17-YEAR LOCUSTS TO VISIT LINCOLN SAYS DR. LEIBY

Wilkes County Reports Millions of Insects in That Section

Lincoln is one of ninteen countie in the state in which the cicada, or 17-year locust is scheluled to appear this year, according to Dr. R. W. Leiby, State entomologist, who forecast the coming of the insects sevral weeks ago.

Wilkes county last week reported to the State Department of Agriculture the appearance of the cicadas by the hundreds and possibly milns" in that county. Other counties in which the insect is expected to appear are Wake, Alexander, Henderson, Lincoln, McDowell, Stokes, Surry, Yadkin and Yancey. The last appearance of "brood 10" was in Leiby said the insects do not harr field crops in any way, but the females in laying eggs sometimes dam-age young apple trees.

"The 17-year cicada is the longe lived insect," said Leiby. "Only the males are noisemakers. Their shrill chorus, not unlike that of frogs, is produced by the rapid vibration of a miniature pair of drums on the underside of the body, a membrane be ing 'beat' by a muscle. The female ot enter into the no

LIOUOR PLACES 45 PCT. OF CONVICTS IN PRISON IN N. C.

Booze Immediate Cause Of Almost Half Of Crimes Committed In State

Raleigh, May 16 .- Liquor was the mediate and direct cause of almost half of the state's prison population being in prison during the months of January, February and March of this year and the direct and indirect cause back of the imprisonment of probably as many as 75 per cent of the prisoners, according to figures obtained here today from Oscar T. Pitts, acting director of the prison division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission.

Out of 4,820 prisoners committee t othe state prison system during the first three months of this year, 1,847, or approximately 45 per cent. liquor laws, as follows: drunk, 883; violating state prohibition 410; drunk and disorderly, 358; driv ing while drunk, 106; total 1,847.

But a great majority of those con victed of other crimes or offenses were drunk or had been drinking these other offenses were committed, Pitts pointed out. Ac ordingly, it is very probable that a majority of 869 convicted of some form of larceny had either taken drinks, were partially drunk, or were stealing to get money with which to buy liquor, Pitts said. This also applies to the 169 convicted of breaking and entering, the 150 convicted for assault, the 405 con victed of assault with a deadly weap on, the 104 convicted of assault or a female and the 42 convicted of murder, prison authorities agree

Most of those connected with the in effect in 83 of the 100 counties that there is just as much liquor and just as many convictions for viola-tions of the liquor law in the "dry" James Monroe Hawkins, of Cleveland county, who was 77 years old on April 27, has a child or grandchild for each of the years of his life. In other words he has nine living children and 68 grand-children.
