WHAT OUR REPORTERS SEE AND HEAR

And What Other People Tell Them—News Briefly Noted, Personal Notes &c.

A force of hands was put to work this morning getting ready for the mining operations.

Alice M. Hinshaw, of this office, returns many thanks for a box of beautiful cut flowers received this morning.

Geo. Wilson's Minstrels passed through here this morning going South. They played in Winston last night.

The roof of the new First Presbyterian Church is on and awaits the arrival of the slaters, who are expected to night. The work has been delayed a day or two on their account.

Candidates for admission to practice law will be examined by the Supreme Court on Friday and Saturday, September 25 and 26th. The court will hear cases on the 28th.

Will all the members of the W. C. T. U. please meet at headquarters tomorrow afternoon (Thursday) at 4 o'clock to help transact important business which will come up before the meeting.

The different land companies are fixing up beautiful drives through and around their properties. One of the prettiest drives will be in the direction of Silver Run Park, through which streets and boulevards are being cut and graded.

Complaint comes to us that the WORKMAN is not delivered regularly to subscribers at High Point. We hope the Postmaster will look into the matter, as we intend that our subscribers shall get their papers. There is also complaint from the Asheboro office.

Up in a Balloon.

The Wilmington Messenger gives a thrilling account of a balloonist, Prof. Edward Jewell, who went up in a balloon at Carolina Beach. The trip up was made successfully, but the wind blew the balloon out to sea and came down one mile from shore. The plucky aeronaut swam to the shore, however, and arrived safe without a scratch.

His balloon was rescued by some parties in boats. He will make several other ascensions this week.

Morning Daily.

Mr. Al Fairbrother, editor and proprietor of the Durham Globe, has gone North to make arrangements to print a morning daily into which he is going to convert the Globe. We wish him success in his new enterprise, but he will find it expensive and uphill work to run such a daily as he would like in a town the size of Durham. There are a very few of the morning dailies in North Carolina making anything above their expenses.

However, if there is anybody that can run a morning daily successfully in Durham, Fairbrother is the man.

McGinty.

The Fishplate Clothing House has a fac simile of the original McGinty "with a wart on his nose" dressed in his best Sunday Clothes. See him

One of Buffalo Bill's spurious Indian chiefs, Red Eye by name, won the affections of a budding German lass, and now she is suing him for a divorce. Frau Red Eye says that Mr. Red Eye is no gentleman.

IN MEMORIAM.

The memory of the virtues, loves, helpfulness, and the happiness that departed loved ones gave us in life, is a precious legacy to those left behind, and should ever live in our hearts as an inspiration to emulation.

Mrs. Hannah M. Swain, mother of W. O. Swain, of Alamance County, and John A. Swain, of Greensboro, was born the 22nd of June 1820, and died at her home, near Altamahaw, the 14 of August, 1891, in the 72 year of her life.

She was well as usual, so far as known, up to the very minute of her death. She ate her dinner about 12 M, and after attending to other household matters, she had seated herself to do some needle work, when at about 2 p. m. she suddenly fell from her chair and scarcely breathed again. Truly, "in the midst of life, we are in death." She had often expressed the desire to die suddenly without sickness, or pain. Truly, in this respect her prayer was answered. Since she must go, we are thankful that she scarcely suffered at all, at the end of life.

She was left a widow about eight years ago, with the care of four children, but being deeply conscious of her responsible position, added to an unusual degree of industry and womanly discretion, she was well fitted to meet the demands upon her. Her leading purpose in life was to have been to train her children in virtue, truth and honesty, and in this purpose and effort, where so many so sadly fail, eminent success seems to have crowned her efforts. So that her children can and do praise her, and rise up and call her "blessed."

She had never made a public profession of religion, nor connected herself with the Church, but she knew of the saving power and love of Jesus and it is believed trusted in him. She was conscientious, and faithful, and many were her deeds of kindness. So her children have the consoling, comforting hope that Mother is at rest in heaven. Let it be our purpose and work in life to meet her there.

She had three children living at home with her at the time of her death. We laid her to rest, beside her husband, at Gilham's (Primitive Baptist) Church, using our impressive burial service, in the presence of a large company of sympathizing friends. I suppose she had not spent a night away from her home in the last ten years. Sad indeed it was to follow her to the grave, but sadder still going back home, and mother not there. Yes, you miss her, but Jesus is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother. When Mother is gone he is near, and will never leave nor forsake us, if we trust him.

Her children desire to express their grateful thanks to kind neighbors, and friends for their sympathy, and help in this hour of sad bereavement. May we all meet in heaven,
August 17, 1891. A. FRIEND.

A Charlotte Negro Killed.

Alex. Caldwell, a Charlotte negro, was killed in a fight at Central, on the Air Line road, last night, and his body will arrive here on the 7 p. m. train. Alexander was a fireman on the Air Line road. Last night at Central he got into a quarrel with another negro, and the quarrel was brief, for Alexander's opponent drew a pistol and shot Alexander dead. The slayer escaped. Charlotte News.
