SPLENDID TELEPHONE SERVICE

The new long distance telephone service to be inaugurated Monday from Waynesville to Asheville and Canton is expected to greatly expedite business from Waynesville to these points.

Miss Weaver, the manager, explains that these toll calls will be handled just like local calls and that subscribers calling by number will be connected with the distant point while they wait at the telephone, just as though they were calling a number in Waynesville.

In order to render this express service it was necessary to increase and rearrange the equipment in the central office and to provide additional long distance circuits to the points involved.

There is heavy telephone traffic during the summer season between Waynesville and these nearby communities and a growing demand for telephone service on a no-delay basis.

Miss Weaver believes that the new service will fully meet this need and that it will prove popular as soon as subscribers become familiar with it. She points out that in order to use this service and take advantage of the lower rates it is necessary to call by number. When a particular person is wanted the call will be handled by long distance in the usual manner.

THEIR SERVICE RECORD LIVES ON.

Two men prominent in world affairs have passed away. One a leader of organized labor, the other the head of one of the world's greatest railroad systems.

Both rose to commanding positions by hard work and ability.

One, after 20 years as a locomotive engineer was made President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He opened the eyes of labor to the possibilities of using its financial resources in the banking business. He was labor's first banker and labor's greatest banker. Warren Stone would have made a success in any calling.

James Kruttschnitt was a railroad genius and an exceptional scholar. He was a walking encyclopedia on rail and transportation questions, and actually gave his life to upbuilding a railroad system. He was the dean of American railroad executives.

It is hard to replace such characters, but the mere fact that they lived and carried on means that they transmitted their spirit of endeavor to others who will make even greater strides in the interest of the public welfare as the result of the training they secured under such master minds.

FAIR AND SOUND COMPENSATION.

Speedy and adequate compensation for an injured workman is a sound and basic principle that must apply to all human industries in the interest of both employer and employee.

It is not a fair test of a workingman's compensation law to base an argument upon an isolated case of an injured workman having difficulty in securing compensation.

The compensation laws in different states all differ in some respects and all differ in efficiency of administration.

Very few states have what is called a complete state monopoly of industrial accident insurance or exclude corporate financial companies from competing with the state.

The statutory principle employed in the interest of industries and laborers is compulsory compensation in all hazardous employments.

An ideal industrial insurance law should provide that compensation apply in all such employments in case of injury, regardless of whether the state or a stock company carries the insurance.

A compensation law centering around a state fund as the all-important thing is a weak spot in any industrial insurance system.

In nine-tenths of the states the law compels compensation and permits insurance in any sound way that the employer selects and on the best terms in the interest of the payroll and those who get the money.

A workingmen's compensation system that requires all causality insurance to be carried by the state and all compensation to come from a state fund is unfair, unsound and socialistic.

SERVICE AND COURTESY PAY.

Service and courtesy are two leading agencies for success. Mercantile and public service organizations recognize their value in business. Following rules should be emphasized:

When the customer comes in with a complaint, don't send him or her from pillar to post; that irritates.

Classify all complaints. Study the cause of complaints; eradicate them at their source.

Completeness of your reply is only your reply is the other half.

Be polite and pleasant, thus making the party glad he or she called on you.

Show individuality to each customer; make him feel he is "Mr. Simpson" and not just one of the throng. Get the other fellow's point of view. Don't argue, inform.

DEMOCRATIC PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

One of the greatest issues before the American people is whether our public school system shall remain democratic, or whether it shall be used more and more in the direction of equipping a professional class.

The newspapers are full of protests that high schools, colleges and universities emphasize too much academic and professional equipment, when about nine-tenths of the citizenry of our country must work for a living in industries, in homes and on farms.

A remarkable union high school in California—the San Mateo-Burlingame district—is attracting wide attention of educators by giving employment to more than the high school boys outside of school hours at good wages, doing all the work of maintaining the school plant.

For about 15 years several hundred high school boys have built new buildings, maintained all repairs and kept the grounds in a model condition—doing actual labor and learning the ordinary trades that make community life possible—Principal Glascock has accomplished this and the community likes it.

His ideal is a useful contented self-respecting citizen, who can earn an honest living, build a home and support himself and family.

SUGGESTED RULES FOR SUCCESSFULLY OPENING AND OPERATING A NEWSPAPER IN N. C.

1. Opening: (a) Secure a second-hand, one-cylinder engine of the internal combustion type, using gasoline as fuel and dry cell batteries for ignition, which will give you an inexpensive and satisfactory source of power. The right type will not give you a minute's trouble and will run into four.

(b) Buy a rebuilt type-setting machine on the installment plan. This will afford a safe deposit for surplus cash and absolutely prevent your wife from spending it all on clothes.

(c) If you intend to run an eight-page paper, be sure to buy a two-page press. This will save valuable floor space and insure making the mails; it will also keep your employees employed. The speed should not exceed 500 per hour for best results and the fly should deliver two out of three papers—one on the table and one on the floor.

(d) Buy type, lead, galleys, etc., from the nearest second-hand dealer they satisfy.

(e) You will not find it necessary to buy or build quarters for your paper. Any of the leading citizens will be glad to furnish a suitable building at a small rental and will rearrange and repair upon request.

(f) Operating: (a) Begin first by securing a supply of paper, ink, etc. Any reputable supply house will furnish these items promptly—bill of lading attached.

(b) Employ a linotype operator. If possible, secure a man drawing government compensation. They will work cheaply, are careful and painstaking and can spell and punctuate on their own hook. The saving in wages on this item will easily take care of the expense of magazines, mats and back-laws. Nor will it be necessary to purchase additional typewriters.

(c) Employ a printer. Get one who is familiar with and accustomed to every variety of hook. Then he won't get killed experimenting.

(d) Employ a pressman. Get one with long legs so he can wade through the stock on the floor. If possible prevent him washing his hands except at quitting time. Never mind the waste sheet—the customer's orders.

(e) You are now fully equipped and ready for business. Open your subscription books—and get the big surprise. Solicit some advertising and a super-shock.

(f) Your congressman has probably written you. Publish his enclosed article.

(g) Be courteous to candidates—they'll pay if elected.

(h) Start a strong editorial page—and get boycotted.

(i) Give a half page ad to the Ladies' Aid Oyster Supper—they won't charge you anything extra for you oysters.

(j) Publish all poems, juvenile and otherwise. Also obituaries. This gives you great prestige—in Asia.

(k) Boogie your town—and get your rent raised.

(l) Play up the farmer—and get paid off in potatoes.

(m) Jump on the delinquent officials—and get sued for libel.

(n) Join the Alabama Press Association—and get sentenced to Foley (Grand Finale): Hook up with the American Press Association, 225 West Thirty-ninth Street—and save income tax.

(Close Harmony) Oh, Fireman, Save My Child!

TO CONDUCT ART SCHOOL.

Mme. L. N. Vassilieva, famous Russian dancer, will interview those who desire to study with her toe dancing, fancy and ballroom dancing, next Friday, July tenth, at the Hotel Gordon from three to four in the afternoon.

Mme. Vassilieva and her representative, Miss Elena de Saxe, Russian Violinist, and director of the Elena de Saxe School for Violin and United Arts of Washington, D. C., will both teach in Waynesville this summer, coming from Asheville, where they have their quarters in the Manor.

Mme. Vassilieva was formerly connected with the Imperial Russian Ballet in Petrograd, Russia, and is one of the few who have enjoyed the training made famous by Mme. Palova, Nejinsky Karsavina and other famous dancers. Mme. Vassilieva came to this country with Diaghileff Ballet Russe and toured the United States with the company with which Mme. Pavlova appeared also on her first American tour several years prior to Mme. Vassilieva. Adv. Itc

CRABTREE ITEMS.

Dr. R. L. Walker is having a new residence built.

C. E. Williams and G. C. Palmer are very busy these early summer days collecting and slaughtering lambs for the Asheville market. They delivered thirty-six carcasses in Asheville one day last week.

The farmers in the Crabtree section express themselves as highly pleased with the wheat crop which only a few days ago they finished putting in shock. They say the yield and the quality of the grain is the best they have been favored with for several years.

N. P. Walker is making extensive repairs on his mill dam. He hopes to have it in shape soon so as to resume grinding again.

THE NORTH CAROLINA PRESS.

Annual poem read by J. D. Boone, Waynesville Mountaineer, July 8, at N. C. Press Association in Asheville.

We are gathered here in Wonderland
Where mountain vales and peaks are grand;
Where earth and sky forever meet,
Where lowland friends each summer greet
The cooling breezes as they blow,
The sparkling brooklets as they flow,
The rhododendron and the fern,
Which meet the eye at every turn.

Up here, so close to God's blue sky,
Where peaks and altitudes are high,
The members of the "North State" press
Have surcease from their daily stress.
They come for pleasure, come for rest,
And come to know what things are best;
Best for their readers and themselves,
Best for their copy-hooks and shelves.

Now, as we give advice and plan,
We mustn't forget our fellow-man
Who reads our papers, day and week,
Whose columns they never fail to seek
Advice for action, day by day,
In buying or selling or making hay,
Or meeting together in Church or State,
Or voting on questions, small or great.

The press of our state in all past years
Has cause for neither shame nor tears,
For it has stood high upon the walls
And sounded loudest clarion calls
To its readers whenever danger arose
From native attacks or foreign foes.
It has stood for Progress in Nation and State
It marched well in front and was never late.

So now, as we face the future days,
Let most of our columns be full of praise
For those who toiled and those who fought,
Those who have won, those who have wrought
In battles for Progress in this fair land,
Who never yet faltered or failed to stand.
Let us follow their leading, wherever it goes,
In spite of Old Satan and all of our foes.
