LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

There are only four prisoners in Rockingham jail. Mr. J. C. Bunch, of Oak Ridge, was in to see us today. It snowed a very pretty little snow last night, too beautiful to last.

The Daily Workman.

Vol. 6. Greensboro, N. C., Monday, February 11, 1889. No. 217.

—One of the most stubborn facts with which we have to deal is, the necessity of giving employment to honest people who have nothing to do.

—Services at the Baptist church every afternoon at 3:30 p. m. and preaching every night at 7:30 by Rev. Dr. Hutson. All are cordially invited to attend all these services.

—Mrs. Alex. Campbell, now of Fayetteville, who resided in Greensboro for two or three years up to last summer, is paying a visit to the city, the guest of Mrs. Annie Cator, in North Greensboro.

—The Madison Leader says that Mrs. Harry Bradfield and children, from Fate, Texas, are on a visit to relatives at Prestonville. Mrs. Bradfield was Miss Clark, of Oak Ridge.

—Mr. C. P. Vanstony and George have returned from their trip to Tennessee. They went to a number of important places, including Nashville and Mr. Vanstony avers that the stock he bought is the finest ever brought to this market.

DON'T WANT IT.—We met a friend on the street this morning whom we know to be well up in railroad matters, and of whom we have several times thought and spoken as a suitable person to fill the office of State Auditor.

One of "Our Boys" in Charlotte The Chronicle refers with high commendation to an address before the Charlotte Teachers' Council by Prof. Henry Louis Smith, of Davidson College.

After religious exercises and the regular programme, Prof. Henry Louis Smith, of Davidson College, delivered an address on "English in a Country School."

He divided his subject into three parts: "Correction of Prevalent Errors in Language; Proper use of Punctuation Marks, and English Composition."

Prof. Smith is a remarkably fluent speaker, and he treated his subject in such a masterly manner, that he interested not only the teachers, but every one else who heard him.

He illustrated the manner in which he used to teach in a village school, and his statements were so clear and simple, that his audience were not surprised that he had made a success as a teacher.

Every one was sorry when the address came to a close, and the teachers insisted on Prof. Smith's delivering another address at an early day.

One will see at a glance that the divisions of the subject showed an acquaintance with the needs of the times, and gave occasion for many a good hit at prevalent errors. It is a solemn fact, as some writer has already said, that while men are talking animals, and do more talking than anything else, it is in talking that they most signally fail; to which we may add that, only when they write they do still worse.
