing pews and a pulpit. A piano has been secured, also.

No church officials will be elected until the organizational meeting Easter Sunday. J. Floyd Ammons has been appointed church treasurer until that time. "We hope to have our Sunday School and Women's Society of Christian Service organized some time in March," the Rev. Mr. Fisher said.

The present name of the church is a geographical designation, the Rev. Mr. Fisher said. A new name, probably taken from some person or event important in Methodist history, will be determined at the organizational meeting.

"We are in the process of investigating land which is available as the site for our church building," the Rev. Mr. Fisher stated. "However, we will meet in the parsonage probably for at least another year."

Original Lee Document Is Acquired By Library

An original Robert E. Lee document, recently brought to light for the first time, has been acquired by the Southern Historical Collection of the University Library.

The paper, which concerns Lee's endorsement of a railroad through the Shenandoah Valley, is the original draft of the testimonial read by Lee before the Mayor, City Council and a mass meeting of Baltimore citizens on April 22, 1869. This draft was given by Lee to Colonel Edmund Pendleton in Baltimore.

It came to the Southern Historical Collection from the estate of Mrs. Edmund Pendleton Coles of Charlotte.
