Lower Prices On Meat Seen

OPA Hints in Ceiling Suspension Order That Decline Is Probable

CEILING ON HORSE MEAT

OPA hinted strongly it will order lower retail prices for meat in suspending today for a month new dollar-and-cents ceilings on beef, veal, lamb and mutton, originally scheduled to become effective tomorrow, Friday.

In accompanying actions, the agency clamped ceilings on horse meat and approved corn transportation subsidies intended to hold down prices of dairy and poultry products and encourage increased production of them in areas where feed is short.

The dollar-and-cents ceilings on beef, veal, lamb and mutton were suspended until May 17, Price Administrator Prestis Brown explained, to permit "a full re-examination of the ceilings to insure they are in accord with the directive (from President Roosevelt) requiring a tight holding of the line on cost of living.

It was learned from other sources that Brown had received many complaints that the ceilings would materially increase retail meat prices, particularly in chain stores.

According to information received by local retail officials, the price regulation which would have become effective today, April 15, and would have established dollar and cents ceiling prices on retail sales of beef, veal, lamb, and mutton, has had its effective date moved forward to May 17, 1943. This means that local retail sales of the above named meats are subject to the general maximum price regulation until the effective date of the new regulation which will be May 17, 1943.

It was indicated a revised order might widen the differential between chain and independent store prices. The original schedule permitted a differential of one to three cents per pound on meats, between chain and independent stores.

When first announced, the order was described by OPA officials as effecting a material reduction, on the average, in existing retail meat prices. Today, officials, unwilling to be quoted by name, said it appeared the reduction was more theoretical than real. They explained it reduced the ceiling on stores which were not selling that meat but, apparently did not mean lower prices on most of the meat actually being sold.

The original system required each store to base its individual maximum price on the basis of the highest prices charged in March 1942. Principal purpose of the new regulation was to standardize prices.

The suspension order was the most striking action taken to date by the OPA in following up President Roosevelt's order to reduce the cost of living. Increases in the cost of living, and its simultaneous directive to cut prices wherever possible.

Other major actions thus far include the establishment of maximum prices on horse meat and fresh tuna fish, and the corn subsidy order. The latter is a follow up to OPA's action last night increasing the mid-western price of No. 2 yellow corn by five cents a bushel. So that this increase will not mean higher prices in areas which must import feed, OPA will subsidize transportation costs to keep prices in such areas present.

Numerous other actions have been hinted, including an order designed to reduce the cost to consumers of poultry, eggs and fresh vegetables.

Experts were reported still working on proposed ceilings for several basic agricultural products, including cotton, wheat and apples.

The horse meat order, one of the first official recognitions of the increase in its consumption, is effective April 20. It sets 14 cents a pound as the top price for carcasses of large sections, 18 cents a pound for boned out, 14 cents for meat ground with the bone, and 19 cents for meat ground without the bone or packed in one pound glass containers.

One of the oddities of the order was the higher price for "horseburger" than for horse "steakhouse." Officials explained that a larger percentage of horse flesh is sold in the ground form.

Wants Advance Pay For Boys

Army And Navy Request Legislation To Permit Payments Ahead

REYNOLDS BACKS BILL

The War department, with the approval of the Navy department, has asked enactment of legislation to permit personnel ordered overseas to be paid in advance up to three months of their pay.

A bill proposed by the two departments would also permit payment of pay in advance for as much as a year in advance.

If the bill is enacted, "the War department proposes to authorize the payment in advance of pay rolls already prepared when the embarkation occurs prior to the end of the month." The Secretary of War stated in a letter to the Congress. "In addition," he said, "in cases where such action is deemed advisable and time permits, the preparation and payment in advance of pay rolls for the current month may be authorized in special cases where it is anticipated that regular payment of pay rolls at stations overseas will be impractical in the initial stages of the operation the War department may authorize payments covering periods of not more than three months."

The bill also provides that naval officers may now be paid up to three months in advance when ordered to and from sea duty, and that persons ordered to distant stations where regular pay cannot be made to them may now be paid in advance.

The bill also extends this authority to all personnel, commissioned and enlisted, of all services.

A bill, S. 966, incorporating the department's proposal was introduced in the Senate by Senator Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina, chairman of the Senate military affairs committee.

LOCAL YOUTH LEARNS ARMY WORKS QUICKLY

Archie D. Moore, Now Receiving Training At Engineer Officers' School.

Archie D. Moore, aged nineteen, a Monroe high school graduate of 1941, was convinced today that this rapidly expanding American Army makes up its mind in a hurry.

Visiting the Charlotte Area office of the Army Corps of Engineers, where he was employed until a few days ago, he reported today that he was ordered to an Engineer officers' training school even before he had been enlisted through the induction process at Camp Croft, near Spartanburg.

This youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moore, of Monroe, has been an employee of the Corps of Engineers offices at Camp Sutton, at Monroe, Camp Butler, at Durham, and Camp Johnston, at Raleigh, for the process of service immediately after graduation from high school. Several days ago he decided, since his draft number likely soon will come up at his Monroe Selective Service board, that he would volunteer in response to the Army's call for a number of men a month for replacement training preliminary to being sent into assured overseas service. He went to Camp Croft along with 74 draftees, and got sent out of these immediately, armed with orders sending him to an officers' training school.

His orders require him to report to Fort Bragg, and the Engineer Officer there was ordered to forward him immediately to the proper training center.

The headquarters of Captain Robert F. Ruffner, the area C. of E. officer, had Tuesday a number of men met in this section of the Carolinas are volunteering for the Corps of Engineers. This number is expected to increase steadily, because the rapid decline in military construction is releasing hundreds of skilled men who may now experience difficulty in using their skills except with the Army Engineer forces.

Captain Ruffner cited the case of this Monroe youth as showing emphatically the excellent opportunity men from the construction industry have to obtain officers' commissions in a minimum of time by volunteering for service with the Corps of Engineers during this recruiting campaign. All volunteers here are required to appear before Captain Ruffner for a personal interview preliminary to enlistment, it was explained.

Usually, these volunteers will be given twelve weeks of basic training but all of them will be privileged to apply for commissioned officer training.

Allies Bag 84 Enemy Planes

Stunning Aerial Triumph Shreds Axis Sky Forces In Tunisian Fight

NAVAL BASES POUNDED

The Allied high command announced today a stunning 84-to-3 aerial victory which shredded Marshal Rommel's sky cover and further menaced his thin supply line on the eve of the climactic fight for survival by his cornered Tunisian troops.

American Flying Fortresses led a tremendous assault on Rommel's rear bases in Sicily, destroying 77 planes. Seven more were shot down in other operations during yesterday.

Heavy German reliance on aerial transports indicated the gravity of Rommel's supply problems as Allied troops struck close to the enemy's last mountain bastions.

The British Eighth army already was probing the Enfidaville defenses 50 miles south of Tunis; the British First army was moving in from the west much nearer than the Tunisian capital. French and American troops were occupying in the southwest for co-ordinated blows that are expected to push the forces of Rommel and Col-Gen. Jurgen von Arnim into the Mediterranean.

A French communiqué said the mountains were cleared out of Kairouan had been cleaned out with 1,100 prisoners taken, 500 Axis dead counted, and 18 cannon captured. A junction also was reported made with the Eighth army north of Kairouan.

Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's First army made further advances in its effort to clean out the mountains between Medjez-el-Bab and Mateur preliminary to a direct strike toward Tunis, which is only 35 air line miles from Medjez-el-Bab.

(Capt. Ludwig Seitorius, Berlin radio commentator in broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said General Anderson was employing Highlanders and Canadians "in fierce fighting for the mountains north of the Oued Garga-Medjez-el-Bab road. Strong French forces were moving up in the Bou Arada sector below Medjez-el-Bab, he said, and the bulk" of the British Eighth army tanks and motorized formations have moved up to the Axis-held mountain rim west of Enfidaville.

"Air operations," said the Allied communiqué laconically, "were directed largely against enemy air fields"—and it was left to a spokesman to tell the story of the greatest series of blows yet delivered from the sky in the North African theater.

American Flying Fortresses led a tremendous assault yesterday. Thundering over the Castelvetrano and Milo airfields in Sicily they caught 12 big enemy air transports on the ground at the first and 106 Axis planes grounded at the second. In sharp actions, 51 enemy transport planes were destroyed at Castelvetrano and many others badly damaged; at Milo at least 22 enemy planes were smashed and fires from a blazing gasoline dump were set leaping among others.

The day was rounded off by the destruction of 11 more Axis planes for certain, four of them going down in flames under the gunfire of the Fortresses coming back from Sicily.

These attacks (which in all likelihood accounted for a total considerably greater than the minimum and certain figure of 84 enemy planes) were synchronized with assaults upon the surviving Axis airbases in Tunisia itself—Mégrine at Fochville on the outskirts of Tunis and Oudna, south of Tunis.

(Not only the Tunisian Allied air forces but British home-based bombers and RAF planes under the Middle East command were pounding violently at the Italian base-land. It was announced in London that Spezia, the naval base in northern Italy below Genoa, and the Palermo and Messina harbors in Sicily had been heavily bombed.

Pvt. Bill M. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lee, has been transferred from Salt Lake City, Utah, to the following address: Second Statistical Control Unit, Fort George Wright, Washington.

Dudley Wilson Simpson, seaman 2/c, U. S. Navy, has finished his basic training at Bainbridge, Md., and is spending a two weeks furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Simpson, on East Windsor street. He will return to Bainbridge about April 16th, and will be transferred to Crestfield, Va.

"Seabee" McColl Johnson of the U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Johnson, has landed in Eilo, Hawaii, and writes that it is a lovely place, and there is so much to see. His brother, "Seabee" F. H. Johnson, Jr., who has been at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, has been transferred.

Pfc. Millard J. Preslar, 303 Winchester Ave. Monroe, has been graduated from the Motor Vehicle Operator's School, Motor Transport, Marine Battalion at the New River Marine Base and is now ready for duty as a motorized vehicle operator. Graduation came after three weeks of training and instruction at the school at New River.

Pvt. Oscar L. Pruitt son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pruitt of Bakers has been promoted to private first class and sent to Lawson General Hospital, Co. B, 1st Platoon MDVTS, Atlanta, Ga., for technical training. He received his basic training at Camp Pickett, Va.

He is now stationed at Jacksonville, Fla. His address is Class 2-3, 4-E Barracks 67, 5th Marine Aviation Det., Naval Air Technical Training Center, Jacksonville, Fla.

COUNTY RED CROSS OFFICIALS EXPRESS APPRECIATION FOR SUCCESS OF DRIVE

"In bringing to a close the present War Fund Drive of our American Red Cross," states R. E. Lee, Chairman, "we feel that in view of the fine and hearty response made to the causes for which it exists, that we would not have done all that we should, if we failed to express our sincere and grateful appreciation to all of those who have had a part in this worthy and needed program, either as a worker or as a contributor.

"Union county's quota was set at $15,000, which at first seemed a rather large sum. However, with the wholehearted cooperation of the workers and citizens of the county and the soldiers of Camp Sutton, a total of $18,170 has been donated, with approximately $5,000 being raised at Camp Sutton.

The success of the whole campaign is due to the faithful and energetic work of the men and women, boys and girls, throughout the county in soliciting the aid of all its citizens, and we know that all the people in the county join with us in high praise and commendation of their successful effort.

The record of the present drive stands as a tribute to the citizens of Union county, and undoubtedly as a source of consolation to the boys in our armed forces and their realization that the people on the home front have kept their faith.

"Every contributor should feel proud of his participation in this humane project. For that identifies him or her with the forces of democracy, mercy, and Christianity, in which are imbedded the principles and ideals of all true Americans and the things for which men today are fighting and dying to preserve."

R. E. LEE, Chairman.
