HUNTING SEASON OPENS THURSDAY

The sale of licenses has been unusually good it is reported at the office of J. L. Hunter, clerk of the court, and indications are that a number of nimrods will go into the field on the opening day.

Indications Are That 12-Cent Loan Due February 1st, Will Be Extended

Washington, Nov. 26.—With indications that the 12-cent loan falling due February 1, will be extended for an indefinite period, the administration is not seriously considering promulgation of plans for disposal of approximately four and a half million bales of government held cotton at this time, it became apparent today.

AAA officials pointed out that because an indefinite extension of the loan is "almost certain," they are not seriously concerned for the present with disposition of the cotton thus secured.

At the same time, officials of the AAA's cotton producers' pool refused to divulge sales figures for last week and said that any statement whatsoever would have to come from Oscar Johnston, pool manager, who is out of the city at the time. Pool spokesmen were asked to comment on trade rumors that the pool has been selling January futures and failing to replace such sales with futures from the distant months.

Comment Withheld
"We can make no comment whatsoever in the absence of Mr. Johnston," one official said. "In the matter of the sales figures, it is not the policy of the pool to make public daily sales transactions unless it is felt that such publication is in the best public interest."

Mr. Johnston is at present in Mississippi. It is not definitely known when he will return to Washington.

Disclosure that AAA is not actively interested in liquidation of government held cotton at this time was following interviews with various officials in the matter of some half dozen "disposal programs" which have been submitted by interested textile trade members and congressmen to date.

Latest of these proposals is that drafted by Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, for introduction in the coming Congress. The senator contemplates that all government held cotton would be turned over to the commodity credit corporation or a similar agency for sale in the open market, such sales to be limited to 20,000 bales weekly.

AAA officials said today they have not been acquainted with the plan. (Continued on back page)

Abernethy Invited To Take Charge of Roosevelt Ball Here

Jas. A. Abernethy, Jr., has been invited by Henry L. Doherty, national chairman, to again have charge of the local President's Ball to be held on the date of President Roosevelt's birthday, January 30. The local event will be one of a nation-wide series of balls for the benefit of infantile paralysis sufferers. Mr. Abernethy has served in this capacity for the past two years.

The President has approved the suggestion that 70 per cent of the proceeds raised by each local Birthday Ball be retained in the community to be disbursed to local or adjacent orthopedic hospitals, or for the treatment of local infantile paralysis cripples, as the local committee decides. This allotment was first made last year; the plan worked well and has been approved throughout the county. 30 per cent of the proceeds will be turned over to the National Committee for delivery to the President to be presented by him to the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation, for the continuation and extension of its part in the national fight against infantile paralysis.

Semi-Pro Football Eleven to Play Mooresville Team Here Saturday Afternoon

Game Will Be Played On Lincolnton High School Athletic Field

(By "Smack" Proctor)

The 1935 edition of the Lincolnton semi-pro football eleven, champions of the semi-pro ranks in North and South Carolina last season, will meet their first foe of the season, a strong Mooresville Independent outfit, here on the Lincolnton athletic field Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The local team will be defending their championship laurels in this opening fracas and are determined to begin their campaign with a win. Last season the local team, besides trimming Mooresville twice, defeated Charlotte and the invincible Gaffney, S. C. team for the undisputed title of semi-pro champs of the Carolinas.

The team this year is composed largely of the players who proved to be the mainstays of last year's great team. Buck Mauney, the Duck Rooney of the team last year and the boy who ends his fine gridiron record at Lenoir-Rhyne tomorrow afternoon against the Catawba Indians, will be coach of the local team after his final college game. Players likely to see action in Saturday's joust, all former proteges of a Block Smith regime, are: Dan Lockhart, Sam Hoover, Whitey Wilkinson, John Broome, Jake Huss, Bud Page, Fred James, Fred Rudisill, Ned Leonard, Claude Broome, Clink Armstrong, Bud Elmore, Rafey Center, John Hages, Ope Rudisill, Pete Yoder, Chief Barineau, Eddie Pierce, Tony Armstrong, and Red Haynes, the red headed flash who made that memorable 96 yard dash against Barium Springs in 1925. HIGH COURT TO RULE ON RIGHT TO ENJOIN AAA

Justices Promise a Ruling On Process Tax Suits; Will Settle Issue

Washington, Nov. 26.—A ruling on the right of citizens to obtain injunctions against processing taxes—the main prop of the administration's farm relief activities—was promised today by the Supreme Court.

It also granted a request by eight Louisiana rice millers for a temporary injunction against the levies until it could pass on the merits of the controversy.

The court agreed to pass on the action of the Federal district court at New Orleans in dismissing the suit brought by the millers against AAA.

They had asked the high tribunal for a ruling without waiting for the court of appeals to act.

Replying to their suit, the government contended they should "pay first and litigate later."

The cases were set for argument on December 16. The injunction was granted "upon condition that the amount of the assailed taxes, as they accrue from month to month shall be paid over to a depository to be appointed by the court."

Justices Brandeis, Stone, and Cardozo dissented from the action granting the injunction.

The millers were willing to post security for the taxes due pending a final ruling.

They claimed that all other Federal circuit courts had granted injunctions against the AAA taxes and refusal of the fifth circuit to do this deprived citizens of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida of constitutional rights.

The millers said the "remedy" (Continued on back page)

Rally in Morganton Pledges
Support to Lincoln Man for 'Any Office He Wants'

Morganton, Nov. 26.—Charles A. Jonas remains the idol of Republicans in the Tenth district and his popularity remains unimpaired, if the expression at the Republican rally here last week is a criterion.

A resolution was unanimously passed by delegations from six counties giving the Lincoln county man carte blanche endorsement for any political office that he may seek.

Terminating the State senator and former congressman "the greatest statesman that North Carolina has produced since the days of Suttle and Vance," the party meeting Thursday night resolved to "offer him in advance our support for any office that is within the gift of the electorate of the 10th Congressional district and—or the State of North Carolina and which he may choose to seek in the next general elections."

The resolution, introduced by J. Bennett Riddle, Jr., president of the Burke County Republican club, follows:

"WHEREAS, representative groups of Republicans from the counties of Madison, Lincoln, Catawba and Burke, in response to a call of the Burke county Republican Club are assembled at Morganton for the purpose of promoting the better organization of the Republican Party in the western section of North Carolina and for the further purpose of de-

Other Hot Clues Uncovered In This Investigation— More Wood

New York, Nov. 26.—The chief investigator for Bruno Richard Hauptmann declared today that he had learned on "unimpeachable authority" that Lindbergh ransom bills have turned up recently in Boston and Worcester, Mass.

The department of justice in New York said "we have no information on this matter."

"I have been informed," the investigator said, "that almost $800 in Lindbergh ransom money has been received by the Boston Federal Reserve Bank since Hauptmann's arrest. It is continuing to show up. My authority is unimpeachable, despite the denials of police."

The investigator, who requested that his name be withheld, said he had recently found in a house near Ashby, Mass., a letter dated March 10, 1932, ten days after the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped, which read, in part:

"Why don't you return that poor little Lindbergh baby? You have had it long enough."

He said the writer and recipient of the letter were known and that he would soon have "a full accounting from them."

In the same house, the investigator said, he found wood "similar" to that used in the ladder believed to have been used in gaining access to the Lindbergh nursery.

"It's the same type," he remarked, "and I'm having it examined by experts."

He cited reports that the same house yielded ransom bills as "absolutely wrong," and added, "I wish it had, however."

C. Lloyd Fisher, Flemington, N. J., chief of counsel for Hauptmann, has received a copy of the report of the Massachusetts investigation, the investigator said.

Besides handwriting and wood, the investigator said, several articles used by a baby were found in the house, as well as newspaper clippings executed in some respects similarly to that of the Lindbergh baby.

The investigator said that the ransom bills not traced to Hauptmann were all peculiarly folded, twice across and once down.

The investigator said that while he was not enough versed in chirography to ascertain if the handwriting on the ransom notes was the same as that on the letter found near Ashby, he had discovered several characteristics identical in both scripts.

These, he said, were curlicues and dots that had been found by at least one handwriting expert but never introduced as evidence.

Blanket Appropriations For Relief Are Said On Way Out

Washington, Nov. 26.—A shift from blanket relief appropriations to more exact budgeting was reported under consideration today as President Roosevelt talked government finances with his aides at Warm Springs.

Officials in touch with the situation said some presidential advisors felt the recovery movement had progressed to a point at which future relief needs could be determined with accuracy sufficient for more definite listing.

The new deal practice has been to ask Congress for a lump sum appropriation — last winter it was the $4,800,000,000 relief bill — with specific expenditures in effect left to the discretion of the President.

Dividing Line In Doubt
Under the plan suggested a part, at least, of the recovery program heretofore covered in the blanket authorizations would be budgeted and suggested to Congress in exact figures, reducing the amount left to the chief executive's discretion.

Just where the dividing line would be drawn, if the plan is adopted, none could say. However, there was an expectation that funds for the public works administration and the works progress administration would be separated.

Aside from the improved budgeting which would result, such a course, it was said, would eliminate such disagreements over how the funds should be allocated as have arisen in the recent past between Secretary Ickes, administrator of PWA, and Harry Hopkins, director of WPA.

Ickes-Hopkins Row Recalled
When it came to splitting up the $4,800,000,000, Ickes wanted the emphasis placed on heavy construction or lasting projects of a lighter nature with the bulk of the funds going to the relief workers.

They bombarded President Roosevelt with their arguments and in the end, he settled the controversy by his allotment of funds. He gave Ickes PWA $330,000,000 instead of the $900,000,000, ear-marked, in an advisory way, by Congress.

With the President at Warm Springs today were Secretary Morgenthau, Acting Director Daniel Bell of the budget bureau and Chairman Buchanan of the house appropriations committee. Officials would make no comment on Buchanan's prediction that the budget would be brought within $500,000,000 of a balance next year, beyond saying that many unsettled questions were involved in that complicated problem.
