

Will Seek Return Of "Red" Agitator

Gastonia, July 10.—Solicitor John G. Carpenter said today he would take steps to return Fred Erwin Beal, leader of a group of communist organizers who agitated the Loray mill strike here in 1929, to North Carolina to serve a term for murder.

Beal, who, with six other communist organizers, was convicted of conspiracy in the slaying of Police Chief O. F. Aderholt and the wounding of another officer, is now reported back in the United States after a long residence in Russia. The police chief was slain when he and his officers raided strike headquarters.

Beal was sentenced by Judge M. V. Barnhill to serve from 17 to 20 years. The other defendants, several of them North Carolinians, received lesser sentences. The seven defendants jumped bond while an appeal was pending in the state Supreme court.

Originally, a dozen or more defendants, including several women with communist affiliations, were brought to trial and the state sought the death penalty for all of them. The first trial, held at Charlotte on a change of venue, resulted in a mistrial when a member of the jury went insane. Before the second trial, the charges against all but seven of the defendants were dropped.

That Beal had returned to this country was learned here through an announcement in the New York Evening Journal that he would write a series of articles for it on his experiences in Russia. The Journal quoted him as saying he would rather face jail in America than remain in Russia. The first article, appearing today, did not disclose where Beal is living in this country.

Beal and his co-defendants contended at their trial that there was no conspiracy among them to slay the Gastonia police chief and that they had armed themselves only after numerous threats and attempts had been made to destroy their "headquarters" and police protection had been refused. They also sought to show that the officers were shot by their own bullets.

Of the seven convicted murder conspirators who jumped bond only Red Hendrix, of Gastonia, has been recaptured. He is now serving a prison term in the state penitentiary.

THEY STILL THINK OF VALENTINO

Give Tax Views

Under the heading of "taxes," the resolutions said: "We Republicans neither believe in taxes that oppress the poor nor in taxes that soak the rich. Taxes must be levied fairly on all people. . . . The party stands for:

"Abolishment of child labor; old age pensions; care of the disabled; a maximum hour law for women; employment insurance for employes; and a plan to provide assistance for all persons unable to obtain employment, administered upon a sound business basis and not for political purposes."

Other resolutions said: "Encroachment by the executive or any other branches of the government is dictatorship, which we oppose."

"We condemn the efforts of the present administration which gags the press."

YOUNG DEMOCRATS MAY CENSURE ROOSEVELT

Milwaukee, Wis., July 9.—The national convention of young Democratic clubs will be asked to censure President Roosevelt, two delegates announced today, for his attitude toward Wisconsin Progressives.

The convention will be held here next month. The President plans to attend, probably on August 23.

At a young Democrats meeting in Fond Du Lac, Harlan Kelly, Sheboygan lawyer, and Lester C. Weisse, Sheboygan Falls city attorney, were elected convention delegates after denouncing the appointment of several Wisconsin Progressives to important federal positions. Today, both said they would present a resolution of censure to the Milwaukee meeting.

Kelly expressed resentment that Adj. Gen. Ralph M. Immell was named state works progress administrator and criticized the President for approving Gov. Philip F. La Follette's $200,000,000 work-relief program which later met defeat in the legislature.

Negroes Draw On Guilford Juries

Pasquotank Board Finds Honest Man

Elizabeth City, July 10.—Diogenes may have sallied forth on an unsuccessful quest for an honest man in the ancient world, but the Pasquotank county board of commissioners, without stirring from their seats, apparently have found one.

At its last meeting, the board heard Joe C. Spence, register of deeds and clerk of the board, read a letter from Romulus Cutrell requesting, "I am working and gettinging that he be removed from the county's benefit list because, he along fairly well now. I am in the picture business, making 10-cent pictures."

Fall Is Fatal To Hickory Druggist

Hickory, July 9.—E. E. Detter, 50, owner and operator of the Highland Drug store here, died at the Richard Baker hospital near midnight Wednesday, from a severe fracture of the skull.

Detter was returning to his home after closing his drug store when he stumbled and fell to the concrete walk below and suffered injuries from which he never regained consciousness.

Martin county farmers have recently shared in rental and parity payments to the amount of $153,917.10, reports the farm agent.

Holy Grail, Sought For Centuries, Believed Unearthed In Holy Land

London, June 27.—Experts believe the centuries-long search for the Holy Grail, or chalice, used by Christ at the famous "Last Supper" may have ended with its discovery south of Antioch, in the Holy Land.

A report was received by the Palestine Bible Lands expedition here that the cup has been found by a party of archaeologists excavating for ancient relics in Palestine.

The dispatch said the excavations in a cave revealed a small case containing a glass chalice which experts described as fine Roman work. They dated it roughly from about 100 B. C. to 100 A. D.

Experts believe the cup was the famous talisman of romance made famous in the tales of King Arthur and his knights of the Round Table. It was the object of the quest by the knights, and also became famed through the English translation of the French work, "Queste Del Graal," in which it is the cup or chalice of the Last Supper.

The blood which flowed from the wounds of the crucified Savior was caught in the grail. The word originally signified "dish," however, and some versions indicate it was the dish on which the Paschal Lamb was served to Jesus.

Through the centuries, however, the meaning has varied greatly. The grail may be a food-providing talisman as in a Welsh version; it may be a crystal vase, filled from which the King drinks as in other tales.

It may be a stone, as in the "Parizival" story, or its place in a procession may be taken by a bleeding head on a dish, as in the Welsh "Peredur."

Experts hence have a problem to prove that the chalice found near Antioch is the real Holy Grail, it was felt here. Modern criticism gradually has arrived at the conclusion there is only one solution of the grail question which can meet the apparently contradictory tales—namely, that which lies in the direction of what is termed the "ritual" origin, rather than in that of purely Christian legend or modified folk tales.

He Can't Walk, But He Can Fly

R. W. HORNUNG, of Lavelle, Pa., began life as a miner in the nearby anthracite collieries. While still a young man his work in the mines was abruptly terminated by an accident that forever deprived him of the use of his legs. Today, in spite of his handicap, he is a successful business man and an aviation enthusiast who holds his own plane, and has the distinction of being the first man to zoom a plane off the ground in his section of Pennsylvania.

Many men would have despaired at the blow of fate that crippled him for life, but Hornung was made of sterner stuff. While still working in the mines he determined that he would carve out a successful career. To equip himself he enrolled for an engineering course with the International Correspondence Schools. The accident did not dampen his ambition. He was forced to depend upon a wheel chair for locomotion, but determination and continued study gradually enabled him to establish himself as an expert automobile mechanic with a business of his own.

His business grew. He was able to establish his own garage and become a successful automobile dealer. In 1928 he became the distributor for an airplane manufacturer and learned to fly his own plane. He has continued as an active flier and active business man

Fish Filet With Pineapple Juice

Andre, chef of the Hotel Roosevelt, New York, putting the finishing touches to Filet of Fish, Waikiki for visiting Hawaiian celebrities.

FRUIT and fish are fine foods. Usually though we think of this combination in terms of fish with a dash of lemon squeezed over it at the table. The fish entrée to be described here is as simple to make as it is delicious to taste. It differs from the ordinary fish dish in that it calls for fruit juice in the actual preparation—in other words, the natural unsweetened juice of sun-ripened pineapples.

Filet of Fish, Waikiki with pineapple sauce, originated in the Hawaiian Islands, where it now enjoys great vogue. Now that fine pineapple juice is available everywhere, it should become a national favorite in the opinion of a famous New York hotel chef who recently prepared it for distinguished visitors from the Hawaiian Islands. Before giving the recipe, it should be emphasized that straight pineapple juice must be used—not the syrup in which sliced pineapple is packed.

How to Get Drink Legally, In Iowa

Omaha, Neb. Night-club proprietors who want to be strictly legal have worked out a complicated system for obeying Nebraska's new "package sale" liquor law.

Here is how it works: You buy a half pint or pint bottle of liquor, which is legal. Then, as a service feature, the night club provides a waiter who will mix the drinks at your table if you like.

To order the drinks in the regular way would be illegal.

Concordia College Will Not Reopen
