LODGED IN JAIL!

CHARLES REYNOLDS AND MARION HEADEN

THE MURDERERS OF SOLATH IEL SWAIN LOCKED UP.

THEIR STATEMENTS SHOW THEIR CONNECTION WITH THE CRIME.

MONEY AND THE PISTOL FOUND IN THE POSSESSION OF REYNOLDS.

Sheriff John W. Cook arrived here last night at about 8 o'clock, having in custody Charles Reynolds, white, and Marion Headen, colored, charged with the murder of Solath Swain on Tuesday last, and were placed in jail.

STATEMENT OF THE PRISONERS.

Charles Reynolds, the white man, informed Sheriff Cook that the murder was committed by a negro by the name of William Long, who had been driving the omnibus for the McAdoo House in this city. He said that he saw Long creep up near to the point where old man Swain was sitting and place the pistol against the door facing and fire. That as Long fired he (Reynolds) ran and that Long saw him and gave him a handful of money and the pistol and told him to keep his mouth shut.

He told the sheriff that he would find the money and pistol in a box in his house. Long, having the morning he had been working in the woods with Headen and that Long passed along the road while they were at work. That he went by Mr. Coble's house (where the murder took place) on his way to the house of a neighbor, to which place he was driving a calf.

Marion Headen, the colored man, said he was working in the woods with Reynolds. That he saw this man Long pass, that he knew him well, that he married a cousin of his. That he remained in the woods and did not go towards the house, which was 4 or 5 hundred yards away.

These statements were made before they arrived here. Upon Reynolds' statement Sheriff Cook went in search of the money and pistol, which he discovered as described by Reynolds. It was a .33 calibre pistol and had one empty chamber. He found $120 in money.

STATEMENTS IN JAIL.

After the prisoners were placed in jail Sheriff Cook went down to the McAdoo House and saw William Long, colored, and asked him to go to the jail with him and explained to him what he wanted.

He was taken into Reynolds' cell first. The sheriff asked Reynolds if he knew him (Long). He replied that he thought he was the man that did the shooting.

When he was asked if he knew him and what his name was, he said he that he thought he was the man. When he was asked the third time he replied that the man's name was Reeves.

When the sheriff asked him if he did not say the man who did the shooting was named Long, he replied that he had been asleep and that the man was named Long. He then described the shooting, etc., as detailed in his first statement.

Long was then taken in Headen's cell. Long knew Headen and Headen knew Long. They exchanged views ties, and upon being asked if he saw Long on the day of the murder Headen replied that he saw Long go along the road in the direction of Mr. Coble's That he knew nothing about the murder.

Headen told a WORKMAN reporter that on the day of the murder Reynolds went off towards Mr. Coble's and that he wore a white straw hat, that some time thereafter he returned hatless, that he had a pistol in his pocket and that Reynolds told him he had made a raise.

The man Long, whom they charged with the murder, was driving the McAdoo bus in this city about the time of the crime and of course knew nothing of it. It was evidently a concerted scheme to lay it on Long, and Headen was the man who did the scheming, as Reynolds did not know Long and Headen was well acquainted with him. It is safe to say that the Sheriff has two of the perpetrators of the awful crime. It is thought there was another party or parties engaged in the crime with them.

May Speak in North Carolina.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., Aug. 16.—Grover Cleveland was agreeably surprised when F. M. Simmons, of North Carolina, sent in his card at Gray Gables Saturday morning. Mr. Cleveland had not seen this distinguished member of the Fiftyeth Congress for some time, and both enjoyed the visit.

Mr. Simmons is the chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of North Carolina and practically the whole campaign is in his hands. He came to Gray Gables to ask Mr. Cleveland to address the people of his State during the campaign. His arguments were forcible, and while Mr. Cleveland seriously considered the appeal, he could not accept Mr. Simmons' invitation, neither did he absolutely decline it. Mr. Cleveland stated to his visitor that he had not as yet formulated his plans for the future and could not give a decided answer.—New York Herald.

The Ladies of the King's Daughters have put up a very pretty and comfortable looking awning over the front door of the hospital building, which those who pass cannot fail to admire.

SPEAKING OF YOU

Capt. I. M Odell, of Concord, Mr. J. H. Ferree, of Randleman, and others are here today in attendance on the Director's Meeting of Greensboro Female College.

Our good brother Daniel Worth is back home from the State Convention of the People's party, and seemed much enthused with the dimensions of the Convention. He has now completed the round of conventions and can better judge how the cat is to jump.

Col. Jas. E. Boyd, who went to Statesville yesterday has returned to his home in this city, and is here today.

Miss Charlotte Brown, of Hillsboro, arrived here this morning for a visit to her sister, Mrs. Pritchett and Mrs. Wolfe.

Mrs. H. N. Brown, of Hillsboro passed through this morning on her way to Asheville.

Rev. C. Durham, D. D., was here this morning on his way to the Association near Mocksville.

Capt. J. B. Hussey, of Washington, D. C., is back in the city from a visit to Raleigh.

Collector J. B. Eaves went home today from a visit to Raleigh. He was a looker on from the stable loft on the late third party masquerade in Raleigh and goes home with a republican idea in his pocket.

POLITICS.

Since the Third party State Convention at Raleigh some days ago, it is believed, and with good reason, that the party itself is rapidly losing ground. It was not half bad that the convention could muster such a large numerical force with such a small aggregate of mental ability and moral courage. The availability of the convention as a Republican annex was so discounted by the exhibition on the occasion that, it is believed that the Republicans fully decided on putting out a ticket of their own, after they had taken in the show.

Third parties are but an experiment, at best, and the prospect is that they will peter out in a short time, leaving the corpse of the Farmers' Alliance as a monument to the body of the People's party.

The Alliance was a good thing, but its members became victims of designing men.

Mr. B. Voltz, of South Greensboro is now supplying his customers in the city with the choicest of grapes, grown on his own vines. We have tried them and had them capital.

DEATH OF A MILLIONAIRE.

Mr. J. A. Bostwick, the millionaire of New York State, died of heart disease under excitement while a raging fire was burning up one of his stables, early yesterday morning. He was giving orders and was overcome and died in a few minutes.

The coachman and footman both lost their lives, and eight carriage horses and much other valuable property were burned.

It is supposed that the two men who were burned to death had been drinking and carelessly handed some matches in their room in the stable building.

In reply Mr. Dana says that his professional engagements will not permit him to undertake the work, and he heartily recommends as a person every way qualified to write the article, Senator David B. Hill.
