Distributive Education Plan Helps Local Students Learn Businesses

six Chapel Hill High students are learning distributive education and their finances by working in a number of area stores under North Carolina's "distributive education" program.

The students, who work in afternoons and on Saturdays, receive regular pay from employers and academic credit for the course. Mr. Jaynes says he feels the program, inaugurated here this year, "is off to an excellent start." He said that cooperation from participating merchants and from the Carrboro-Chapel Hill Merchants' Association has been "fine."

The merchants association will highlight the distributive education program during observance of the nationwide "Careers in Retailing Week," Oct. 12-18.

"Distributive education" is on-the-job training, but is not limited to this function. Through association of school instruction and apprentice training and by careful supervision of trainees by coordinators, every effort is made to discover and develop the best qualities of students so that both they and their employers will benefit through its program.

At the same time, it helps participating businesses by, among other things, assuring a constant, well-instructed supply of labor; gives help in training a prospective employee; acquaints businesses with new training techniques; and allows organizations to determine before permanent employment what individuals fit their operation, and in what capacity.

Students, to qualify for the program, must be 16 years of age or older and a junior or senior in high school.

"The object in this thing, 'Mr. Jaynes' job, 'is to learn a manager's job or the fields of retailing and merchandising.'"

UNC In 1970? Students May Total 12,000

What lies ahead for the University in 1970? Prof. A. K. King, of the University School of Education, gave Kiwanis Club members a glimpse of possibilities for the future in a talk Tuesday night.

Prof. King discussed his experiences in editing the "Long-Range Planning Study for the University in Chapel Hill," which has been prepared for President William Friday to present to the Board of Higher Education.

The study has been completed since the latter part of June. One projection, based on current trends, made in the study estimates that University enrollment could enlarge to 12,000-14,000 students by 1970. "This would mean doubling the size of the faculty," Prof. King said.

He also mentioned that after utilizing classrooms throughout the morning and laboratories throughout the afternoon, a need would be felt for additional space within two years.

Expected growth of the University would make it necessary to double faculty office space, according to the study.

"Indications are that all utilities, dormitories and parking spaces would have to be enlarged," Prof. King said.

Regarding parking facilities, Prof. King reported that a study made last year indicated that 41 per cent of the present student population had 2900 cars registered with the Dean of Student Affairs office.

Faculty and staff members on the main campus have a total of 1846 parking permits, with 1500 permits issued to the Division of Health Affairs.

These figures show a total of 6246 cars on campus and a total of 3826 parking spaces. In other words there are parking spaces for 61 per cent of the cars, the report indicated.

If the enrollment should exceed 12,000 students, 9,090 parking spaces would be needed, Prof. King pointed out.

A full report from the long-range study has not yet been released until President Friday presents the project to the Board of Higher Education.

Chapel Hill Billings For Taxes Are Late

Tax billings for Chapel Hill area property owners will be late this year.

Usually forwarded by Oct. 1, the bills are not in the mail as yet. But, according to Mrs. Ruth Ward, City Tax Collector, "they are sure to be mailed out soon."

"All I can say is that we hope to get them out as soon as possible," she said. She noted that four persons are working full time at present on preparing the bills for post.

Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Mary Lovejoy, town clerk, Mrs. Hazel Diggs, assistant clerk, and Howard Stewart, assistant to the town manager, are working on the forms.

In Carrboro, Town Clerk Winslow Williams said that he had mailed bills to property owners in that town Wednesday. He said he mailed "about 700" of the bills.

In 1957, bills for taxes on property with a book valuation of over $30,000,000 were sent out to Carrboro and Chapel Hill property owners. Chapel Hill's valuation was $25,173,330, and Carrboro's was $5,000,000.

Father Murphy's Installation Will Take Place Here Sunday

The formal installation of Father Francis J. Murphy, J. C. D. as pastor of the Catholic parish of St. Thomas More will take place here on Sunday at 5:30 p.m. Officiating will be the Rt. Reverend Monsignor Herbert A. Harkins, V. F., rector of Sacred Heart Cathedral in Raleigh, as delegate of his excellency, Bishop Vincent S. Waters. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Father Murphy is a native of New York City and has studied at Fordham University and St. John's Seminary in Little Rock, Ark. He was ordained in 1943 and obtained his doctorate in canon law from Catholic University in Washington, D. C. He has held pastorates in Whiteville, North Wilkesboro and Charlotte and assistant pastorates in various parishes throughout the state, including Chapel Hill in 1947, and Durham in 1948. For several years he has been vice chancellor of the Catholic diocese of Raleigh and an official of the matrimonial tribunal. In 1950, he led a state-wide pilgrimage to Rome.

The Rev. Francis M. Smith, pastor of St. Anthony's Church in Southern Pines, will be the guest speaker at the ceremony. Father Smith is a native of Philadelphia and was educated in the Philadelphia parochial schools, St. Charles Prep. Seminary in Overbrook and Mt. Saint Mary's College and Seminary, Emmitsburg, Maryland. He was ordained in 1949, and served parishes in Whiteville, Durham, Greensboro, and as pastor in Edenton. Father Smith was Newman Club chaplain at Duke and Women's College at Greensboro and has been state diocesan director of Newman clubs for seven years. For the past four years, he has been chaplain to the Piedmont province (Newman Clubs of North Carolina and Virginia) and serves on the national board of the Newman Club Chaplains' Association. In addition, Father Smith is present treasurer of St. Joseph-Of-The-Pines Hospital in Southern Pines, Diocesan director of Catholic hospitals in the Diocese of Raleigh, and diocesan director of study clubs.

Following the ceremony at 6 p.m., a parish dinner honoring Father Murphy, Father Smith, Monsignor Harkins, 30 or more visiting priests, Father Murphy's mother and sister, and the UNC Catholic students will be held in Weidinger Hall under the auspices of the women of the parish. Eight CHHS Seniors Pass Merit Testing Eight Chapel Hill High School seniors have qualified for further competition leading toward a scholarship under the National Merit Scholarship program, Miss May Marshbanks, principal, announced today.

The students are now entitled to compete with thousands of other high school seniors for possible scholarships, she said. She noted, however, that students actually winning after passing all examinations would not automatically be qualified for a scholarship. In any event, they will receive national recognition.

Qualifying here as semifinalists after taking examinations were Robert Miller, Peter Wilson, Ann Himeleck, Jim Howard, Ed Thompson, Tom Raney, Dennis King, and Claire Pulver. All are currently CHHS students except Wilson, who is now a student in a Massachusetts school.

AIMING AT HALF-THOUSAND—Mrs. Bradley Wells, left, is chairman of a Carrboro PTA drive for 500 members. Assisting in the effort will be, left to right, Mrs. Bruce Riggsbee, hospitality chairman, and Mrs. Carolyn H. Cheek, publicity chairman. Carrboro PTA Seeking 500 Members

The Carrboro Parent-Teachers Association Tuesday night launched their annual membership drive. The group seeks to sign up 500 members for the year.

Some 195 persons signed up at the organization's first meeting at the town's new elementary school, Mrs. Bradley Wells, membership chairman, reported.

The program consisted of three parts—launching the membership drive, a get-acquainted session, and room visitation.

Participating on the program were Rev. Henry Stokes pastor of the Carrboro Baptist Church; Paul Carr, superintendent of Orange County Schools; and Klay K. K. Box, principal of the school. Mr. Box introduced the faculty, including Mrs. J. A. Cole and Mrs. K. K. K. Box, new teachers.

Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Norman

Desrosiers, room representative chairmen, reported on their activities. Two members, Allen Moore and Leon King, spoke on the value of being PTA members.

Mrs. Desrosiers announced that a room representative workshop will be held Tuesday at the school at 8 p.m., with Mrs. James W. Polk, first vice president of the Durham council of PTA, to be present.

'Battle Of Orange' Friday Matches Hillsboro, Chapel Hill In Carrboro

Hillsboro "hosts" Chapel Hill here Friday night in Carrboro's Lion Park. Game time for the annual "Battle of Orange" is 8 o'clock.

Chapel Hill, undefeated in four starts, and Hillsboro, winners in two of three, are both high-ranking District III clubs. A close ball game is in prospect.

Muddy playing conditions at the Carrboro park may enter into the picture. Chapel Hill generally depends on speed and a sharp passing attack, while Hillsboro relies on power—particularly in the line—and that may count heavily in slow footing.

However, Chapel Hill coach Bob Culton said today that "mud hurts one team as much as the other. I believe my backs can go in the mud."

Coach Culton expressed high regard for the Hillsboro club.

"They're big, strong, rough and tough and love to play football," was his opinion.

Hillsboro, coached by the veteran Glenn Auman, has been a thorn for their south-county neighbors for many years. In fact, his club hasn't lost to Chapel Hill since 1949 . . . the closest was a 7-7 tie in 1955. Last year they throttled the "Cats," 20-7.

Coach Culton said that his charges are "in fine physical and mental condition" for the encounter. He said that Chapel Hill has had trouble getting in the right frame of mind for Hillsboro in past years, "but not this time."

Chapel Hill has beaten Durham Southern, 6-0; Oxford, 19-7; Page of Greensboro, 25-13, and Graham, 19-14. Hillsboro dumped Graham, 33-6, and Durham Northern, 20-0, but was upset by Henderson, 19-14.

Hillsboro 'Hometeam'

Hillsboro is considered the "home" team and Chapel Hill season tickets will not be good for the contest.

Probable starters for Chapel Hill include Bob Larsh and Horton Upchurch at ends; Don Prillaman and Ronald Wright at tackles; Bill Akridge and Larry Crabtree at guards; Tom McNeil or Keith Chaplin at center; Subir Roy at quarterback. Dave Henry and Charlie Hubbard at halfbacks, and Bill Whitney at fullback. Hillsboro probable starters include Jim Ray and Joe Dickey at ends; Marvin Teer and David Hines at tackles; J. W. Dickey and Gary Bateman at guards; Gene Kennedy at center; Harvey Reinhardt, at quarterback; Walter Swainey and Kenny Cook at halfbacks, and Ray Barnes at fullback. Akridge will be playing for Chapel Hill for the first time since suffering a leg injury in the first game.

Democrats To Host Rally In Hillsboro

Orange County Democrats will be hosts and Schley Grange will be the site for the biennial Sixth Congressional District rally scheduled by the State Executive Committee for October 16.

A barbecue is being planned at the Grange hall at 5:30 in the afternoon and the District Rally will get underway immediately thereafter for visiting dignitaries and party members of the four-county area of Orange, Durham, Alamance and Guilford.

The Orange County Young Democratic Club will be in charge of the barbecue arrangements and tickets will be sold by the YDC for $1 to defray expenses. A group of YDC leaders and senior party members met at the Hillsboro American Legion building for supper Tuesday night to make plans for the event.

The annual biennial pre-General Election campaign, including a Democratic Caravan of State party leaders, including all of the major elective office holders, will get underway next week in the far East and proceed eastward in a series of rallies to the Hillsboro Sixth District event.

The heavy artillery of the Democratic Party, headed by the Governor, United States Senators, Congressmen and members of the Council of State, will be present in full force for the rally and principals speakers will be announced later. Special recognition, of course, will be given to Congressman Carl T. Durham of Chapel Hill in his home county and district.

Operation 'Open-Mouth' Plan To Be Held At UNC On Oct. 10

"Operation Open-Mouth," a project to save lives from oral cancer, will be conducted at the University's School of Dentistry on October 10. The one-day free oral cancer clinic, which will also be conducted at Duke and Watts Hospitals, is expected to attract thousands of persons from across the State.

Conducted by the North Carolina Dental Society and the American Cancer Society's North Carolina Division, the clinic hours will be from 11:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.

Dr. Marvin Evans, Chairman of the Cancer Committee of the State Dental Society recently reminded dental and cancer societies officials that cancer of the oral cavity is nearly 100 per cent curable. Yet many North Carolinians died of this one site of cancer needlessly last year.

According to Dr. Nicholas Georgiadis, Chairman of the Cancer Committee of the Durham-Orange Counties Dental Society, the State Dental society and its Cancer Commission will observe the results to find out the practicality of holding similar clinics throughout the state.

The project is the first of its kind ever held on such a wide-scale. A one-county free dental cancer detection clinic was held for the first time in Minnesota last year.

More than fifty dentists — twenty-seven of them in Chapel Hill alone—will participate. Members of the dental societies of Durham and Orange counties are contributing their services.

During the eight hours of the clinic the dentists will examine all areas of the mouth including the lips, tongue, gums, cheek mucosa, oral floor, palate, and oral pharynx. Any suspicious lesions will be biopsied. A small specimen of tissue will be prepared for examination by a pathologist. Reports of the results will be sent to the patient's family doctor or dentist.
