The Daily Workman.

Vol. 6. Greensboro, N. C., Thursday, July 19, 1888. No. 44.

Col. J. S. Morrison, chief engineer, and Capt. J. A. Dodson, roadmaster, on the Monroe and Atlanta Railroad, are mentioned in connection with the fine bridge nearing completion on that road.

Messes. Geo. W. Sparger and Joe Rawley, of Mt. Airy, came down this morning and spent the day and returned on the 3 o'clock train. It used to be a two days' trip from this place to Mount Airy, but now it is made in a few hours.

There will be a Democratic ratification meeting and also a torch light procession in this city on Friday night next. Judge Fowle, Attorney-General Davidson, Maj. Finger and Rev. Geo. W. Sanderlin, are expected to be present and address the people.

We saw this morning Rev. J. B. Richardson, en route to Mount Vernon Springs, Rev. Dr. Robey on his way to the mountains, and Mr. H. L. Brower on his return from Mt. Airy White Sulphur Springs, besides several others whose destination was not revealed.

The Penny for July is as fresh and interesting as any of the most excellent magazines for young folks from eight to fourteen. Especially suitable for Sunday reading. $1 a year. The publishers, D. Lothrop Company, Boston, will send a specimen on a receipt of 5 cents in stamps.

The Chronicle says: The Greensboro Workman copied from the Chronicle's Tuesday edition and gave the wrong credit.

We credited the Observer, which is a very common mistake. Had it been a clipping simply, and not a boiled down item, it is likely that the proper credit would have been attached.

The Cross and White Trial.

Considerable progress was made yesterday in the trial of the "blood-liners," Cross and White. In fact there seems to have been scarcely any obstruction thrown into the way by either side, and the case may be finished to-day. So far as the argument is concerned, a verdict of some sort of forgery seems inevitable, but the punishment is monstrous uncertain these days and times.

Not Taken After All. If you care to have a supply of fruit and vegetables for winter use without going to the expense and trouble of canning them, use Wilson's Fruit and Vegetable Preservative. By its use you can keep fruits and vegetables in open jars—fresh and like the year round. You will naturally ask, is it poison? Will it hurt the fruit? Read the following and draw your own inference. July 19d

Dear Sir—I have used your Fruit and Vegetable Preservative and its action is entirely satisfactory. Knowing its composition I unhesitatingly recommend it. I assure you it is not detrimental to the health of those consuming fruit or vegetables that have been preserved by it. I value it so highly that I shall use it to keep fruit for my family use. Da. H. W. TAYLOR, Supt. of Schools, Guilford county, N. C.
