Stranger. Can you tell me where I'll find the Shoe Store?
 Citizen. There is no exclusive Shoe Store here.
 Stranger. What, no Shoe Store in a town of this size?
 Citizen. Well, we don't need a shoe store so badly as you might suppose Brown keeps—
 Stranger. Who's Brown?
 Citizen. I mean S. S. Brown & Co., the One Price Cash People. They keep a large stock of shoes than you will find in most of the exclusive shoe stores, and sell them cheaper than an exclusive shoe store could afford to. If you are hunting for shoes, Brown's, 232 and 234 South Elm street, is the place you want to find.

We've got the best $2.00 and $2.50 Men's Shoes you can find anywhere and we want to call your attention to our THREE DOLLAR LINE, five different styles, in Congress and Lace, Plain and Cap Toe, Broad and Narrow Lasts. If you like finer goods, see our $3.90, $5.00 and $6.00 Shoes, elegant, comfortable, fit like a glove and wearing qualities guaranteed.
 Our stock of Infants and Childrens Shoes, Boys and Girls School Shoes, and Ladies' and Misses' Fine Shoes is full and complete.
 Our Ladies' Dongola Kid Button Shoes at $1.60, $2.50 and $3.50 are very desirable and excellent values.
 Have you ever tried our famous Salem Seamless Half Hose? They are the best in the world for the price, ten cents, wearing fully equal to goods that cost you twenty-five.

Yours truly,

A DAY'S EVENTS.

WHAT OUR REPORTERS SEE AND HEAR.

And What Other People Tell Them—News Briefly Noted, Personal Notes &c.

The weather forecast for North Carolina today: Fair; colder by Tuesday night; northerly winds.

It has been a long time since the rude part of our population could be complained of for kicking up a dust.

Mr. C. H. Doughty is putting up an awning in front of his store, in preparation for the "sunny season."

Material is being placed on the Hospital lot in quantities today, and work has practically begun.

Mr. S. S. Brown, when on the eve of starting off today, closed the sale of a lot on East Washington street to Mr. A. T. Vernon.

Quite a large delegation from High Point and Archdale attended the Guilford County Sunday School Convention here yesterday.

The town is full of tobacco, and up to 10 o'clock this morning it was still rolling in. The warehouses had good breaks today, and prices, as usual, were good.

How proud did the first mocking bird appear when he opened his throat here this morning. But, poor bird, he may have to suspend his exhibition for some weeks yet.

Attorney General Davidson.

On learning that Attorney General Davidson was passing through the city this morning, Judge Shenck so insisted on that gentleman paying a visit to the Battle Ground, that he consented to do so, and the two went thither this morning on the C. F. & Y. V. train.

To Keep Out the Dust.

Mr. John Baker, the inventor and proprietor of the patent Store curtain fixtures says he intends to make a large curtain that will extend around town and keep all the dust out from every direction. But nobody has offered to shield us from the mud.

Bound For Fayetteville.

Among the large number of delegates and visitors who went to Fayetteville today to attend the State Sunday School Convention, we noticed the following: Judge R. P. Dick, E. P. Wharton, S. A. Kerr, R. G. Glenn, C. H. Ireland, R. W. Brooks, J. R. Mendenhall, Mrs. Fannie Ross, Mrs. J. F. Sharpe, Misses Emma Wharton, Bettie Caldwell and Ada Swain, from Greensboro; Mr. H. C. Brittain, Summerfield; Rev. Dr. Crowell, Trinity College; Rev. W. M. Curtis, Franklinsville, Mr. Reynolds, Illinois; Mrs. Crafts, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Crafts Last Night.

Mrs. Crafts arrived from Durham last night, and was ushered into the court house where, as had been announced, she delivered a lecture.

It will be remembered by many that Mrs. Crafts lectured in West Market Street Methodist church here last September, and it was with great pleasure that the large audience that had assembled to hear her last night heard her announce that she would, by request, repeat the lecture that she delivered at that time.

During the time which she spoke she held complete control of the audience, and the lecture, together with the blackboard illustrations which she gave, was indeed very interesting and instructive.

ABOUT FOLKS YOU KNOW.

Personal Notes of Interest Caught on the Fly.

Mr. W. S. Jessup went to Fayetteville today.

Mr. F. H. Matthews went to Ashboro today.

Rev. W. A. Bunch went East on last night's train.

Dr. Glenn went to High Point this morning on professional business.

Mr. S. D. Ramsey, who represents the National Garment Cutter Co., went to Winston this morning.

Mr. J. Van. Lindley went this morning to Southern Pines, and Mr. R. W. Brooks went down in the same direction.

It is understood that Mr. Ramsey who was so badly injured in the dynamite explosion some days ago is improving slowly.

Mr. Willie Jones, who was in attendance on the Y. M. C. A. Convention at Durham went up to his studies at Trinity this morning.

Miss Mary Wolle returned this morning from a month's visit to Randleman, much to the delight of her many friends in this city.

Mr. S. S. Brown has gone on a visit to Statesville, and Mr. Will Thomas has gone to Elkin where he will be engaged on some machine work.

Mr. Turner Rankin, of the Odell Hardware Company, went up towards Winston and Wilkesboro this morning in the interest of the company.

S. S. Convention—Afternoon Session.

There was an interesting afternoon session of the Convention yesterday, at which Rev. Mr. Lacy and Mrs. Crafts were to have spoken, but they failed to come. There was a 15 minutes' address by Rev. R. H. Wills on the needs of Country schools, and an address by Mr. Mary Woody on Temperance Work in the Sabbath school.

There were then talks by pastors, superintendents and others.

When the Question box was opened such questions as these were found:

Should pastors be required to teach? Answered in the negative.

Should boys and girls be in the same class? Mr. Reynolds gave answer, no. It was decided that Sunday Schools would best be denominational.

How to keep boys in School was responded to by Dr. Smith, who instanced the success of Judge Dillard in that field. The question was pronounced a hard one, nevertheless. One answer was—"Interest them as much as possible." Another, "Let the parents go to the School on Sabbath, and stay, as an example."

Death of Mr. Hughes.

Mr. M. T. Hughes, a well known citizen of Greensboro, died at 12:30 o'clock last night, after an illness of some weeks.

Mr. Hughes was a man of kind heart and generous impulse, although his views of matters were often ultra and did not harmonize with those of his friends on matters of policy. Anything like cloaking or deception was foreign from him, and his kindness was without ostentation. His age was 65 years. He had been a member of the M. E. Church, South, and though at times he seemed to have declined in his interest in religious matters, on his sick bed he gave full expression to his hope in Christ and His Salvation. He leaves only a wife and no children. The funeral will be held from the home, No. 213 East Washington St., at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

ALLIANCE ADDRESS.

THE DISTINGUISHED FARMERS' ALLIANCE

Orator, Ben Terrell, Addresses the People at the Court House To-day.

Mr. Ben Terrell, the distinguished Alliance orator, made an address in the court house here today, which was heard attentively by about 150 persons, beginning at 11 o'clock.

He began by saying that he felt the responsibility of his position as a representative of Alliance views. We have no right, he said, to be captious with men who differ from us. We cannot afford, he said, to inaugurate any scheme which will injure the merchant or inflict damage on the transportation interest of the country, because the farmer must pay the cost of all such damage. And he added, why, on the other hand, should merchant or lawyer throw any obstruction in the way of the farmers organization? The farmer is determined to lay aside every hurtful prejudice, which is a mere prejudice. He is not against any party, but will make his demands and stand by them. It does not know any party and has no color line. Would educate, if possible the colored man, that he too may break away from prejudice.

The Alliance is not democratic, neither can it be republican. It will never inaugurate a Third party, but such a party may come into existence. The times are pregnant with it, but if it comes it must be from the outside. If there be a Third party in '92 it will be because the farmer cannot otherwise obtain redress. This may shock the sentimentalities of certain men. The condition of the ownership of lands is alarming. To own the lands is to own the people. Foreigners and corporations should own no more lands. No man has a right to own land to the hurt of his fellow citizen, as would happen should there be a recurrence of what existed in Rome and in France at the time that they went down. A few owned the land, and the many were the tenants. Only 1/3 of the people of this country own the lands. This accumulation must be prevented. Money, corporations, transportation and such subjects were then patiently treated of and illustrated.

The Sub-treasury was treated of as a method of distributing money as advantageously for the farmer as for the gold man—Equal rights in that particular. Speaking of Vance, Vest, Carlisle, Mills, the speaker said they were not Statesmen, but contemptible demagogues. They are intelligent men and know the power of money to oppress. To follow the entire speech would occupy more space than we have at command. The speaker was as clear as the intricate nature of his subject would permit, and doubtless did ample justice to the principles of the organization represented. A meeting of the Alliance was announced for 2 o'clock, p. m., today, and a secret meeting tomorrow.

Old Field Fire.

During yesterday afternoon, there was an alarm of fire which proceeded from the premises of Messrs. Duffy and Wills, near Worth and Greene streets. The old field on the north was on fire, and it burned so fiercely that fears were entertained lest damage should be done, especially to the barns of Messrs. Wills and Duffy. Measures were taken, however, to suppress the fire and the damage passed by.
