

SINGULAR FLORIDA TOWN.

Has 1,500 People, and Is Located Inside a Navy Yard.

The existence of a singular town is brought to notice by the introduction of Senator Mallory of Florida of a bill to provide public schools, one for white, the other for colored, children in the town of Warrington, Fla. The reference of the bill to the Secretary of the Navy for his opinion on its merits is apparently unusual and unnecessary, but it is really highly proper, as the facts about Warrington show.

At the close of the Civil War the business of the navy yard at Pensacola was considerable, and the number of employes was large. Many of the persons working in the yard "squatted" upon the unoccupied land comprised within the naval reservation, and obtained permission from the department to build homes thereon. The number of home builders increased even after the temporary activity of the navy yard was succeeded by the lethargy that came over the navy and lasted for nearly twenty years. In time, the group of houses assumed proportions of a town; then it took a name, and became Warrington. The Postoffice Department recognized its rights, gave it a postoffice, which later it made a money-order office, and now the town has some 300 houses, six churches, several stores, and a population of more than 1,500 persons.

The commander of the Pensacola navy yard rules the town; the inhabitants pay no taxes, and have no votes. The place is kept in order by the captain of the ward, and "policed" as the rest of the naval reservation is. The bureau of yards and docks installed and maintained the electric lights and the sewer system, though very few of the inhabitants are employed by the government. By far a greater part of those who thus enjoy the nation's care are engaged in fishing or in farming for a living.

Now Senator Mallory thinks that in addition to providing light, clean streets and sanitation of the most improved type, the government should also provide schools for the children of the untaxed dwellers in Warrington, and accordingly introduced his bill.

The Elevator Car.

The general form and proportion of cars in New York are greatly at fault. In the first place their carrying capacity is commonly fixed by some structural arrangement of the steel cage, some architectural fancy or an assumption of a passenger per floor. None of these elevators have any bearing on the proper proportions. When a properly proportioned service is maintained the desirable area of the car is affected more by its shape than by its capacity. Nearly all cars are too deep, and narrow entrances are the rule, so that time and travel are lost by passengers struggling in and out. Cars whose width exceeds their depth and the doors of which fold back as nearly the full opening as possible, are to be seen in most of the leading office buildings. The deep embrasures in which many car entrances are placed are also a distinct tax on the service, obstructing the prompt access of passengers and the vision of the operator.—Cassier's Magazine.

Mrs. Sophie Binns, President Young People's Christian Temperance Union, Fruitvale, Bal., Cured of Congestion and Inflammation of the Ovaries by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Eighteen months ago I was a pretty sick woman. I had felt for some months that I gradually grew weaker, but finally I had such severe pains I could hardly stand it. I had taken cold during menstruation and this developed into congestion of the ovaries and inflammation, and I could not bear to walk or stand on my feet. The doctor recommended an operation which I would not hear of. One of my friends advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a trial. Can you imagine my feeling when within two months I felt considerably better, my general health was improved, and my pains had entirely disappeared. I kept taking it six weeks more and am now enjoying the best of health, thanks to you. Yours truly, MRS. SOPHIE BINNS."
