A FESTIVAL.

The Ladies Aid Society of Centenary church will give a festival at the building recently occupied by Mr. J. H. Phipps, Asheboro street, South Greensboro, Thursday evening, Nov. 20th at 7 o'clock. Oysters, ice-cream, cake, fruit, etc. will be served. The special feature of the occasion will be the Martha Washington table, from which will be served Boston baked beans, pumpkin pie and mush and milk. All are invited to attend.

THE CITY PIG AND THE PIG IN THE CITY.

Our city Fathers in their last meeting had the pig pen before them, and intimated that in all probability the pig pen would have to go between now and the first of February 1890.

The question of permitting pig pens in the city must always be one of interest, but one who has investigated will almost if not quite come to the conclusion that more depends upon whose pig it is than upon pig or no pig. Just so it is about the use of tobacco. The habit of using tobacco is a filthy one, but who has not seen quite as filthy men who did not use the weed at all?

What we mean to say is, the nuisance there is about a pig pen depends upon how the pen is kept. In one of the most cleanly back yards we have observed in the city was kept a fattening hog; but the owner took great pains to keep the pen clean. It was frequently washed out, and emitted little or no odor. The are some kitchens in this city not so cleanly as that pig sty.

Now if the city Fathers forbid the pig pen because of the odors emitted, and its menace to health, it would seem to be proper to require the removal of anything and everything else in any other yard that is not in harmony with the sanitary idea. If the pig must go let him take with him everything in the same line. But it has been suggested that there be certain limits only of the city in which the pig shall not be allowed, and that he be permitted in certain other parts not so densely populated. Let the people send in their wishes on this subject.

THE SECRET OF LONGEVITY.

A gentleman came into this office some time ago and gave our reporter an idea that enables him to account for the extreme age to which persons here and yonder have attained. The idea was suggested upon hearing a certain reckless character tell of his travels, and how many years he staid at this place, that place and the other place. After the extravagant speaker had finished his story our informant added up the different years said to have been spent in the round, and the whole sum was about one hundred and seventy-five years! Commenting on this result our friend said that in this way a man might easily get to be two hundred years old.

SCARCITY OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

The Alamance Gleaner complains of the scarcity of building material in the Graham section. Greensboro generally has a good supply, and possibly our dealers could fill the bill for Graham. We are already furnishing brick for Burlington.

BAPTIST CHURCH TO-NIGHT.

There will be a prayer meeting service in the Baptist church tonight, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, in connection with which there will be talks on the subject of the late Baptist State Convention at Shelby. It will be an interesting occasion.

FROM SOUTH-WEST VA.

Mr. W. R. Land, one of our lively and enterprising real estate dealers, has just returned from a trip to South-west Va. and expresses a high opinion of what he saw of the country and the business methods prevailing over there. He saw men from Boston and other parts North who expressed admiration for the South and its resources. Mr Land put in words in favor of Greensboro and our own section of the South-land. He is anxious to promote the well-being of Greensboro and vicinity.

Remember the Educational classes for young men to be arranged at the Young Men's Christian Association. (Penmanship and Book-keeping) to night at 8 o'clock. All young men are invited to be present.

DROPPED DEAD.

A negro man in Danville dropped dead while chopping wood, on Tuesday. He had heart disease.

THE CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

The WORKMAN'S correspondent says: in addition to what we published yesterday, that Rev. J. L. Foster of Raleigh is Secretary. The report on Missions awakened much enthusiasm. The body adopted a strong report on Temperance, leaning decidedly to the side of Prohibition. It is expected that today will be the most lively day of the session, and that the Conference will close tomorrow.

A PLUCKY GIRL.

The editor of the Sun newspaper, at Fargo, North Dakota, left his house a few days ago, telling his family that he was going down the street to hear the latest election news. For some reason he never returned, and it is thought that he was temporarily deranged. However, the man's daughter keeps the paper going, and everybody hopes she will succeed.

TRIED MUD.

A man in Jersey city who had been imbibing too freely of beer, lost his balance and tried to commit suicide by drowning himself in mud. When arraigned before a justice his clothes were covered with mud and filth from the meadow into which he had thrown himself. The justice gave him thirty days in which to dry out.

NOT UNAPPRECIATED.

This is what the Standard, at Concord, has to say in speaking of its efforts to give the people of that town and section a good newspaper. In truth, the appreciation has quite as much to do with producing a good paper as the paper has to do in producing appreciation. There is, more properly speaking, an interdependence between the two.

NOW FOR THE OFFICES.

From now on, the newspapers will be presenting the names of their favorites for speaker of the next Congress, for speaker of the lower House of the State Legislature, and for the clerkships of the two Houses. Lively times are coming, and after the elections are over there will be ten disappointed aspirants for every one that attained success.

"'Tis ever thus from childhood's hour."

TURNED UP O. K.

We have been trying to interpret the letters o. k. as applied to the young man who was supposed to have jumped from the Yadkin river bridge, but later on was found in Salisbury. He was "ol krooked."

A DANGEROUS CUTTING AFFAIR IN WASHINGTON.

The Evening Star of Washington of yesterday contains the particulars of a difficulty between young Butler, a nephew of Senator Butler of South Carolina, and Mr. Thos. H. Tate, of Greensboro, both of whom are employes of the Navy Department.

On their way home from a visit to some quarter of the city, and at an early hour of the morning, in close proximity to the Star office, a rude play between the two began which resulted in Tate drawing a pen knife inflicting several serious but not fatal gashes upon the person of Butler. The police interfered and the difficulty ended. Butler was carried to a hospital.

Rumors were flying herethat Butler's injuries were mortal, &c., &c., but Dr. McAden, just from Washington, reports that Butler is getting along very well. Tate will be hailed as a matter of course.

A TARANTULA.

As one of the clerks at the store of J. W. Scott & co., in this city, was in the act of removing a bunch of bananas, near dusk last evening, he got a glimpse of a large insect of the spider species, which ran off from the bananas and concealed itself behind some barrels. The appearance of the insect and the refuge from which it ran out suggested the idea that it was a tarantula, and for several minutes there was a search made for the strange creature, attended, however, with the utmost caution lest some one should be bitten. Presently the insect was discovered and so far disabled as to permit an examination. Last night opinion was divided as to whether or not it was a tarantula, but on consulting entomology this morning votes were gained on the affirmative side.

The fact is, the tarantula is nothing more than a spider at best, and takes its name from Taranto, in the South of Italy. The probability that this is a tarantula is strengthened by the fact that he was found among the bananas, and that the bananas came from Italy. But there is a fact in connection with the tarantula not in harmony with the impressions of the people, and that is that the bite of the insect produces a trifling effect about equal to the sting of a wasp, and that it is popularly supposed to be cured by music. So much for the tarantula.

Don't suffer from Dyspepsia. Take Shannon's Liver Regulator. It always cures.
