A State of Prayer.

We come to the eventide with the impression of the morning watch all obliterated, probably with a conscience burdened with accumulations of sin upon an un-governed spirit through the day. We feel that we must take a new start every time we seek God's presence. Our sense of spiritual progress is lost. Sinning and repenting is all our life; we do not have holy force enough to get beyond repentance in our devotion. Our prayers, instead of being, as they should be, advancing steps, are like the steps of a tread-mill. Humane law has abandoned this, even as a punishment for felon: why should one whom Christ has made free inflict it upon himself? We need, then, something that shall make our prayerful hours support each other—the morning tributary to the evening, and the evening to the morning. Nothing else can do this so naturally as the habit of ejaculatory prayer. The SPIRIT of prayer may run along the line of such a habit through a lifetime. So one may live in a state of prayer, "a devout man that prays always."—Rev. Austin Phelps, D. D.

Mr. Taylor's Knowledge of French.

James L. Taylor, General Passenger Agent of the Piedmont Air Line, is a student of the classics as well as an able and energetic railroad official. The other day an open copy of the Koran in French, which he had been reading, lay upon his table in the main office.

"I picked up a knowledge of French," said he, "while traveling on the cars. Whenever I went on a journey I usually placed a French work of some kind in my pocket, and instead of gazing out of the window or being bored from having nothing to occupy my mind, I spent the time in reading."

Mr. Taylor is also fond of studying antiquities and during his leisure hours frequently visits the National Museum.—Washington Post.

The True Method

Of curing habitual constipation, and liver and kidney ills is to avoid the use of the bitter drastic liver medicines and castor oil, and to take only the pleasant liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs. It cleanses as well as strengthens the system, and does not leave the bowels constive, so that regular habits may be formed, and the invalid permanently restored to health. It acts promptly and effectively; it is easily taken, and perfectly harmless.

The spirit that saves. Do church members make it? Professor Agassiz's devotion to scientific study led him to decline to avail himself of a most promising opportunity of greatly enlarging his scanty fortune, and to say, "I have no time to make money."

Faith and repentance are Siamese twins. Separation is death to both. An old writer says: "Faith without repentance is not faith, but presumption; like a ship all sail and no ballast, that tippeth over with every blast. And repentance without faith is not repentance, but despair; like a ship all ballast and no sail, which sinketh of her own weight."

An Elegant Substitute

For Oils, Salts, Pills, and all kinds of bitter, nauseous Laxative Medicines and Cathartics is the very agreeable liquid Fruit Remedy—Syrup of Figs. Its advantages are evident, it is more easily taken, more acceptable to the stomach, more instantly effective, and more truly beneficial to the system than any other remedy. Recommended by leading Physicians.

Lord Peterborough, a noted infidel, once visited the sweet-spirited and saintly Fenelon, but he heard no argument, such as he had expected, on the claims of Christianity. His wise and loving host let logic alone, and just lived as he was ever wont to live when no infidels were around to watch him. And, as the lord left his Christian host, he said: "If I stay here much longer I shall become a Christian in spite of myself."

Accidental Poisoning.

Mrs. Eliza Haden died under very distressing circumstances last Friday at the residence of her husband, Mr. J. W. Haden, at Sapona, in this county. Some time previous to her last illness, she was in feeble health, and was under treatment by Dr. J. J. Summerell at Salisbury. After her return home, she had an attack of pneumonia, and Dr. Summerell was called in to attend her. Last Wednesday he called, and finding her suffering intensely, he administered a dose of morphia, and prepared some pills composed, as he supposed, of quinine, which were to be given at stated intervals. At an early hour Thursday morning, one of the pills was administered, and soon thereafter the effects of an overdose of morphia observed. A messenger was dispatched in haste for the doctor, who returned as quick as possible, and found the patient under the influence of the deadly drug. He examined one of the pills, and frankly acknowledged that he had made the fatal mistake of administering morphia instead of quinine. Every remedy and device known to medical skill were resorted to to save the life of the patient; but without avail. Life was prolonged for several hours; but the effect of the poison could not be overcome. The remains were buried on Saturday at Jersey Church. Mrs. Haden was in the 56th year of her age.

The occurrence is deeply regretted, not only on the account of the sorrowing relatives, but for the sake of Dr. Summerell who has had a long and honorable career as a physician, enjoying the confidence of his respect of all who knew him.—Davidson Dispatch.
