S. C. Convention Calls For No
More Than Two Terms Of Four Years Each.

Columbia, S. C., May 17.—South Carolina Democrats demanded a constitutional amendment limiting Presidents' terms to two of four years each but selected uninstructed delegates for its 18 national convention votes today and reserved the right to pass on national convention actions at a second state meeting August 2.

The name of President Roosevelt, to whose candidacy for a fourth term nomination a majority of national convention delegates from other states have been pledged, was not once mentioned during the relatively quiet state meeting and the fourth term action was taken during the last minutes as the meeting adjourned.

Uninstructed.

Adoption of a state party platform that included the two-term limit proposal came after the convention without debate adopted a motion by Representative Calhoun Thomas, of Beaufort, that the 36 delegates filling the 18 votes of the state party at the national meeting be uninstructed.

Party rule changes to substitute for state laws recently repealed were adopted as was a resolution by former State Supreme Court Justice Eugene S. Bleasde, of Newberry, that set another meeting of the convention to consider whatever platform the national party may have adopted at its meeting in Chicago July 19.

Red Cross Commends Production Report

Mrs. Mae Hoover, chairman of production of the local chapter of Red Cross, makes a report on the production that has been done from April 30, 1943, until April 30, 1944. Mrs. Hoover is justly proud of the work of the women of Lincoln county and she feels that with invasion so near and the necessity for more and more work to be done that every woman in the town and county will read this record and be proud that this work speaks for the willingness to sacrifice that is prevalent here and that it will encourage each woman to redouble her efforts to produce surgical dressings and kit bags.

Surgical dressings, 306,600; knitting, 710 articles; Turtleneck sweaters, watch caps, helmet scarfs, sleeveless sweaters, gloves, wrist-lets, afghans.

Sewing: 2,027 articles. Women's night gowns, operating gowns, hospital bed shirts, petticoats, dresses besides bags, sarongs, curtains, lap robes, kitbags, housewives, bed jackets.

Gives Graphic Description Of Raging Mt. Vesuvius

In a recent letter received from her husband, Mrs. James Crouch, of Newton, gained a clear picture of the March eruption of the volcano, Mt. Vesuvius. The message from the husband, Sgt. James Crouch, in Italy, would be of general interest to his friends here, and is as follows:

"Mt. Vesuvius is a mountain something like Mineral Springs mountain near Valdese. In time past you could see some white smoke rolling out of the crater, and every now and then you could see some red hot lava run out down the side of the crater. I have watched it for hours at a time.

"Sometime Monday, March 20, the volcano started erupting. Three great rivers of lava started running down the side of the mountain out of the top of the crater. It was throwing out red hot rocks and ashes were thrown thousands of feet into the air. This sure was a beautiful sight to me, but to those who live close by and those in the path of the lava, I know that it was a horrible sight.

"I walked out on one of the lava flows that had cooled somewhat. It had a crust over it, but through the cracks I could still see the red hot rock.

"Some of the rivers of lava have already run twenty miles. It is about a quarter of a mile wide. It moves at about the rate of three hundred yards an hour. Some of the towns 40 miles away are covered with ash and rock four inches deep. One of the highways running close to the mountain is closed because it is just about covered with ashes.

"I went to within a mile of the top while it was erupting, but you can take my word I won't do that again. I took some pictures but not any of them are good. It was worth wasting a few films though to try to get a picture of it.

"After the volcano stops I want to go back to see it. There is a railroad that runs all the way to the top, and I think I will go that way instead of by car.

"I wouldn't take a million for what I have seen in the past week. People have spent thousands of dollars to come here to see Vesuvius when it was not even erupting. Not many people have seen the sight we have seen.

"It sure is bad for a volcano to run so many people out of their homes, as there are so many homeless people anyway.

"Just as soon as I can get a box made I am going to send home some pieces of lava I picked up the other night."

WOOL.

The value of the wool clip makes up about one-third of the profit from the farm flock and hence it should receive special care, suggests H. M. Stamey, Extension animal husbandry specialist at State College.

During April the annual cancer control drive was conducted by the Woman's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. The Girl Scouts sponsored the drive in Lincoln.

We used the house-to-house campaign and collected from business men. Jars were placed in the leading stores of Lincoln. The following clubs donated to the drive: Pilot Club, $5; Booklovers, $3; Maids and Matrons, $2.

Speeches were made at the club meetings as follows: Pilot Club, by Peggy Conner; Kiwanis, Marg. Miller; Rotary, Marjorie Perry; Anna Jackson, Nancy Steelman; Sorosis, Susan Pickens; Mentor, Phyllis Costner; Booklovers, Ann Goode; Review Club, Jessie Eury; Maids and Matrons, Laura Hoffman; High School, Betty Kincaid.

During the drive last year Lincoln collected a little over $3. During April this year we had a total of approximately $127.

We'd like to thank those who contributed to the cancer control drive and helped us to achieve such an admirable total.

At the end of the Scout year we had $2.84 in our treasury, which we turned over to the Junior Red Cross.

All Girl Scouts remember to meet at the Grammar School Thursday, May 18, at 3 o'clock, for a hike and picnic at Lake Sylvia.

Allies Intend For Nazis To Surrender Weapons This Time

Washington, May 15.—Expectations now are that several Allied diplomatic campaigns against Axis satellites and European neutrals will pay off as soon as Anglo-American invasion forces are established in Western Europe.

A check of responsible authorities today fixed that is the decisive time for the effort to strip Germany of both satellite support and neutral economic assistance.

It is doubtful, however, that the satellites may expect as favorable terms if they wait to surrender until after the invasion forces are established.

The ultimatum Friday to Finland, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary emphasized that the leniency of terms would vary according to the assistance given the Allies.

Meanwhile, it was learned that there is no present intention of offering to any segment of the German population a lenient armistice based on revolt and surrender.

One reason for this is that apparently there is no fraction of the population capable of revolting. Another is the determination, held by American leaders particularly, that the German army this time must admit complete defeat and the German people must realize fully the impact of losing the war.

Dispatches from London indicate this determination is reflected in the present tentative draft of surrender terms, being worked on by the European advisory commission.

It was understood these terms provide that the German army must surrender completely, lay down its arms where it is fighting (instead of withdrawing to Germany as it did in the last war) and await disposal by the Allied authorities.

Based on these, and some other considerations, therefore, Allied propaganda to Germany now stresses the fact that Germany cannot hope to win, that the people can look forward only to complete defeat and unconditional surrender.
