GEN. WEAVER.

THE SPOOFING TO DAY.

There was quite a boisterous time in the courthouse here today.

Gen. J. B. Weaver, Presidential candidate on the Third party ticket, made a speech of moderate length, which was followed by a longer one from his female assistant, Mrs. Lease. This writer was unable to get into the room where the speaking occurred, and could only hear a sentence occasionally.

Everyone seemed to think well of Mrs. Lease's speech, as to its ability, and an intelligent gentleman remarked to the writer that it was a summing up of the grievances of the farmers and the poorer classes of the people, but he added that he thought that such speeches are calculated to do harm by working upon the prejudices of the people and causing them to anticipate some great evil. It is well that so many of our fellow citizens are conservative and duly sober and have the perception to see through the designs of the Third party leaders, who, under the guise of special friendship for the farmers, are leading them down to a condition poorer and worse by far.

Mayor John J. Martin of Wheeling, W. Va. was shot Monday while holding court by R. P. Harr, the keeper of a "speak easy."

Yesterday was an eventful day for the strikers at Carnegie's Mills near Pittsburgh. Frequent quarrels and serious fights between the union and non-union men and five break downs in the works caused several departments to shut down are among the occurrences.

SPEAKING OF YOU

Capt. J. M. Odell and Mrs. Odell, who went to Durham yesterday morning, returned to Concord last night. The captain had a letter from his son, W. R. Odell, yesterday, which gave a favorable account of the party, now travelling in Europe. Contrary to what we here might suppose, the cholera is less talked of and less feared in England than on this side of the Atlantic, and the party have not been inconvenienced on account of the disease.

Major Finger went up to Newton last night.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. King went to Danville last night to attend the funeral of the late Charles Holcombe.

The Misses Check, accompanied by their sister, Mrs. Woggoman, and her children and the three little children of Mr. Eaton and their brother, Mr. Pleas Check, came up on the train from Mebane last night where they have been summering and are here for the winter. Tinsley is at Chapel Hill, as a student there, and Miss Sudie is teaching a school not far from Mebane, in Orange county. Mrs. Woggoman will spend some time here and then proceed to her home at Charlotte.

Mrs. Joe Albright, who left here with her three children several months ago to visit her relations in Canada returned to her home here on the train last night and has come back to stay. The section in which she has been visiting is over 500 miles north of Montreal, and must be cool.

The meetings at the Methodist Protestant Church continue nightly. Rev. J. R. Ball preached last night to a good and strictly attentive audience.

Miss Martha Driver, of Norfolk, Va., who was at one time a pupil in G. F. Colloge, arrived here last night, on her way home from Shelby, and spent today in the city.

Col. A. B. Andrews went north last night on his special car.

Mr. Lemuel Snelling, of Paducah, Ky., who was returning home from a visit to his old home in Wake county, accompanied by his nephew, got left here last night for lack of information about the trains, and had to lie over until today.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Lasley, of Burlington, who have been north to purchase goods, were at Philadelphia last night and reached here on the belated train at noon today. Col. A. K. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, made his great speech on the Tariff to a vast audience, in reply to Major McKinley's speech delivered in Philadelphia last Friday night. Major McKinley had declined the challenge of Col. McClure to discuss the question of the Tariff in public debate, and Col. McClure chose last night as the time to answer Major McKinley. Mr. Lasley, who went early to the hall, failed to find admittance, and says that while the throng in attendance was immense, a number five times as great was turned away for lack of room. Mr. Lasley understood that several manufacturers who were present and heard Col. McClure were favorably impressed with his views on the Tariff.

Mrs. Curtis and her daughter Miss Maud, of Franklinsville, have been here today.

We learn from the Pittsburg Leader, a Republican paper, that the colored voters of Pennsylvania are organizing themselves into Democratic clubs, and a State convention of colored Democrats is soon to be held at Philadelphia.

A colored Democratic club of one hundred has been started in Pittsburg. This is done under the leadership of M. J. Jackson, a colored man of Madison courthouse, Va.

Come in and see, at Kirkpatrick's furniture rooms the finest side-boards ever seen in Greensboro.

Dr. Exum says that he will get nineteen twentieths of the colored vote of the State, on the ground that the negroes believe that the Republicans are an annex of the Democratic party. Crazy.

When Mr. Denmark, one of the chief men of the People's party at Raleigh, and one of the owners of the Progressive Farmer, began to gather up his forces here today, the first thing that turned up was that he couldn't find the committee.

A young gentleman of Greensboro, who was at Roanoke, Va., quite recently says the Democrats there are thoroughly aroused, and that a man joined the Democratic Club, who had been a Republican all his life.

Some stranger on the depot platform this morning got into quite a warm war of words with a gentleman here of decided democratic proclivities, and the contest collected so many bystanders together that a policeman had to interfere.

Mrs. Laase, the People's Party lady orator, is a native of Ireland and not of Kansas, as reported.
